JAPANESE TURN RUSSIAN FLANKS

Follow This With Terrific Charges to Smash Kuropatkin's Center.

DUEL OF ARTILLERY

Report to Czar Declares That the Enemy's Attack Was Repelled.

RUSSIANS RETIRE TO NORTH

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The following dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated July 2, has been received by the emperor:

"Reconnaissances carried out daily of late between Kai-Chou and Siakhotan showed the summits of the heights north of Kai-Chou to be strongly occupied and fortified. At 5 in the morning, July 23, the enemy, two divisions strong, assumed the offensive. Along the line of outposts to the south of the enemy developed a division of infantry, concentrating his main body toward Datchapu (12 miles north of Kai-Chou) and keeping his cavalry on our left flank near the railroad. His advance was effected slowly and at intervals was accompanied by a heavy fire from 30 guns, which our rear guard batteries successfully answered. The Japanese fire at first was directed at the heights which gradually were evacuated by our outposts. Our sharpshooters, with the rear guard, opened fire upon the advancing Japanese infantry, and at a favorable moment Col. Lesch withdrew our rear guard to a new position at Datchapu and our batteries, which had several times changed their positions, continued the duel with the enemy's artillery, also firing into the infantry columns.

Japanese Advance Again.

"At about 9:30 in the morning the Japanese began a forward movement, at first with three battalions from the Tsinsakle valley. In this direction our forces occupied a fortified advance position. Toward 3 in the afternoon the enemy had upwards of a division of infantry, and at the same moment columns of considerable strength, amounting to a brigade of infantry, appeared west of the railroad. At about 4 o'clock the enemy ceased to advance and extended his main body.

"Toward evening, July 23, our troops having left detachments to hold the fortified positions, bivouacked in the various positions assigned to them, with the view of a possible rear guard engagement. Our losses have not been definitely ascertained, but according to the advices at hand they were not considerable. Owing to the extreme heat there were a number of cases of sunstroke among our men.

"At nightfall our advanced posts reoccupied Tanchi, to the southeast. The night passed quietly.

"At 5 o'clock on the morning of July 24 an exchange of shots began between outposts in the vicinity of Tanchi. All was quiet on the Kai-Chou side, and there was no further news.

Turn Russian Flanks.

"On July 21 the Japanese occupied a height facing Phkan pass. This interfered considerably with our observation outpost service and consequently, on the same day, a Russian force occupied the pass.

"On the following morning Lieut.-Col. Dementieff, commanding a detachment, determined to occupy the southern slope of the hill. This was done about noon. That afternoon the Japanese attacked and turned our left wing. Then taking advantage of the formation of the country they began to turn our right. Other companies of Dementieff's force hastened to his assistance, to which several companies were also sent from the nearest points. These troops, as they arrived, helped to check the turning operations of the enemy who finally brought into action, however, as much as a brigade of infantry with which he pressed our troops and turned both our flanks.

"Our men, exposed to a terrible fire, retired step by step, but at the same time offering a stubborn resistance to the enemy who ceased to attack at 7 o'clock on the evening of July 22, after occupying Phkan pass.

"Our casualties in wounded were Capt. Minime and 49 men. The number of killed is not yet known. On July 23 all was quiet in that district.

Artillery Duel Opens.

"On the river Caitsyk, Japanese troops of the guards were posted at very close intervals. Along the left bank, from Bentszykou, Yantzinchuan and Mitza, respectively, each about 1,000 infantry with machine guns.

"On the Saimatsza-Mukden road the enemy, July 22, took the offensive in considerable force toward Saimatsza and Shaossyra.

"On July 24 the enemy resumed activity on the south front and a fight began on the left flank with a fusillade from the outposts near Tau-Chi. For the next 12 hours the enemy maintained a heavy and uninterrupted artillery fire. This artillery duel went in our favor, the Japanese batteries operating against the villages of Tiaussiza-Tung and Sau-Tzai-Tze being reduced to silence by 4 p. m.

"Simultaneously with the artillery cannonade the enemy made a vigorous attack in the direction of Da-Fang-Cheng with the object of breaking up the center of our position. Our troops repelled all attacks, and we retained all our positions. The battle ended at 9:30 in the evening. Details of the fighting and of the extent of our losses are not yet available.

"The commander of our troops who had sustained the enemy's attacks for two days and repelled them all, after giving his men some rest, began to retire to the north without being molested by the enemy."

BOTH BRITISH BOATS

English Cabinet Holds Another Meeting to Discuss Sinking of Knight Commander.

CZAR DEFENDS HIS COURSE

Liverpool, July 26.—The Alfred Holt Company, owners of the British steamer Calchas, bound from Puget sound to Japan, have received a telegram from Hongkong reporting that the Calchas has been seized by the Vladivostok squadron.

SEATTLE, WASH., July 26.—The Calchas cleared from Tacoma at midnight, July 8, and sailed from Victoria on the 10th. She had a cargo of 4,297 tons, including 7,846 pieces of timber, 23,300 sacks of flour, 70 tons of machinery, 10 tons of cotton and 50 tons of tobacco. She was in port from June 24. She was to stop at Kobe, Hongkong, Shanghai, and Manila before proceeding to Liverpool. Capt. W. T. Hannah of Liverpool is master of the vessel.

SUEZ, July 26.—The Peninsular & Oriental Steamship Company's steamer Formosa, has just arrived here flying the Russian naval flag and with a prize crew on board. She was captured in the Red sea by the Smolensk of the Russian volunteer fleet. She is said to have on board the Red sea pilots who have been on the Smolensk and St. Petersburg, as well as the Ardova's crew.

TOKYO, July 26.—2 p. m.—Sir Claude MeDonald, British minister to Japan, has instituted a searching inquiry into the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander, by the Russian Vladivostok squadron. He will take the testimony of the crew of the Knight Commander and examine the officers of the steamer Tainan, which brought the Knight Commander's crew into port.

LONDON, July 26.—The British government is taking energetic action in the case of the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander by the Vladivostok squadron. Those aware of the feelings of the ministry said all the members of the cabinet are in accord regarding the principle of the inviolability of innocent neutral shipping, as well as upon the principle that a neutral ship cannot be destroyed even if carrying contraband of war. The demands which will be made upon the Russian government will include compensation to the owners of the ship and to the owners of the goods on board the Knight Commander, an apology for the action of the Russian cruisers, and an agreement that instructions be given which will prevent a repetition of such action.

British ship owners are up in arms over the dangers which shipping is now running, and are bombarding the government with representations looking to the thorough protection of their interests.

Arthur Cohen, one of the counsel for the British government in the Alabama claims arbitration case, now a judge of the Cinque ports and standing counsel for the university of Cambridge, said tonight:

Calls It Scandalous.

"It is scandalous, this reckless seizure and destruction of neutral shipping by Russian vessels. The sinking of the Knight Commander was totally illegal. Wheaton, in his work on international law states explicitly that if the prize is a neutral ship no circumstances will justify her destruction before condemnation; that if the vessel is destroyed, full compensation must be given to her owner, but that owners of contraband of war on board the ship, if any, have no substantial ground for complaint because the destruction of the vessel does not injure them. Had the Knight Commander been condemned as a good prize, the owners of the contraband cargo would consequently suffer no loss by the sinking of the ship. Owners of neutral goods on ships are entitled to compensation as are the owners of the vessels.

"Russia may advance the contention that the Knight Commander was carrying contraband of the character of which her owner was aware, and that he therefore was guilty of an offense against international law. This would not justify the sinking of the Knight Commander, nor would the unwillingness of the Russian commander to reduce the complement of his squadron in order to furnish a prize crew be an excuse for such action. That was the misfortune of the Russians may be. It seems to me, it is time for the United States and Great Britain to say that they will not allow this extension of the rules relating to contraband of war or this extraordinary interference with neutral commerce."

Cabinet Discusses Seizures.

LONDON, July 26.—The foreign office had not heard of the seizure of the steamer Formosa this afternoon. While expressing regret it says the only possible explanation consists in the fact that the Russian government's orders to cease interfering with neutral vessels have not yet reached the commanders of the volunteer fleet steamers, as the Russian government has given the most explicit pledge that there shall be no more Red sea seizures.

The sinking of the Knight Commander was fully discussed at a meeting of the cabinet today. Before the meeting Count Benchendorff, the Russian ambassador, was closeted with Foreign Secretary Lansdowne.

Premier Balfour, replying to a question in the house of commons today, said the government was not aware of any convention concluded in 1901 between Turkey and Russia providing special conditions for the passage of the Dardanelles by spe-

WILL PERFORM MIRACLE IN "RING-CURSED" STATE

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, PA., July 26.—"We are going to perform a miracle in this ring-cursed state, as our political enemies delight to call us, and we will show them that we can carry out every promise made concerning the new capitol."

Ex-Gov. Stone of Pittsburgh made this statement at the close of the regular monthly meeting today of the state capitol commission, of which he is president.

"The work is in excellent condition," added the former governor. "It will certainly be a fine building and a credit to the state. What is more, it will be finished on time, and will be completed with the appropriation of $4,000,000."

Asked his opinion of the proposed coping to be built around Capitol park, Col. Stone said he knew nothing about it, as that was a matter which was entirely in the hands of the board of public building and grounds.

"What the commission wants to do," he continued, "is to build this new capitol so that it will be a credit to the state. If they choose to fence it in, or wall it in, or hide it in any way, we cannot help that, but I shouldn't think it is their intention."

The commission inspected the capitol and reported that the work was progressing satisfactorily, with every evidence that it will be ready for use by the next legislature.

NEGRO KILLS MOTHER, WIFE AND HIMSELF

Triple Tragedy at South River, N. J., Cause of Which is Unknown.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 26.—Henry Holmes, aged 27, colored, killed his mother and his wife at their home, Cemetery avenue, South River, tonight shortly after 7 o'clock. He used a double-barreled breach-loading shotgun. Then he reloaded the gun and started down Main street for the store of F. W. Bissett, where he was employed. As he turned in the yard to the shed, Samuel Watts and Stephen Buckalow, other employes, came toward him. He pointed the gun at them and ordered them to stand back. As soon as he reached the shed he put the muzzle of the gun to his side and fired. The entire load entered his heart and he died instantly.

The causes leading up to the tragedy are a mystery. Holmes had worked in South River for two years and before that time had been a farm hand.

CURB BETTING FAVORS ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Special.)—On the Broad street curb today Bunnell & Buchanan bet $1,000 that Roosevelt will be elected to $700 put up on Parker by H. R. Sadler. After this bet had been closed Bunnell & Buchanan offered to make another bet of $1,000 to $750 on Roosevelt, but they were not taken up. William Cross offered to bet $325 to $500 on Parker, or at odds of 6½ to 10.

Will Close Chicago Race Tracks.

CHICAGO, July 26.—After indicting 24 bookmakers this afternoon, the grand jury ordered Sheriff Barrett to take immediate steps to stop all gambling at the race tracks in Cook county. Sheriff Barrett promised he would comply. This will mean the closing of the Harlem, Hawthorne and Worth race tracks. Among the bookmakers indicted were Fred Cook, owner of English Lad; Steve L'Hommedieu, Marcus Cartwright, B. J. Weiler, Barney Schreiber and William Applegate.

FORAKER WILL TAKE A HAND IN CAMPAIGN

Senator Believes Roosevelt Will Be Elected by a Big Majority.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Senator Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio came here today and will remain a few days previous to his departure for Hawaii, where he goes for a vacation trip. He will be absent about two months, but will return to this country in time to take an active part in the presidential campaign. He is expected to help roll up another big majority in Ohio and on his return he will likely make some speeches in California and other western states.

Mr. Foraker takes a very optimistic view of the present situation. He believes that Roosevelt will be elected by a big majority and cannot see on what grounds the Democrats base their hopes of winning this fall. As for Ohio, Mr. Foraker says that the situation there is largely in the hands of Senator Charles Dick. Last year Mr. Dick was instrumental in rolling up a majority for the Republican ticket of over 125,000, the high tide of Republicanism in the Buckeye state. Senator Foraker hopes the party will be able to repeat the performance this fall.

TRAMPS KILL OPERATOR; FATALLY WOUND OFFICER

A Mob Twice Tries to Lynch Two Men at Williamson, W. Va.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WILLIAMSON, W. VA., July 26.—(Special.)—Late last night Special Policeman Ote Riley saw two tramps hanging around the Norfolk & Western yards. The officer attempted to take the men in custody and they shot him through the neck and shoulder, fatally wounding him. L. W. Coxe, the night operator at the Norfolk & Western yards, hearing the shots, rushed out from his office to Riley's assistance just as the officer fell. The two tramps shot Coxe, killing him. They escaped, but were captured. A mob made two attempts to lynch them. They are in jail here. They gave the names of Richard Martin and Peter Donahue and said they were from Kentucky.

DAVIS MAKES DENIAL.

Widow Reynolds Also Declares She Is Not to Wed the Candidate.

BEDFORD, PA., July 26.—Senator Davis emphatically denies the report in this morning's papers that he is to marry the widow of Dr. John Reynolds of Shepherdstown, W. Va. The senator has been receiving telegrams of congratulation and is very indignant about it.

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. VA., July 26.—Mrs. Katherine Reynolds today made an emphatic denial of the report of her engagement to former Senator Henry G. Davis. She said there was no foundation for the report and was indignant that such false statements were published.

VILLAGE IS DESTROYED 25 PERSONS MASSACRED

LONDON, July 27.—The Daily Mail publishes a dispatch from Taurus, Asia Minor, saying that on July 13 the well-known chief, Cheikh Salan, attacked and destroyed the village of Ootchkilissa.

Twenty-five persons were killed, including a priest and servants attached to a convent. Women were taken into slavery. The dispatch says that massacres are expected in the Sandjek of Bayazil and immediate help is urgently called for.

COL. GUFFEY MAY BECOME DEMOCRACY'S TREASURER

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 26.—No opinion can be had at "Rosemount" whether the officers chosen by the national committee are satisfactory to Judge Parker or if he wished the chairmanship had gone to some other than Taggart. Before Parker had retired last night, he had heard from Mr. Sheehan that Taggart had more than enough votes pledged to elect him. Therefore the decision of the committee was not received as a matter of surprise.

Taggart is acceptable to Tammany and that is one of the first planks used which may serve to bring the charm that seems to divide that organization from the Democratic nominee.

The fact that the treasurership of the committee was left to the executive committee is interpreted among those having acquaintance with Judge Parker to mean that Col. James M. Guffey is to receive that office. Thus Belmont is to be kept in the background, although that means a stupendous task.

"Now, if someone would take the job of muzzling Perry Belmont, and of killing off all further talk of McClellan for governor, Judge Parker would be happy," said one of his friends this afternoon.

There were no callers today. No extra arrangements have been or will be made to receive the members of the national committe that will arrive at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

HOTEL AT GREENSBURG DAMAGED BY FIRE

Slav Girls Hang from Windows Until Rescued—Loss About $15,000.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 27.—At 11:30 o'clock last night fire broke out in the fourth floor of the new Hotel Zimmerman and the hotel furnishings were damaged about $15,000 by fire and water, the entire fourth floor being gutted and the furniture throughout the hotel being ruined. The fourth floor is occupied by four Slav girls, domestics. One of them, Mary Clstek was seriously burned.

The four girls had a spectacular escape from death. The fire barred the way to the stairs and the only way of escape was by the windows. The girls hung out the fourth story windows, their feet just touching the window frames of the third floor. For over 20 minutes they were in this position with the smoke and flames pouring out above them. They were rescued by a hook and ladder company. The fire was not extinguished until the hotel had been flooded. Many guests escaped injury. The damage by fire will amount to about $1,000, but the damage to the furnishings will bring the total up to $15,000. The origin of the fire, which started in the laundry on the fourth floor, is not known. The four servant girls lost about $300 in money, which they had saved from their wages.

Croker Not Coming Back.

LONDON, July 26.—(Special Cable.)—Your correspondent saw Richard Croker at the Glenwood races today. He smiled when informed that it was reported he would return to New York to restore politics. He said: "I am not going back to New York to engage in politics or for any other purpose. You can make this statement as strong as you please."

Ex-Senator Vest's End Is Near.

SWEET SPRINGS, MO., July 26.—Former Senator George G. Vest is weaker today, and has suffered several sinking spells. His physicians fear that death may result during one of these spells, and they say that the end is only a few days away at best.

SAGAMORE HILL AWAITS GUESTS

Final Program Arranged for Notification of Roosevelt.

ONLY TWO SPEECHES

Speaker Cannon Will Address the President Who Will Respond to Committee.

MEMBERS REACH NEW YORK

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 26.—Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican national committee, who reached here this afternoon, spent the evening closeted with the president at Sagamore Hill. He begged to be excused from discussing politics and hurried off to see the president as soon as he could.

Early this morning former Gov. W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts left after spending the night at Sagamore Hill. These men and Elihu Root are regarded as the most intimate personal friends and political advisers that the president has. The same policy or silence that the president himself has set is pursued by all three of these men. They all decline to discuss any political topics as soon as they have talked with the president.

Senator Kean of New Jersey and his sister and Duglas Robinson of New York, the president's brother-in-law, also arrived this evening to remain until after the notification ceremonies.

The final program for tomorrow's exercises as completed is as follows: The special train having the regular notification committee representing each state and territory and the 60 or 70 other eminent party leaders will leave Long Island City at 10:30 o'clock. It will reach here one hour later. The drive from the railroad station here to Sagamore Hill will take about three-quarters of an hour.

The exercises there will begin promptly at 12:30. Speaker Cannon's address and the president's reply will consume about an hour. When he has finished speaking a buffet luncheon will be served. At 3:30 o'clock the special train will leave Oyster Bay for Long Island City.

A 9 o'clock Thursday morning the president and his family will leave Oyster Bay in a special train. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt will proceed directly to Washington. Theodore, Jr., Archie, Kermit and their cousins Philip and Alexander Russell, the son of the Rev. J. C. Russell, pastor of the Oyster Bay Presbyterian church, will leave the special train at Philadelphia and proceed to the St. Louis exposition for a week.

The president will hold a cabinet meeting shortly after his arrival in Washington and will hear the drafts of annual reports of several of the heads of departments read over for approval before being put into type. If the weather in Washington becomes hot the president will not remain there longer than two weeks. In any event he expects to return to Sagamore Hill by August 20.

Before leaving here Chairman Cortelyou is likely to announce the names of the 12 men who are to comprise the advisory committee of the national committee, as well as the executive committee of the national committee. It is regarded as almost certain that former Gov. Crane will be one of the advisory committee, and if Elihu Root finally concludes not to accept the nomination for governor he will be added to the committee, but it is thought here that Mr. Root will acquiesce in the wishes of the president and others and take the nomination.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Special.)—About 40 of the 55 members of the committee appointed by the National Republican convention in Chicago last month to notify President Roosevelt of his nomination for president arrived in this city tonight. Headquarters were opened early in the afternoon in the state suite in the Waldorf-Astoria by Speaker Cannon, the chairman of the committee, who is to make the notification speech tomorrow, and James Hooker of Vermont, the secretary of the committee. This evening they held a reception and a brief meeting.

Speaker Cannon follows the policy of silence which has shrouded the Republican campaign.

"The crops are fine and the Democrats have plenty of wind and a monopoly of horns, so they are able to make as much noise as they please," he said today. "I may have a few remarks to make after the ceremony tomorrow, but don't bother me now, I am thinking about my speech."

It was noticeable that those who had not yet arrived were principally from eastern states. The western men were all on hand and spoke enthusiastically of Republican prospects in their section of the country. C. F. Weaver of Kentucky said:

"Roosevelt is very popular throughout the state, and with an honest count we would give him Kentucky's 13 electoral votes."

Turks Kill 50 Bulgarians.

SALONICA, EUROPEAN TURKEY, July 26.—On Sunday last a detachment of troops near Kumanouva surprised a Bulgarian band of 52 men, who were setting fire to the granaries. The band was destroyed, only two of them escaping.

New Steel Company Incorporated.

TRENTON, N. J., July 26.—The Steel Company of America, with an authorized capital of $3,000,000, was incorporated here today to manufacture and deal in steel and other metals. The incorporators are A. H. Henderson, A. E. Smith and E. C. Sicard of Jersey City.

MEAT STRIKE IS COMPLETE

TROUBLE IS FEARED

This Union Was Responsible for the Ugly Riots in 1902.

ITS HELP IS POWERFUL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Chicago, July 26.—The sympathetic strike at the stock yards will be complete tomorrow morning. The belated sanction to the teamsters joining their brother workmen in the general strike was given tonight by the officers of the International Teamsters' union, and the 700 drivers employed in the packing industry in Chicago will quit work tomorrow. Nearly 100 of these men struck today of their own volition.

With the union teamsters out, every union organization represented in the Chicago packing plants will be on strike.

With the teamsters on strike, and non-union men in their places, trouble is almost sure to follow, and a duplication of the riots which took place in 1902 during the packing house teamsters' strike are looked for.

Riots by the unionists and their friends in the stock yards district tonight resulted in the shooting of one man and the beating of another into insensibility, while a third was severely cut and bruised.

There is no hope tonight of any immediate settlement of the strike. Realizing that they have one of the hardest propositions to contend with in the history of the packing industry, the packers are leaving nothing undone to gain the upper hand in the struggle with their 30,000 union employes. All day long workmen from outside points were rushed to Chicago and taken to the stock yards under police protection to fill the places of the strikers. Tonight it was announced by the packers that 7,000 new men were now installed in the plants.

Michael J. Donnelly, president of the Butchers' union, said tonight:

"I have no hope of an immediate settlement. The fight is on, and the only thing we can do now is to stick to the end."

Independents Favored.

The union organizations recalled their ultimatum issued yesterday prohibiting their members employed in the independent plants from killing live stock purchased in the stock yards, where the animals are being handled by non-union employes. The labor leaders took this step after the independent packers pointed out to them that if such an order was carried out it would be a benefit to the packers.

Lines of vigilant policemen guarded the entrances to the stock yards all day and night, but despite this precaution disturbances were numerous. The union men and their friends have become so embittered against the colored strike breakers that the appearance of a negro in the vicinity of the stock yards is almost certain to be followed by violence. A negro barber about to climb upon a street car at the entrance to the stock yards tonight, was dragged to the street by a mob and beaten until unconscious. The mob was under the impression that the barber was employed in some of the packing plants and without waiting to ask any questions attacked him before he could offer an explanation.

Police Are in Control.

Chief of Police O'Neil, who has taken personal charge of the 375 policemen detailed to stock yards duty during the strike, declared tonight that the police had the strike situation well in hand, and that they would be able to control the strikers and their friends.

When Mayor Harrison was asked tonight if he intended to take any action in an attempt to stop the strike, he said that for the present at least, the matter would be under conrol of the police department.

"Dandies" Slaughter Swine.

Men with Panama hats, expensive clothing of the latest cut and fine linen stepped in among the hogs today and took charge of the unloading of the day's arrivals at the yards. The volunteer crew of stock-unloaders was made up of the office and clerical force of the various commission houses at the yards. While the amateurs toiled among the grunting swine, strikers in heavy boots and rough garb sat about at a distance, laughing at the spectacle.

"Look at the fellow with the silk suspenders," they cried, pointing at one particularly dapper clerk. "Don't you want to borrow some overalls?"

Unmindful of the derision, volunteers continued with the work which progressed with natural shortcomings. Once when a big porker escaped the vigilance of the unloaders and charged his captors, upsetting two of their number in an undignified heap, the unsympathetic spectators broke into cheers of delight. The runaway was captured by dint of much running, shouting and perspiration. The

Braddock Butchers Closed Their Doors

The Braddock Provision Company, in Braddock avenue, and the store of Philip Gimburg, in Washington avenue, Braddock, closed at noon yesterday, as the proprietors claim their business has fallen off so since the meat strike that it was cheaper to close up the shops during the strike. Signs were posted on the doors announcing that the places would not open until the price of meat dropped.

FACED CHARGE OF GAMBLING

Democrats Forced to Accept Thomas Taggart for Chairman.

ALL OTHERS DECLINE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 26.

Democrats today elected a chairman, secretary and sergeant-at-arms of their national committee. They chose western managers for a campaign that is planned to elect candidates selected from the east, but the western men are to have the co-operation of an executive committee, and possibly a finance committee, composed of Democratic leaders, regardless of locality.

Thomas Taggart of Indiana was unanimously elected chairman. Urey Woodson of Kentucky chosen as secretary and John I. Martin of Missouri re-elected sergeant-at-arms.

There was a final attempt, on the eve of the meeting of the committee, which took place in the Hoffman house ball room at 12:30 o'clock, to bring about the election of some other man than Mr. Taggart for the chairmanship. A conference was being held in David B. Hill's room where there were, besides Mr. Hill, William F. Sheehan, Senator Gorman, Col. James M. Guffey, August Belmont, Thomas F. Ryan and others.

A report was brought to this conference that the election of Mr. Taggart would be ruinous to Democratic prospects, because at French Lick Springs, in Indiana, where Mr. Taggart's hotels are located, gambling is permitted. The leaders were informed that George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican national committee, had obtained a full description of gambling at French Lick Springs and that he intended to make use of it in the campaign, with photographic illustrations.

Taggart Asked to Explain.

Mr. Taggart was asked what he had to say in reply to this charge. He explained that gambling was permitted at the springs, but he denied that he was in any way personally concerned in its operation or profits. In view of this explanation, as Senator Gorman absolutely refused to take the chairmanship, it was decided to go on with the program as outlined.

Although the vote was unanimous, it was not until after it was actually in progress that opposition to Mr. Taggart's selection was withdrawn. Beginning with the return of Senator Gorman, former Senator Hill, former Senator Jones and other Democratic leaders from Esopus last evening, and lasting up to the moment when the committee was called to order today, the strongest possible effort was made to bring Senator Gorman into the field or to arrange a combination that would place someone beside Taggart at the head of the committee. Almost continuous conferences were held, intimations of great financial advantages to the party were made and many expedients were suggested, even to delaying the election until after the committee's visit to Judge Parker tomorrow, in order to defeat Taggart. But nothing could change the determination of his friends to force an election today and compel a show of strength. Failing to secure the necessary conditions to defeat Taggart the opposition yielded.

Arranged for Sub-Committees.

The most important action of the committee, aside from the selection of chairman, was that of arranging for a committee or committees to manage the campaign. A proposition submitted by William F. Sheehan, slightly modified upon the suggestion of Senator Bailey, was adopted. As agreed to it is as follows:

That the chair be authorized to appoint not to exceed two vice chairmen as his judgment may determine; that the chair be authorized to appoint an executive committee of not less than five nor more than seven members; that the chair be authorized to appoint a finance committee of not less than three nor more than five members and if in the judgment of the chair these two committees should be amalgamated into an executive committee that the executive committee shall be composed of seven members; that if at any time the exigencies of the campaign should, in the judgment of the executive committee and of the chairman of the national committee, require it or if it becomes advisable to increase the number, that they may select additional members, not exceeding two members from any one state, members of said executive committee, that in conformity with a resolution adopted by the last Democratic national convention the members of the said executive and finance committees may be selected from outside the membership of the national committee.

Under this resolution Chairman Taggart will select campaign managers. It is taken for granted that he will be the chairman of the executive committee as that custom is always followed. After the adjournment of the committee there were a number of consultations among the leaders and the names of several men were mentioned as likely to be on the committee or committees which ever course it is decided to pursue. Among those mentioned were William F. Sheehan of New York, Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, August Belmont of New York, David B. Hill of New York, James M. Guffey of Pennsylvania, John T. McGraw of West Virginia, William H. Martin of Arkansas, John P. Hopkins or James H. Eckels of Illinois, Bradley B. Smalley of Vermont, George A. Gaston of Massachusetts, James Smith, Jr., New Jersey, T. F. Ryan of Virginia, Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon, Charles S. Thomas of Colorado and Fred T. Dubois of Idaho.

The plans of Chairman Taggart for the next few days include the trip to Esopus tomorrow, returning to New York tomorrow evening. He expects to spend Thursday in this city, consulting with a number of prominent Democrats regarding the composition of the committees he is authorized to appoint. Thursday evening or Friday he will leave for Indiana, but will return almost immediately, announce the committees, establish headquarters and enter upon active campaign work.

The Democratic club's reception to the members of the Democratic committee tonight resolved itself into a love feast for Parker and Davis and marked an informal opening of the local campaign.

It was significant of the reception that none of the really big men of Tammany Hall were present. Charles F. Murphy sent a letter of regret dated today from Tammany Hall headquarters, in which he regretted that an important appointment kept him away.

A letter was also received from Mayor McClellan in which the mayor regretted his inability to be present. The only one of the immediate advisers of Mr. Murphy seen at the reception was former Senator Towne.

Indignation in Morningside.

Residents of the Morningside road district in the Eighteenth ward will hold an indignation meeting on Friday night in the Morningside school. Several streets in the district are almost impassable because the vibration of the water in the big 36-inch main from the new reservoir in Highland park causes the pavement to cave in.

MEAT STRIKE IS COMPLETE

"dandies," as they were called by the strike sympathizers, entered into the spirit of the occasion and tried with some success to turn an unpleasant task into a good natured holiday romp.

W. M. Skinner, general manager of the Live Stock Exposition Company and General Manager Leonard of the Union Stock Yards and Transit Company, were conspicuous at the yards during the day, clad in overalls and boots and with whips in hand. They were taking a leading part in the task of handling stock. Both said they liked the novelty of the thing, and were getting along capitally.

Kosher Famine Averted.

A partial famine of the kosher meat, which has existed among Jewish families in Chicago, was relieved today when for the first time since the butchers' walkout began, three companies began killing cattle according to the rites of the Jewish church. The killers are appointed by Jewish rabbis and instead of "knocking" a bullock as is done ordinarily, the animal is strung up alive and the head almost severed by the stroke of a large knife.

KANSAS CITY, July 26.—The allied trades remained at work today, owing to the non-arrival of the sympathetic strike order from Chicago before closing time. J. A. Cable, secretary of the International Coopers' union, said today: "I do not expect the coopers to go out, regardless of what the other allied trades may do."

A new feature was injected into the situation today, when a telegram was received from a number of Texas cattlemen, tendering sympathy to Armour because of their strike trouble and intimating that they would hold their cattle.

OMAHA, July 26.—The board of fire and police commissioners of South Omaha have decided that they are unable to longer afford ample police protection to the packing house interests. The sheriff will tomorrow swear in a large number of men and take charge of the policing of the strike district of South Omaha.

SIOUX CITY, IA., July 26.—Serious disturbances in the stock yards district this afternoon led William Watson, manager of the Cudahy plant, to call upon Sheriff Jackson for militia to preserve order and prevent the destruction of meat products sent out from the Cudahy packing house.

NEW YORK, July 26.—After a meeting of the advisory board of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers of North America here tonight H. L. Eichelberger announced that no strike will be ordered within the next 24 hours. Representatives of all the unions were present.

JAPANESE FLAG NOW FLIES OVER NIUCHWANG

France Regards City's Loss as Serious Blow to Her Ally.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 26.—The port of Niuchwang has at last been abandoned by the Russians. The authorities here, however, have no advices covering the details. The evacuation of Niuchwang proper is expected to follow shortly.

TIENTSIN, July 26.—The Japanese occupied Niuchwang at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The Japanese are said to have lost 380 men in killed and wounded in the fighting which has taken place outside of Niuchwang during the last two days. The Russian losses are not known.

A small detachment of Japanese scouts entered Niuchwang last night. About 1200 troops arrived there this morning, and more are expected this evening. Crowds of Russian refugees were this morning awaiting trains at Yinkow, close to Niuchwang, to take them away.

NIUCHWANG, July 26.—Japanese scouts have already passed through here, and the troops are expected momentarily. The Russian inhabitants of Niuchwang have left. Japanese flags are flying all over the city.

PARIS, July 26.—The Japanese occupation of Niuchwang is regarded here as a serious blow to Russia, which thereby is prevented from closely watching the doings of the Chinese army commanded by Gen. Ma. The French have not forgotten their experience against the Black Flags during the Tonkinese war, throughout which peace was nominally maintained with China, and the belief is current that the Japanese now will readily obtain material aid from the Chinese soldiers by promises of good pay and hints of the possibilities of plunder. Russia could only make representations at Pekin, where the reply doubtless would be that the troops had been ordered to observe strict neutrality, and that any Chinese fighting for Japan were merely brigands.

PREPARING TO BUILD ROAD.

J. K. Jolly Working on Projected Railway in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—(Special.)—J. K. Jolly of Pittsburgh, who recently acquired considerable interests in various Louisiana enterprises and who is one of the promoters of the electric railway from here to Bayou Barataria, has returned to the city and is now shaping up affairs so that work may be begun.

Uri Beach is associated with Mr. Jolly. Mr. Beach has placed an order for much of the material. This company has been backed mostly by eastern capital and if the original plans of the projectors are carried out about $500,000 will be spent in building and equipping the road and establishing a pleasure resort on the banks of the Bayou, 17 miles from the city. It is proposed to erect a hotel and make other improvements there.

BLAZE IN A GROCERY.

Fire and Water Caused $800 Damage in Fred Hoffield's Place.

Fire broke out in the Diamond grocery, owned by Fred Hoffield, at 420 Ferry street at 11:30 o'clock last night, and damage by fire and water of about $800 was caused. The fire started in the elevator shaft in the basement, and the flames had reached the second story of the building when the firemen arrived.

Ten minutes later headway of the flames was checked. Most of the damage was done by the water. The second floor was occupied by the Wabash pool room, operated by John Krebs. Practically no damage was done on this floor. The building is owned by the Wilson estate of Allegheny. The cause of the fire is unknown.

POLE WHO HAS NO LEGS PUT UP A HARD FIGHT.

Joe Berninski, a Pole whose legs are cut off at the knees, showed he was still a fighter last night and as a result is in the South Side police station charged with disorderly conduct. He went in a saloon on 11th Carson street, and after ordering a drink of beer started an argument. He struck one of his opponents on the head with a beer glass and threw one of the others to the floor by catching him by the legs.

PLAYING OF "MY MARYLAND" CHARMS FAIR SOUTHERNERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMP COL. M. S. QUAY, GETTYSBURG, PA., July 26.—Just at sunset, when the evening mists gather over the field of Gettysburg, two good old songs of the southland—two old songs that were heard here when the historic ground was drenched with heroes' blood—ring out in stirring melody through the camp of the Second brigade. "Dixie" and "Maryland" never lose their charm, and it is for this reason as well as the romantic associations in Gettysburg. At every guard mount of the Tenth these two tunes are played, following a precedent established in the Philippines in the fall of '98.

In those trying days the Tenth was supported on the left flank by a battalion of the First Tennessee volunteers. The Tenth had one of the best bands in those far-away islands, while the handful of men from the southern state did not even possess a fife and drum. One evening Col. A. L. Hawkins suggested that the band play "Dixie" and "Maryland" at guard mount. The advice was followed with unlooked-for results.

The Tennessee soldiers were off duty at the time, and when the Tenth's band struck up "Dixie" the southerners came over the line with tears streaming down their cheeks. It was the first time they had heard the beloved tune since leaving home. Then to finish the beautiful ceremony of guard mount, the band opened with the sweet strains of "Maryland." How sweet it sounded there amoung the palms. Sturdy soldiers wept outright and embraced their comrades from Pennsylvania. The scene affected the warm heart of Col. Hawkins and ever afterward in the Philippines those two tunes were played at every guard mount of the regiment. Upon its return and reorganization in the guard the wish of its gallant commander was carried out.

Tonight the camp is filled with visitors from Maryland who came to witness the reviews of the various brigades at inspection. Belles from Baltimore, Frederick and Hagerstown are here. Somehow they learned of the Tenth's favorite tune and how it came to be played away beyond the seas when Uncle Sam conquered a new domain in the orient. It would do any southerner's heart good to hear that charming melody here in the gathering twilight, and it is not surprising that the Maryland girls are going back home with buttons and badges which they have clipped off the veterans, who were the friends and comrades of the homesick soldiers from Tennessee.

MEXICANS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF AMERICANS

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The state department today received dispatches from Louis Keiser, United States consul at Mazatlan, Mexico, giving fuller details of the shooting of the two Americans, Clarence Way and Edward Latimer. The information does not clear the apparent mystery much more than the first dispatches. The dispatches state that Mr. Way was to be arrested, but does not state what for. Mr. Keiser says the alcalde asked the recorder to arrest Way. The recorder refused, saying that no reason was stated.

Alcalde Torres, who is said to have inspired the murder, is the person signing the warrant and he gave it to the commissioners to serve. The commissioners found Mr. Way in front of his house. Mr. Way did not object to accompanying the officers, but asked that he be given time to get his breakfast and change his clothes. To this, the officers objected and tried to take Mr. Way forcibly.

He called his cook, Edward Latimer, who came from the house unarmed and attempted to prevent the arrest. Latimer was overpowered by the officers and Way was taken away. Latimer started in the house just after the officers were leaving and they, thinking he was going for arms, fired at him and wounded him. Way attempted to go to his cook's assistance, when one of the officers, Castro by name, shot and killed him almost instantly. Latimer died from the wounds inflicted.

The alcalde and two commissioners are now in jail charged with the double murder.

MANY NOVELTIES PROMISED.

"Burning of Rome" Will Call for Magnificent Display of Pyrotechnics.

The most magnificent display of pyrotechnics and electrical effects ever seen in this city is promised nightly in connection with Pain's "Burning of Rome," which opens under the auspices of Pittsburgh lodge, No. 11, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at Friendship park next Monday night. For the little folks there will be a number of comic fireworks, such as the big walking elephant, the acrobatic monkey, the devil among the tailors, and other amusing devices. Among the elaborate set pieces shown will be "Niagara Falls by Moonlight."

Manager Thomas F. Kirk, Jr., in whose charge the local arrangements have been placed, is arranging a series of special nights for the benefit of various secret societies and fraternal orders. On these occasions set pieces emblematic of the several societies will be shown. The advance sale of seats opens at the Nixon theater tomorrow.

ELKS MADE MERRY.

Celebrated Their Day at World's Fair by Special Program.

ST. LOUIS, July 26.—This was "Elks' day at the fair. At the temple of fraternity, where the exercises of the day were held, addresses were delivered by President Francis of the exposition company; Grand Exalted Ruler W. J. O'Brien of the Elks, and Exalted Ruler John H. Holmes of the St. Louis lodge. At the Iowa state building a special program included addresses by Charles E. Pickett of Iowa, past grand exalted ruler, and Fred Robinson of Iowa, who was elected grand secretary of the Elks during the Cincinnati convention.

B'lou's Box Office Again Open.

The box office of the Bijou theater opens for the season of 1904-5 at 9 o'clock this morning. Man Maims His Wife.

WHEELING, W. VA., July 26.—(Special.)—August Wolfinger, a tube worker of Benwood, horribly maimed his wife with a butcher knife today and she is now in a dying condition at the Glendale hospital. Wolfinger wanted to take some money from a trunk and his wife tried to prevent him. He surrendered himself.

NEARLY THREE TO ONE TO VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

New York Herald, a Parker Paper, Takes Poll of Stock Exchange.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—For Roosevelt, 397; for Parker, 103; undecided, 6; total replies, 416; membership, 1,100.

With very few exceptions, the members of the New York stock exchange have made up their minds how they will vote in the presidential election. For the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment in the exchange toward the candidates of the two great parties, the New York Herald enclosed to each of its members a letter, accompanied by a card for reply.

Among the reasons given for the support of President Roosevelt by the signers of the cards, are the following:

Brayton Ives—Because he is able, courageous and honest.

Henry W. Dodd—Because I cannot vote for a man who voted for Bryan in 1896.

In giving his reasons for supporting Judge Parker, E. C. Benedict, one of Grover Cleveland's closest friends, wrote: "The great multitude of conservative people in this country who could not get Grover Cleveland's straight political note, ought to be satisfied with Parker's obligation, with Cleveland's indorsement."

GOING AFTER COAL.

Vladivostok Squadron Away to the South Where It Will Meet Colliers.

VLADIVOSTOK, July 26.—Private reports received from Shanghai say that the Vladivostok squadron has been seen east of the island of Formosa, 400 miles south of Shanghai and about 1,350 miles southwest of Yokohama. It is understood that colliers are awaiting the cruisers there. The further destination of the squadron is not known. The squadron held up many ships during its cruise.

It is stated that Viceroy Alexieff is coming here.

The representative of a large local business house, who returned here recently from Port Arthur, says that during a 26-hour trip in a junk from Port Arthur to Chefoo, he saw no Japanese. He reports that there is almost a regular line of junks running from Port Arthur to Chefoo, and that even ladies are taking the trip.

10,000 PEOPLE ATTEND.

Many Attractions for Visitors on Pioneer Day at Clearfield, Pa.

CLEARFIELD, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—Ten thousand people witnessed the events of pioneer days. Hundred of the veteran residents of the county marched in the parade and a spectacular feature was introduced by men representing three tribes of Red Men, who in the park conducted sham battles, depicting pioneer scenes in the early history of the county.

The pioneers were entertained free and at the afternoon reunion addresses were made by ex-Judge McEnally of Clearfield, the oldest surviving judge of the county; Dr. A. R. Lambert of Chicago and James Kerr of Clearfield. Races, baseball games and the attractions of a large carnival company entertained the visitors.

SHOTS WERE FIRED IN CHASE AFTER MILK THIEVES

Officer Michael Ondrey of Braddock captured a trio of thieves early yesterday morning near the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. They had a collection of milk bottles from which they were drinking. When the officer approached they smashed the bottles and ran. In the pursuit shots were fired by Ondrey. A charge of larceny was made against the three before Justice Holtzman by Robert Fox, representing the Braddock Sanitary Milk Company. The prisoners are Philip Siglar, John Adams and Joseph Glitsky, all about 21 years old. More than 1,000 cans of milk have been stolen within the last three months in Braddock.

GUARD MAY HAVE A SIGNAL CORPS

Move on to Ask Legislature for Appropriation — McKibben Praises State Militia.

MUCH DYSENTERY IN CAMP

By JOHN P. COWAN.
(Staff Correspondent.)
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMP COL. M. S. QUAY, GETTYSBURG, PA., July 26.—A movement again is on foot to have the National guard provided with a signal corps and there is little doubt that this important arrangement of the service will be accorded a place in the next division encampment.

All the division officers favor the addition and influence will be brought to bear at the next session of the state legislature to have the additional appropriation made. Gen. Charles Miller said: "A signal corps is necessary to complete the division organization, then we would have a fine little army all within ourselves. We hope to have it soon. This year we have an additional troop of cavalry, the boys from New Castle under Capt. Cunningham, and an efficient signal corps will be the next thing to add. The matter rests with the state lawmakers and every friend of our citizen soldiery will urge an appropriation sufficient for its establishment."

McKibben Praises the Guard.

Gen. Chambers McKibben, of the United States army, who was detailed by the war department to make observations of the Pennsylvania guard encampment, said to The Gazette correspondent tonight:

"It would be perfunctory to say that Pennsylvania has the best national guard organization in the United States. I have paid close attention to details and am more than pleased. The spirit of the men counts for much and the interest and alacrity they show proves them to be excellent soldiers and made of the stuff which an officer can rely upon in times when the soldier's pluck is put to test. I am especially well pleased with the way the general and division staff has handled its work. For instance, it is fortunate that a railroad man of the experience of Col. Samuel Moody has been selected for the position of quartermaster general, when it is his duty to make all the transportation arrangements. This part of the work, as well as that of the other staff officers, has been discharged in a manner that reflects much credit upon the whole guard."

There are many cases of dysentery in camp. The water, which is used from Marsh creek, is said to be the cause. In the Tenth regiment there are seven cases and several severe cases of malaria. A number of Battery B are suffering from the same malady. Maj. C. Willey of the Eighteenth regiment, has been appointed division medical officer of the day for tomorrow and will make an investigation of the cause of the trouble. There are several cases of appendicitis in the division, but typhoid fever has not appeared. There has been no criticism of the sanitary condition of the camp, and the surgeons declare that the sickness, while comparatively slight, has been caused principally by the change of diet and drinking water.

Today was spent in the inspection of the Third brigade. Gov. Pennypacker was up at daybreak and spent the entire morning in the field. The governor has shown himself to be a devout apostle of old Ben Franklin's creed in the matter of early rising, and has been out on the parade ground long before some of his staff had tumbled out for breakfast.

Governor Likes to Meet Men.

"I like to get out and meet the men personally," said the governor, while he sat in front of his tent with Mrs. Pennypacker this afternoon. "I take pride in knowing the soldiers and they seem to appreciate my visits. In camp my chief diversion is a long walk, and these I am taking early in the morning. Our state should be proud of these soldiers we have congregated here. They would be just as brave if called into action as were their fathers, who defended their flag and the honor of their state here in the trying times of 1863."

An incident of the inspection which caused consternation in Gov. Pennypacker's party occurred when a bull leaped from an adjoining pasture field and rushed bellowing across the parade ground. The animal, pursued by an excited farmer, shied past the column of troops and straight toward the governor's carriage. Non-commissioned officers and orderlies threw a skirmish line to drive off the intruder, but were routed and the bull dived squarely in front of the reviewing stand. "Hi, there," shouted Adjutant General Stewart. The governor joined this with a gesture and the bull ran down the Emmitsburg road, while the farmer apologized profusely.

Lieutenant Nevin Collapsed.

During the inspection Lieut. W. F. Nevin of Company E, Twelfth regiment, collapsed. The line officers of the Thirteenth regiment presented their colonel, former Lieut.-Gov. L. A. Watres of Scranton with a set of resolutions, asking him to withdraw his commission indefinitely upon its expiration next month.

Col. Watres tonight was presented with a handsome loving cup.

The date for the inspection of Battery B has been changed to Thursday morning, which will allow the organization to break camp in time to return home with the infantry regiments of the Second brigade.

Congressman W. H. Graham was a visitor in camp today. Charles C. Hancock, a nephew of the famous corps commander who defended Cemetery Ridge at the battle of Gettysburg, is the guest of the Thirteenth regiment.

Plenty of Street Work.

Despite the comparative idleness of workmen generally, city employes and workmen for street contractors are not complaining of want of employment. The city is just now expending many thousands of dollars in the repair of streets and Supt. Nicewaner of the bureau of highways and sewers is busy every day traveling to various points in the city, inspecting the work that is being done.

SHIP SEIZURES STILL ON

cial Russian ships. Mr. Balfour, while disclaiming that he was giving an authoritative decision, said he believed the declaration of Paris in 1856 contemplated the abolition of privateering and the declaration that a neutral flag covers an enemy's merchandise except when contraband of war.

Lansdowne's Blunt Note.

While the negotiations between Great Britain and Russia respecting the Red sea seizures have been carried on in the most conciliatory manner, in the representations to the St. Petersburg government Foreign Secretary Lansdowne declared that Great Britain could not, in view of her treaty alliance with Japan, allow any interpretation to be placed on treaties relating to the Dardanelles, which would permit of the free passage of vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet from the Black sea to the Mediterranean with the view of their subsequent employment for war purposes.

ST. PITTERSBURG, July 26.—While entirely without advices regarding the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander, Russia maintains the right of her warships to sink a neutral vessel carrying contraband when her papers show that she is clearly confiscable, and when circumstances render it impossible or too dangerous to attempt to get her to a home port, and in such cases liability for damages to the value of the ship is not admitted.

ST. HUBERT ESCAPED THE RUSSIAN FLEET

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—According to advices received in this city, the British steamer St. Hubert escaped the Russian fleet and arrived at Yokohama today from Iquique, by way of Honolulu. For a time it was feared that the vessel had been captured by the Russian warships.

The St. Hubert had a cargo of nitrate from Iquique, Chile, intended for use in the manufacture of powder. Since the war broke out the Japanese have made many purchases of nitrate, and a large quantity of it has been sent from this port on the regular liners, the cargoes being trans-shipped from vessels that brought it here from the Chilean coast.

The insurance on war risk rates has risen rapidly since Saturday, and today is nearly prohibitive on cargoes from this port to the orient.

The rate last week was a nominal one of one-quarter of one per cent. On Friday it rose to three-eighths and on Saturday some risks were taken on the Mongolia's cargo at three-quarters. On Monday war risks were written on the Tremont's cargo at one and one-half. This vessel is to sail from Puget Sound ports on August 6. Yesterday the rate on this cargo went to two and one-half.

The Korea, which sailed from here July 12, carried many articles that were undoubtedly contraband, and anxiety was first felt for her safety on the 14th, two days after she sailed. Some of her cargo was rewritten as war risk at one per cent. This risk is refused today at three per cent.

The principal export from this port to the orient is flour, which, with other foodstuffs, has been declared contraband by Russia.

Want McKees Rocks Tight on Sundays.

A movement has been started in McKees Rocks by the session of the United Presbyterian church, aided by Supt. Dunlap of the Railroad Young Men's Christian association, and by the Methodist Episcopal church, to close all stores on Sunday and make it a closed town. Pastors of churches in McKees Rocks and Esplen will petition the burgess to enforce the Sunday ordinances, and if nothing can be done in that way they will proceed against violators of the law in the courts.

Man Caught in Dog-Net.

E. S. McCowan, a young Alleghenian, was locked up yesterday morning, charged with disorderly conduct. Dog Catcher Joseph Jatian alleges that while he was chasing a dog on Termon avenue, McCowan interfered with him. Jatian then tried to place McCowan under arrest, but the latter was running away when the dog-net was thrown over his head. McCowan will get a hearing this morning.

Five Prisoners Escape from Jail.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., July 26.—(Special.)—Five prisoners escaped at an early hour this morning from the Kanawha county jail and are still at large. They are: Thomas Doss, James Bond, Guy Delaney, Barton Fox and Howard Jordan. All are white men and each is under indictment for felony except Jordan, who is under sentence of two years in the penitentiary for robbery.

NO RIGHT TO SINK VESSEL

Such Will Probably Be Government's View of Knight Commander Case.

JAPANESE CREWS DROWNED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The excited feeling in shipping circles is indicated by the applications received at the state department from representatives of various mercantile interests for information respecting the seizures of merchant vessels and cargoes and the sinking of other ships in the far east.

The attorneys for the American Trading Company, which is concerned in the destruction of the cargo of the Knight Commander, have not yet submitted to the state department any formal demand for indemnity. It is their intention to do so soon, but so far they have not been able to secure all of the data essential to the formulation of a claim.

The attorneys will probably base their claim upon the contention that there is no warrant in international law of naval practice for the destruction of a ship and cargo of the character of the Knight Commander and its load. They make the point that throughout the civil war the union cruisers, while frequently making prizes of neutral merchant ships, never sank any but confederate merchantmen.

They contend that neutral nations have a right to demand that any of their ships and goods seized by a belligerent shall be brought before a prize court, and that it shall not be left to a naval commander, whose own ship perhaps is seeking to pursue an enemy, to hastily pass judgment on the vast miscellaneous cargo of a modern merchant steamer under a neutral flag. These views will be impressed upon the state department as part of the brief to be presented.

The uniform rule of the state department, however, is to refrain from making theoretical decisions, and it so happens that up to this moment no protests had been formally lodged that will suffice to set in motion its machinery.

Roosevelt's Proclamation.

In the absence of action by the department of state it appears that the last official word on the subject, indicating the position of the government, is that contained in the proclamation of President Roosevelt of February 11 last, just after the outbreak of the war. This was a little different from the ordinary neutrality proclamation, and in addition to enjoining citizens of the United States to refrain from organizing military expeditions in aid of belligerents, contains this clear statement for the benefit of many inquiring ship owners and exporting mercantile houses:

"And that while all persons may lawfully, and without restriction by reason of the aforesaid state of war, manufacture and sell within the United States arms and munitions of war and other articles ordinarily known as 'contraband of war,' yet they cannot carry such articles upon the high seas for the use or service of either belligerent nor can they transport soldiers and officers, or either, or attempt to break any blockade which may be lawfully established and maintained during the war without incurring the risk of hostile capture and the penalties pronounced by the laws of nations in that behalf. And I do hereby give notice that all citizens of the United States and others who may claim the protection of this government who may misconduct themselves in the premises will do so at their peril, and that they can in no wise obtain any protection from the government of the United States against the consequences of their misconduct."

This makes clear to mercantile and shipping interests the president's view that it is not in violation of United States law to ship contraband, but that it must be shipped at the owner's risk and is subject to seizure.

Authority Against Sinking.

While there is no authority for declaring positively, in advance of an actual test case, the policy of the state department respecting the recent seizures and sinking of vessels with American cargoes, attention may be brought to the fact that in the latest edition of Hall's International Law, a British work held in the highest esteem here as an authority, the doctrine is laid down without qualification that a neutral ship must not be sunk by a belligerent; that if the detained vessel cannot be sent to port she must be released. This doctrine bears precisely upon the case of the Knight Commander so far as the facts are known.

The Japanese legation today received a cablegram from the foreign office at Tokyo giving the story of the capture by the Japanese steamer Tetuan regarding the sinking of the Knight Commander by the Vladivostok squadron. After speaking of the Knight Commander's crew witnessing the sinking of two Japanese sailing vessels by the Russian men-of-war, as already announced, the dispatch says:

"In these cases the Russians made no signal to the Japanese vessels and did not search them, but simply sank them. As no attempt was made on the part of the Russians to rescue the crew of these vessels, all of them must have been drowned."

RESCUED AND ARRESTED.

Four Braddock Youngsters, Alleged Thieves, Upset in Monongahela River.

Constable Abraham L. Best of the office of Justice John G. Richards, Braddock, assisted by two other officers, had an exciting chase after four young miscreants on the Monongahela river yesterday morning. Their capture was effected only after they had upset their boat in an attempt to row faster.

The captives are Joseph Karchar, John Deloc, Fred Galli and Frank Dominic, all of Braddock. They are 12 to 16 years old and it is said that they looted the store of Andrew Waigo, in Washington avenue, Braddock. More than 100 pounds of smoking tobacco, 2,000 tobies, several boxes of cigars and much plug tobacco were taken and secreted in the woods near Kennywood park.

Informations were made before Justice Richards and the officers went in quest of the boys, just about the time they reached Braddock again. As soon as the boys sighted the officers they fled and took to a skiff. The skiff of the fugitives upset in midstream. They were pulled out and at the hearing before Justice Richards, were held for the juvenile court. The same gang is alloged to have broken into a box car on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad, and also stripped an engine of its brass fittings.

RIOT AVERTED BY NOT SCRATCHING

VERNER IS FOR JOHN A. STALEY

By the adoption of a motion which dispensed with the "scratch," a riot was averted in the suggestion meeting of the Ninth ward, Democrats held last night and a semblance of harmony will continue until after the primaries are held Saturday evening.

The meeting was held to suggest candidates for the office of select councilman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Thomas Geary. Over 200 men gathered on the top floor of the Ralston school house. None of them wore gloves or carried canes. Everyone had his favorite and he was there to do battle, if the occasion required.

Police Magistrate Kirby, who is trying to force the election of Edward Sweeney, called the meeting to order. His presence in the chair was not calculated to have a quieting effect on the friends of the candidates that will oppose Sweeney. Mike Sullivan was floor leader for his brother, W. J., who intends to give the Kirby-Sweeney aggregation a battle on Saturday. One of his chief lieutenants was "Jimmy" Hogan, one of those rough-and-ready boys found in the mill districts. He wears his flannel shirt open at the neck and ever balances a chip on his shoulder.

Hogan Did Not Go Out.

When Kirby had exercised his perogative appointing John Malone and William Zueger provisional secretaries, Hogan decided that the magistrate was preparing to rush things, and in no timid manner "took the floor" to express his opinion. Kirby ordered the six policemen present to throw Hogan out. The officers tackled the job and the Sullivan contingent closed in. Secretary Zueger, being a peace-loving man, suggested that it might be better to allow "Jimmy" Hogan to remain. The policemen quickly deferred to his judgment.

Kirby was nominated for temporary chairman and Mike Sullivan was named as his opponent. There was a question about the method of electing and "Jimmy" Hogan got the meeting out of a tangle by putting through a motion "that we scratch." Under this plan each man in the house walks up to the secretary's desk and announces his favorite. A scratch is made after the name of the candidate and the secretaries have to agree in their scratches.

While preparations were being made for the counting of the scratches, Chairman Kirby ordered the doors closed. This did not meet the general approval, but the order was carried out. When the Sullivan secretary walked upon the stage and peeled his coat, there appeared to be a feeling of general satisfaction on the part of the Sullivanites that they had a man at the scratching table who would safeguard their interests.

About this time Kirby demanded to know if "Jimmy" Hogan was a Democrat. With biting, forceful adjectives James replied in the affirmative and then put the same query to the chair. Kirby said that he is a Democrat, and then Mr. Hogan pertinently inquired:

"Why the —— are your chairman of the Citizens ward committee?"

The magistrate did not reply. Some friends in the audience endeavored to squelch Hogan, and he was promptly told that he was "bug-house" and something else.

Scratch Called Off.

Scratching offers an excellent opportunity for rioting. There is no good way, save by force, of preventing a man who desires to vote more than once and has the determination to back his inclination. Mike Sullivan seemed to appreciate this, and much to the surprise and disgust of a number of his followers, he withdrew as a candidate for temporary chairman. One of his friends explained: "We don't want a riot."

Kirby was made temporary and permanent chairman. Without wrangle it was decided to hold primaries in the ward on Saturday evening between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock. These candidates were suggested: W. J. Sullivan, W. L. Knorr, Frank Crowley, Joseph Cypher and Edward Sweeney. When Kirby read the list of names he placed Sweeney's first, and that is the way that it will appear on the ballot.

Just before the adjournment Frank Crowley inquired if the primaries would be on the square and if each candidate would be given representation on the primary boards. Kirby wanted to know if Ninth ward elections had not always been on the square. The cries of derision which resulted would leave the impression that a number of people doubted the magistrate.

The Kirby people say that they will nominate Sweeney. Sullivan and Knorr are considered his chief opponents. As the primary nomination is equal to an election in the Ninth ward, there will be a fierce fight on Saturday.

Verner Is for Staley.

While some of the Citizens leaders are not favorable to the plan of placing John A. Staley at the head of the city committee, they cannot afford to oppose him. He has been one of their hardest workers and they need all of the laborers in the vineyard of "reform" that they can find. Another thing about the candidacy of Staley is the fact that he has some money, and a man with even a key is not being overlooked by the Citizens.

Friends of Staley point to the result of the recent bond election in the first 16 wards of the city. It is in this territory that his following resides and in every one of the 16 wards majorities for both the hump and filtration issues were returned. Nearly all of these wards have stood by the Citizens in most of their fights and now they want recognition.

Verner A. Verner said yesterday that Staley is a bright fellow. When asked: "Are you for him?" he replied: "I am for John."

Close friends of Mayor Hays would not declare for or against Staley, but privately they do not hesitate to say that Director Clark should not be elected chairman. The reason given is that he could not raise enough money to finance the fights. They are hoping that Hays can be induced to take the chairmanship.

A few days ago the amount of money needed to fight for control of the Republican organization was placed at $500,000 by an organ of the Citizens party. After looking over the field of possible "angels" it has been decided to scale the figures to $300,000. There was a story afloat yesterday that six men had been found who were willing to raise this sum.

Stampede of Creditors.

If $200,000 can be gotten into the Citizens treasury there will doubtless be a stampede of creditors. There are said to be a number of bills outstanding and numerous reports have been heard of attempts to settle them at 50 cents on the dollar. In addition to these bills the amount of paper held by banks is figured in at $40,000. With financial conditions in this shape some of the stockholders in the "reform" company are of the opinion that instead of hunting for leaders or talking of fighting, it might be better to find relief in the bankruptcy courts or petition for the appointment of a receiver.

The Democrats are talking of holding a big ratification meeting in Pittsburgh on the night of the day that the county convention is held. The plan is to invite orators from a distance and make an effort to interest the members of the party in the national candidates. Wilson has so discouraged the rank and file that at the last state election but 50,000 Democratic votes were cast in the county. This is about one-half of the former strength of the party.

Over $15,000,000 a Year Collected for Taxes in Allegheny County

Residents of Allegheny county will this year pay in taxes for all purposes $15,185,498.39. This covers all money paid or worked out for the maintenance of state, county, city, ward, borough and township governments. It also includes the amounts collected for the support of the poor, for streets, roads and bridges, and the amount collected on personal property, on occupations and licenses, on real estate owned by railroad corporations and on real estate owned by corporations other than railroads. These figures are embodied in a report for the year ending May 31, last, to the secretary of internal affairs, prepared yesterday by the county commissioners, as follows:

Conway-Torley Company, may be candidate for select councilman in the Seventeenth ward to succeed A. H. Leslie, who has been elected suprintendent of the workhouse.

Magistrate Vitchestain said last evening that there would be a meeting at South Thirteenth and Sarah streets tomorrow night of the Citizens leaders in the Fifth and Sixth legislative districts, Forty-fifth senatorial and Thirty-second congressional districts. The purpose of the gathering is to discuss plans for the future.

RODGERS WILL CONSIDER.

Larkin's Plan to Sell Bonds as Needed to be Submitted to City Solicitor.

Assistant City Solicitor Carnahan left yesterday for Spring Lake, N. J., to see his chief, City Solicitor Rodgers, who is sojourning there. The city administration is desirous of having all legislation concerning the filtration bond issue handled cautiously, so that the bonds may not be attacked on the score of illegality.

Mr. Rodgers holds that the bonds must be issued and the whole amount of the money in the city treasury before the contract can be awarded. Controller Larkin has a theory that the bonds ought to be issued in series, so that the money may not lie idle in the banks. Larkin laid his opinion before Carnahan, who will submit it to Rodgers.

By selling the bonds as needed, the city would save money, as the difference paid by the city on borrowed money, as compared with the interest received from the city depositories for the privilege of handling the money, causes a loss to the city.

Sharpsburg Sunday Schools to Picnic.

The annual outing and picnic of the Sharpsburg Methodist Episcopal Sabbath school, which will this year be accompanied by the English Lutheran Sabbath school of Sharpsburg, will be held tomorrow at Olympia park, Versailles, and an attendance of over 600 is expected. A great program of sports has been arranged, including 50-yard dashes for and girls, 100-yard dash for men, 50-yard dashes for women and for men, sack, potato and wheelbarrow races, and several other features, with a baseball game between the two schools in the afternoon. The Revs. N. B. Tannehill and J. H. Main will act as judges of the sports. Robert L. Wickline is chairman of the picnic committee.

Let a Supposed Deserter Slip.

The Braddock police allowed a second alleged deserter from the United States navy to slip out of town after he had once been behind the bars. He is James Jack who was arrested on Monday with Harvey Webb. Webb had papers which caused him to be held as a deserter, but Jack was discharged at the hearing. The authorities at Washington were communicated with and word was sent back to hold Webb and be on the lookout for a companion whose description fits Jack in every detail.

FAME OF "TECH" SCHOOLS HAS CROSSED THE OCEAN

Several Distinguished European University Professors Call on Director Hamerschlag.

Director Hamerschlag of the Carnegie Technical schools had a number of distinguished callers yesterday. They represented several European countries, and their visits showed the international interest being taken in the new Pittsburgh educational system which Mr. Hamerschlag is introducing.

W. Jackson, professor of technical ceramics and superintendent of the Hanley School of Pottery, Hanley, England, called on the director to discuss that feature of the new school's courses. Prof. Clarence Feltman, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Darmstadt, who is studying technical education in the United States, was another visitor.

Dr. Hermann Leby, professor of economics at the University of Berlin, also came to discuss the "Economics of American Industries." He is going to write a book on the subject and wanted the director's opinions.

The director is to have a visit also from Dr. C. W. Zimmer, professor of chemistry at the University of Zurich, who is now in this country visiting the world's fair at St. Louis and studying American educational institutions. Dr. Zimmer is much interested in the school of electro-chemistry which has been considered for the "Tech."

Among other callers were seven of the architects who are competing for the architectural contract for the technical schools. A few reporters then arrived and the director went home.

Between callers, Mr. Hamerschlag is studying out the courses in machine design and construction and in applied electricity which are to be given in the schools. Considerable progress is being made in the details of the "Tech" school's work.

Joy and Misfortune Traveled Together

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brennan, 817 Sixth street, Braddock, yesterday, and when Katie, their 6-year-old daughter, ran out on the porch to announce the new arrival to her playmates, she fell 10 feet to the ground and sustained a double fracture of the left arm.

Pittsburgher's Loss at New Homestead.

A two-story frame dwelling house at New Homestead, owned by E. L. Jones, of Pittsburgh, but which had been unoccupied for several weeks, was burned to the ground early yesterday morning and the fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin. The loss is placed at $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

Men's Automobile Garments.

Our Clothing Department has just received some of the latest over-garments, and of course the most fashionable, for Automobiling. The best thing about them is that they are very practical.

MEN'S AUTO LINEN DUSTERS, an assimilation of the duster of former years, only these are belted, and altogether more swagger, $2.50.

MEN'S AUTO SHIRTS—made of light rubber—an outer garment worn like the Chinaman wears his shirt. They come in white and tan. Close fitting collars, big loose sleeves and body, the sleeves having an attached wind cuff, $8.50.

A Queenly Shoe--Queen Quality.

No, sir. They're not for you—the name should tell you that. A shoe of rare gracefulness for women; a shoe as prettily feminine as any shoe ever fashioned from leather.

Queen Quality Shoes possess every attribute of shoes selling for twice as much money, and in saying that it would seem discussion would close. It might, after telling you of the very modest prices charged for these very excellent shoes, were it not that, like every article that becomes famous, there come to the front many shoes of an envious nature that cry out, "I am just as good as Queen Quality."

Queen Quality Boots sell for $3.00. A few special numbers for $3.50.
Queen Quality Oxfords sell for $2.50. A few special numbers for $3.00.

No shoe manufactured today, selling for the same prices, can put forth the claim, "I am just as good." There are none so good for the price, there are none intrinsically better, or possessing more style, for a dollar or a dollar and a half more.

We are proud to be the sole distributing agents for Queen Quality in Greater Pittsburg, and prouder still of the splendid business this famous shoe brings to our Shoe Store.

We carry some sixty different styles of Queen Quality Boots, and every stylish last in Queen Quality Oxfords. Every fashionable leather that enters into the make-up of a good shoe is represented, and we have eleven feminine sizes in these shoes.

Our lines of Queen Quality Tan Oxfords are at their best, and the price is only $3.00.

This department also carries other shoes for women, besides complete lines for girls and boys.

Misses' Shoes in all leathers—sizes from 11½ to 2—prices from $2.00 up to $3.50.

Children's Shoes in all leathers from $1.50 to $3.00.

Shoes for little children and infants from $1.00 to $2.00.

Boys' Tan Shoes for $2.25, worth $3.00. Sizes 11 to 13½.

Women's $5.00 Tan Oxfords have been reduced to $3.50.

We have a lot of Women's $3.00 Oxfords that we'll sell for $1.50. Only three sizes, 2½, 3, 3½.

As the Tennis Court is now a popular resort it may be well to say that we have full lines of Tennis Oxfords for women, boys and girls. Popular prices, of course.

Our Pre-Inventory Sales

go right along, and today there will be the very best sort of Pre-Inventory pick-ups all over the house.

As each floor is of the dimension of one acre, that means there are seven acres in which harvesting is going on, and as harvesting is always associated with cutting, you may rest assured that what you buy today will have had its price cut to the very quick.

The last day of this week we close our books for the past six months and take a reckoning, and you may be very sure there are thousands of things—little lots, odd lots—that will never get into our stock books.

It is this collection that forms the nucleus of our interesting Pre-Inventory Sales, and you select from this collection for the proverbial song.

PENN, FIFTH, CECIL.

THE BASIS OF A NATIONAL CAMPAIGN IS GOLD!

An interesting article on what it costs to conduct a Presidential fight; what amount of money is collected, where it comes from, how it is expended, will be one of the many exclusive features

Wednesday, July 27, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 12 of this issue.

Formal notification of his nomination by the Republican national convention will be given to President Roosevelt at his summer home today. There will be nothing sensational in the notification speech or the reply, though both will be interesting as marking the opening of the campaign and outlining the president's views on public questions. President Roosevelt has given out official utterances upon leading public issues during the past three years, so his position is quite well known. He can but stand upon his record and that of his party upon these matters. That will be enough. Both are absolutely sound and in accord with intelligent public sentiment.

According to an article by Gen. A. L. Abbott in the Engineering Magazine, the dangers of the climate of the Isthmus of Panama have been greatly exaggerated. Popular ideas are founded upon the experience of ill-acclimated workmen engaged in excavating surface soil for the canal. Fortunately, he says, most of the work has now reached a level below the poisonous emanations of decaying organic matter, and thus one great trouble will be obviated. Yellow fever is the most-to-be-dreaded disease on the isthmus, and it is not now epidemic. Its practical eradication as an epidemic from the southern states and from Cuba proves it can be controlled. Therefore it is believed the canal can be built without the appalling fatalities that attended the early work.

There is plenty of encouragement in the financial statement of the United States Steel Corporation, issued after the meeting yesterday. While the earnings of $19,490,725 for the quarter are not much above one-half the earnings for the same quarter of last year, they are more than $6,000,000 greater than for the quarter ending March 31. They are ample to meet interest, sinking fund requirements, depreciation, dividends on preferred stock and to leave a surplus close to $2,000,000. Last quarter there was a deficit of nearly $2,000,000. This indicates marked improvement over the first quarter of this year, and there is reason to believe this improvement will hold, and it may increase during the current quarter. Last quarter was probably the worst the company will ever have.

Addresses delivered before the convention of the Commercial Law League of America yesterday give evidence of the deep-seated conviction in the legal as well as in the lay public mind that regulation of corporations under federal law is a necessity of the times. None of the speakers, naturally, showed any sympathy with that propaganda which aims at destruction of corporate wealth or the hampering of industrial activity. They simply pointed out abuses in the ultra-liberality of the corporation laws of some of the states; some of the abuses of corporate power improperly used, and indicated the conservative but effective remedies to stop such abuses. Along this line the national administration has been working, and it is gratifying to see the leading exponents of commercial law supporting the administration policies.

The Democratic leaders after all were compelled to accept Thomas H. Taggart of Indiana as chairman of the national committee, despite the fact that both the committee and the presidential candidate would have preferred an eastern man. Neither Senator Arthur P. Gorman nor William F. Sheehan would accept the position, because no good captain cares to risk his reputation on a leaky ship. Mr. Taggart will probably do as well as any other Democrat to pilot his party to defeat. He is a hard worker and has been a strong man in his own city, if not in his state at large. Whether the hard work that he will put into the campaign will be of the sort that brings results in national politics, and whether or not he is a real leader, time will tell. No one, not even the Democrats themselves, expect that he can stem the tide of defeat that stares his party in the face.

The case of James Howard of Kentucky, under sentence of life imprisonment for the killing of Senator Goebel, is to be reviewed by the United States supreme court. It reached the court on a writ of error issued by the chief justice of the court of appeals of Kentucky. This is likely to bring the whole matter of the Goebel conspiracy convictions before the supreme court, and give us a clear legal view of a case that has been only a volume of prejudice and the warping of law to meet political ends. If the alleged conspirators were guilty of the crime as charged there would be no hesitancy in sending them all to the gallows. But even the prejudiced judge who has presided in these cases, and who has never let the law or justice interfere with his determination to ruin the Republican party of Kentucky, has not had the moral nerve to do this. The trials have been a travesty on justice, and every case that has been appealed has been sent back for retrial. Therefore a review of the Howard case by the supreme court of the United States will be watched with interest by all lovers of justice—and there are some even in Kentucky.

Contraband of War.

Vigorous protest has been made by Lord Lansdowne, British secretary for foreign affairs, through Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador at London, over the sinking of the Knight Commander. The incident is regarded by the chancelleries of Europe as of the gravest import. It is admitted the Russians might be justified in sinking a ship carrying contraband if it should be very inconvenient to send it to port, but there is wide divergence of opinion among nations as to what constitutes contraband of war. Russia may hold that flour, coal and railroad equipment are contraband, but other nations will not admit the contention in case the articles are consigned to private individuals or firms.

The American rule, laid down many years ago, is so reasonable that it should long ago have been made international law by convention. It is that cargo becomes contraband only when hostile, either by its inherent character or by its intended use. Thus arms, ammunition, explosives and the materials for making them are inherently contraband. Food, fuel, clothing, structural materials and the like are contraband only when destined for the use of armies, navies or in military operations. This is a thoroughly common sense view of the subject and in the line of modern agreement to rob war as far as possible of its inhumanities. It is likely to be adopted by Great Britain in dealing with Russia in the present instance, and it is believed that Russia cannot prove hostile intent against any of the cargo of the Knight Commander.

Meantime America has a more direct interest in the operations of the Vladivostok cruisers. It is reported the Arabia, an American vessel, has been sunk because it carried railroad machinery and material. Unless these were designed for construction to assist the Japanese armies on the continent they were not contraband in the American view. There will be no disposition at Washington to find a casus belli, or to deal harshly with Russia, but it may be expected the American government will be active in protecting the interests of its citizens and that it will demand indemnity for all cargo destroyed without proper warrant. It will also be likely to demand indemnity for American owned cargo, not contraband, that may be destroyed with vessels under other flags than that of the United States. There is a popular feeling that the Russian procedure is high-handed and unwarranted, even though it may be technically legal.

The Right Man for the Place.

Advices received from all quarters and in both parties say that all over the country intense interest is felt in the campaign in New York. The general feeling is that New York is the chief battle ground. Both candidates for the presidency are from that state, both have shown great popular strength at the polls when candidates for state office and nowhere else is there such a clean cut issue as will be presented to the voters of that state in the presidential election. The same movement of public sentiment which will decide the result in New York is likely to sweep along with it a tier of eastern states.

Such being the situation the composition of the state ticket is of the utmost importance. The candidate must be a typical representative of Republicanism, strong in his personality as well as high in his qualifications for the office. There is no man who possesses all the qualifications to such an eminent degree as Elihu Root. While he has not been a candidate and there appears to have been some opposition to the suggestion of his name on the part of the present state administration, yet recent conferences point to the union of all party elements in a demand for his acceptance of the nomination. Under such circumstances Mr. Root could not refuse and with him as the standard bearer the state campaign would attain the greatest dignity and force. His renown is national and his speeches would be read all over the country. He is one of the ablest of our public men and his canvass would constitute an important chapter of our political history.

Facing Both Ways.

In their field observations the Democratic papers are discovering party advantage in having a platform which does not bind the party candidates or commit the party to anything so definitely but what a contrary opinion may be held and acted upon during the campaign. At the Democratic headquarters in Washington it is declared that all reports indicate that Mr. Bryan's course in supporting the ticket while booting at the candidate is holding to the support of the ticket a large section of the party who would have broken away had he acted differently. The Populistic element is convinced that Bryan has not deserted the principles he championed in 1896 and in 1900, so they will still follow his lead and support the ticket on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread.

While Bryan's influence is thus counted upon in the west, Cleveland is the great reliance in the east to secure the support of the Gold Democrats and of corporation interests. It is declared that Cleveland's indorsement of Parker will gain many thousands of votes in the east, while anti-Cleveland sentiment in the south and west will have no effect at the polls, as it has been sufficiently satisfied by previous party repudiation of Cleveland's principles. The anti-Cleveland element has the party record and the party platforms to comfort them. If Cleveland finds Parker's personal attachment to the gold standard sufficient to satisfy him, then matters are easy and comfortable all around. The campaign truce between the factions is so complete that in a speech at the Delaware Chautauqua on Monday on "The Value of an Ideal," Mr. Bryan said:

> If the people want the gold standard, I'll consent to it. Could I be more harmonious than that? If they want radium, of which there are about two pounds in the world, they can have it. You must give Rockefeller one pound and Morgan one pound; then watch both of them.

In a campaign of such elastic principles anti-trust pretenses are found no impediment to party satisfaction in the hope that the trusts will support the ticket in revenge upon a law-enforcing Republican administration. There is something like gloating in the way in which the claim is made that the Rockefeller interests will be on the side of Parker. It is a campaign of harmony between contraries, of agreement between opposites, of fusion between incompatibles. It is a time of party complacency equal to that of Hosea Biglow, when he declared

> "A merciful Providence fashioned us holler
> On purpose that we might our principles swaller."

The Democratic party says to the country: "You have rejected our principles, so that now we lay them all aside. There is, therefore, no reason why you should not let us have the possession of the government." The opening of the campaign finds the Democratic policians busy in computing the attractiveness of the offer.

The Japanese Advance.

The Japanese front is now an arc about 120 miles, extending from Niuchwang, via Taschichiao (Ta-Tche-Kiao) on the south, to Shwangtaitze, southeast of Mukden, on the north. Disposed along this arc are the armies of Gens. Oku, Nodzu and Kuroki. Opposed to them are Russian divisions under Gens. Stakelberg, Keller and Rennenkampff. At both ends of the line the Russians are being hard pressed and have recently been defeated in several engagements. Stakelberg's army, defeated at Telissu and again at Kai-Chou, has just been driven out of Taschichiao after several days of fighting, and the beaten Russians have retreated toward Haicheng. Their retreat involved the abandonment of Niuchwang, which is now occupied by the Japanese, giving their gunboats access to the Liau river, which flanks the Russian lines to the west, the gunboats being accompanied by 20 troopships. At the same time a formidable movement is going on to the extreme north of the Japanese arc. Gen. Keller has been twice defeated in his efforts to check Kuroki's advance, and the movement now going on by way of the Saimatza road threatens to pierce the Russian line between Liao-Yang and Mukden.

It will be seen that the Russian position is extremely critical. The Japanese front parallels the Russian line of retreat, and the divisions strung out between Haicheng and Liao-Yang are in great danger of being completely surrounded and cut off. The Japanese center is now much closer to Liao-Yang than the Russian right wing, which is being rolled up and forced back upon a line of retreat which the Japanese are liable to break in upon. Under the circumstances the Russians are not likely to stay long at Haicheng. Gen. Kuropatkin's position is such that his only chance of extricating himself is to draw in his right wing as rapidly as possible. Its extension southward under pressure from St. Petersburg was a strategical blunder which is likely to cost the Russians dear. Gen. Kuropatkin would have been in much better situation had his army been concentrated at Liao-Yang some time ago, and it will now be his object to accomplish that as rapidly as possible. It is evident that the Japanese are now pressing their advance, so that fighting at one point or another along the line is now likely to be almost continuous. The Russian troops are fighting with the stubborn tenacity for which they are justly noted, but the time seems rapidly approaching when the only relic of Russian rule in southern Manchuria will be the beleaguered Port Arthur garrison upon which the Japanese army of investment is steadily closing in to an extent that has prevented any news coming out from it for a week.

Candidate Davis denies he is to be married. This is a mistake. He should have allowed the story to circulate as an evidence of his youthful spirits. Every little helps, you know.

Neither Mr. Cleveland nor Col. Bryan has had a word to say for fully two days. Can it be possible that they have accepted Judge Parker's policy of silence?

That was a lucky umpire on the South Side who declared the policemen's baseball team losers of the game and escaped arrest.

Local Democrats are to ratify the St. Louis nominations. That's about all the aid they can furnish the ticket.

Certain affairs at the courthouse would indicate that marriage is a failure, in some cases, at least.

If the Democrats cannot have the chairman they want they will accept the one they can get.

Some flippant humorist is likely to refer to those massacres in Turkey as blood-kurd-ling.

Judge Parker refused to see callers yesterday. Evidently busy writing telegrams.

Gen. Kuropatkin continues to draw the Japanese further into Manchuria.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DODDS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—"Dynamite" Johnnie O'Brien, soldier of fortune, returned to this city today after a tour of Indian cities, much broken in health, and but a shadow of the man that braved the fire of the Spanish ships during his filibustering expedition in the Cuban war. For a year he has been in Bombay trying to regain the vigor of younger days, but the little man who has passed through so many trying experiences without "batting an eyelid," seemed to have lost his "grip," as he came down the gangplank of the Italian liner Citta di Terino this morning. In 65 years, his life has been one long siege of excitement and he is now seeking rest for the shaken nerves. He is on his way to St. Louis, for in spite of the fact that he has had much trouble with the American government, he announces that he still thinks it is the greatest of all the nations.

Thrice he has been shipwrecked, twice scuttled, cast ashore half frozen, pursued league after league by Spanish gunboats, arrested in Hayti, Honduras and the Florida Keys; imprisoned and harassed in almost every harbor, it seems but fitting that this man should attend the centennial exposition of the great Louisiana section, that was itself, a century or so ago, the scene of strife similar to that he sought to promote in the lands of the Caribbean sea. In spite of the almost fiction-like tales of his life, there are still old men in the region of Hell Gate who remember O'Brien as an apprentice pilot when he earned the name of "Dare Devil John," which stuck to him all his life, to be supplemented by the soubriquet of "Dynamite Johnnie" when he became a filibuster.

Going Crazy About the "Ponies."

As the horse racing season draws to the close here, before the opening of the Saratoga season, there are the usual number of stories about thefts of employers' money to play the "ponies." Possibly the most pathetic thing, however, came to light today at the Bellevue hospital, when it was learned that Rose Jelloiz, 19 years old, had become insane from the frequent visits to the race tracks. In her delirium she cries out the phrases of the bookmakers at the tracks, and screams at the top of her voice when her distorted vision pictures the closing scenes of a race. The physicians of the pyschopathic ward say it is the most pitiable case that has ever come to their notice and give no hope to the girl's parents that she will recover. When taken to the institution today she pleaded to be given one more chance to place her money upon Highball, and when told of the sad fate of the racer, she wept so violently that she had to be restrained from doing herself bodily harm by being placed in a straitjacket.

Even the Foreigners Have the "Bug."

There was a crowd of jabbering Italians at Mail street and Broadway this afternoon, and when a neighboring bootblack was asked what they were talking about his laconic reply was "ponies." Every rag wholloper at a corner shine emporium and razor wielder at a "Guinea" barber shop, is crazy over betting upon horse races ever since Tony Arte commenced being noticed upon the turf. Arte was a bootblack and is popularly supposed to have made $500,000 at the track. Arte never puts a "long shot over the plate" that he does not tell his friends and every "Dago" from the Battery to Harlem has his money ready for the race day. How they get the tip from one to another is a mystery, but it spreads like an order from the Mafia.

Soft Coal Smoke Defiles the Tombs.

The handsome tombstones and monuments of Woodlawn cemetery are suffering from the soft coal smoke and cinders of the engines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. Many protests have been made to the road officials, but the nuisance continues unabated, and as a result many of the beautiful shafts are almost black. Even as far away from the railroad tracks as Sherry's celebrated dining rooms, complaints may be heard of the clouds of cinders that float in every time a train passes some blocks away. The fault seems to lie with the firemen who do not thoroughly understand the use of soft coal and anyone from Pittsburgh who watches the stacks of one of the passing locomotives is reminded of a Vesuvius, rather than one of the famed stacks of their own town.

Jerome Surprised at His Boom.

District Attorney Jerome returned to this city from his country place at Lakewood this morning, and expressed himself as surprised at the boom that has been started for him for the governorship on the Democratic ticket. He said that he had not given the matter any thought and that while up in the country had spent 10 hours a day working upon a new compass. His conversation, however, was such as to lead his hearers to believe that should Tammany decide to take him under its protecting wing, he would be willing to let the fighting strike. The best thing he said in an interview of half a newspaper column's length was: "We never know what problems are likely to concern us in the future."

Newest Fad of the Seashore Dwellers.

Rag carpet parties are the newest fad of the host of New Yorkers that are now occupying the cottages by the sea. It even threatens to supplant the much beloved game of bridge. This may sound very simple to the initiated, but for those who do not know it may be well to tell them that the proper floor covering is now "rag style."

Any morning that you want to take the trouble to peep beneath the awnings of the shore cottages, you may see a group of women sewing upon strips of bright colored textiles and winding them into balls. This is the foundation for the carpet, and the spreading of the newest gossip of the resort, for each woman is expected to keep up her share of the entertainment by telling "what happened last night." Just how the fad started is not known, but presumably to more than anything else, it may be laid to the desire for "something old."

Bridge Crush May Prove Fatal for Girl.

Each passing day seems to emphasize more strongly the need of additional rapid transit facilities in New York. The subway was promised within a few weeks, but the big strike of the artisans now makes it an uncertainty. Meanwhile the million of travelers every day push and fight for places upon the cars that are offered by the service extant. Today in the crush at the Brooklyn bridge, about 2,000 persons were jammed upon a narrow platform that was meant to accommodate comfortably half that number. When the train left, Maud Fenn was found unconscious, having fainted in the crush, and was trampled in the mad rush for seats. The physicians at the Emergency hospital, that was established at the bridge for just such cases, announced she had been injured internally and that she might not recover.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Be good and you will be happy.
Do you believe that?
There are some who will say they do not and yet they will hardly go on record as saying they will be happier by being bad.
And when you pin people down to the fine point there are none, or at least hardly any, who will say that it pays better to be bad than to be good.
Then, why in the name of sense don't they be good and live happier and more useful lives?
There is a conundrum for you.
And, don't you know, there are many, very many, who can't tell you why they live so carelessly and so negligently of themselves, and of those over whom they exercise a controlling influence, more or less.
Wouldn't you, yourself, like to know why you are not a better man or woman than you are?
Of course you understand that if you don't live right you can't die right, and if you don't strive to live a better and constantly improving life here you cannot enter into the joys of a better life hereafter.

* * * * *

We often hear people say that no one can live up to the golden rule.
The chances are that these have never tried to do so and that their contention is merely an effort to ease their own conscience.
Men and women have lived up to that rule and have invariably prospered and enjoyed life far more than those who have made many dollars by consciously, if not intentionally, violated it.
To do unto your neighbor as you would have him do unto you is about the easiest possible way by which to get along with your neighbors, don't you think?
Under this rule you are to be the judge as to what you would have your neighbor do, and then do unto him accordingly. Being under no law, nor having any restrictions whatever, you are at perfect liberty to do that which you think right and proper.
Can you imagine a more simple, easy, rational way in which to live than this?
Maybe you prefer the versions of the rule quoted in David Harum: "Do unto others as they would do unto you, but do them first."

* * * * *

You may say that your neighbor won't play fair; but that doesn't excuse you for playing foul.
If you do unto him as you would have him do unto you there is little danger of him taking advantage of your good nature and kindly disposition.
Could you take advantage of a neighbor who had treated you fair and square? Would you return evil for good?
Then, what right have you to say that a neighbor would return evil for your good conduct toward him? In doing so are you not making yourself out an evil minded person, suspicious and ill disposed?
But suppose one should occasionally take advantage of you, who would be the greater sufferer from a social point of view? Would he not thereby write himself down as an unscrupulous, dishonest, ungrateful person?
This rule does not require you to place implicit confidence in your neighbor without first finding out whether he is worthy or not. Nor are you required to offer him your purse, nor to divide your possessions with him. You would not expect as much from him, nor would you ask as much.
All this rule requires of you is to ask no more of your neighbor than you would willingly give him were he to ask it of you.
Simple enough, don't you think?

* * * * *

Most people, or at least a great many, have gotten the notion ground into them that they have to beat their neighbor out of of something in order to get ahead of the game, and at the same time see that they don't get beat.
Such as these are simply trying to beat their way through the world.
This would be bad enough at best, but when they resort to deceit, trickery and dishonesty in order to beat the other fellow it becomes too bad entirely, for then they have thrown aside true manhood and ceased to be good citizens.
Maybe you would be ashamed to make it known that you had adopted the golden rule as your rule of life, and you probably would be laughed at more or less, and not only by those who are trying to beat their way through life, right or wrong, but by some who profess Christianity, which is founded upon this rule.
No doubt you may have heard of Golden Rule Jones of Toledo, whose death recently set all the papers to talking about him, and most of them talked nicely, too, which was more than some of them had done while he was living.
"No man has ever been more abused," says Dr. Winship, "not because of any questionable act or word of his, but because he loved the common people too well to fit into the traditions and ambitions of this commercial age."

* * * * *

Following is an extract from a tribute paid to him by one of the Toledo papers, written by one who knew the man through and through. It is a scrap of history that will live because it tells of a man who differed from most other men in that he tried to live right toward him neighbors:

"Mayor Jones is dead.
"And o'er that wasted form which housed a noble soul that made men love the man, Toledo bows in reverence, in sorrow and in love.
"The poor, whose almost hopeless hearts expanded in the warmth of this man's human sympathy, shed tears that spring from honest love, yet feel the richer that they knew this man, who, though he's gone, left something in their lives that money couldn't buy.
"The rich, who once did fear his strong affection for the poor and thought perhaps it might make less their hoard, today are thankful that they learned to know the man, and that in their lives, too, there came that something from this simple man that is not found in marts of trade, but only in the human heart.
"For what he gave to all, to rich, to poor, to sick, to well, to every human thing—was love.
"Mayor Jones was but a man, yet that was all he could be on this earth. 'Twas all he aimed to be or ever hoped to be. And he had learned to know that all the knocks and blows that come in human strife for fame but take away the littleness in man, give his virtues so much better room to grow.
"The mortal tenement is gone, but that which made the man—the soul—lives on forever in the hearts of men, and grows and grows and grows.
"No great reform that helped the human race in its development took root spontaneously in the minds of men, but rather came at first a dream in one man's mind, enlarged his soul, and then kept on its glorious work long after he was dead.
"The thoughts men think that make for love and human happiness are things that have no bone and flesh that rot. They are of the spirit of God and know no death, but rather everlasting life. From him who has them and can fix them in the minds of other men, there constantly pours forth a flood of love whose source grows wondrously as the flood's enlarged.
"And such a man was Jones. Misunderstood, misinterpreted, maligned by those who didn't see the light, albeit some were honest men, his very soul expanded as he learned, through what men did to him, their wants, their weaknesses and their strength.
"'Tis ignorance that prompts a man to pound opinions into other men with clubs. But wisdom sees this ignorance in men who fight and hate, and then for such the hearts of all good men are filled with pity, then with love.
"It was the knowledge of the human heart, the love of man for finer manhood rather than for outward seeming that made Mayor Jones so mild and meek, so glad to try to love with all his heart the very ones who tried to thwart his efforts for his fellows.
"He had learned to look through crowns and badges, uniforms and clothes, and see, inside, the man that God made.
"And seeing thus, the poor looked good to him—likewise the rich—it all depended on the heart.
"And rich and poor and great and low today bow reverently o'er the bier of this good, true and honest man who loved not wealth, nor fame, nor any perishable thing, but loved with all the strength of his great heart all of God's work."

Would Make Riots Look Peaceful.

Those Irish Lads

THE STROLLER.

O'Toole, O'Brien and Brennen! There's a combination you can't beat. 'Cause why: they're Irish. I needn't have told you that, of course, since I had told you the names, but we Irishmen don't always think of that until too late.
Anyhow, that was the combination down in St. Louis, and it got mixed up during the national Democratic convention. W. J. Brennen of Pittsburgh was there, as you all know. So was John F. O'Toole of Pittsburgh. O'Brien belongs to St. Louis. You can usually find his smiling countenance behind the desk at the Southern hotel, because he is the chief clerk.
It so happened that rooms were very scarce in the St. Louis hotels during the convention, and Mr. Brennen was compelled to "double up" with some people whom he had never met before. And then they were Democrats, but Mr. Brennen does not give this as a reason for what followed.
Not knowing just how long he would have to remain in St. Louis to help save the party of Jefferson and Jackson and Bryan and Cleveland, Mr. Brennen carried quite a bundle of money with him—about what Henry Blossom calls "a bunch of long green that looks like $4 worth of lettuce." He didn't care to take chances on someone else spending the roll when he wasn't around to enjoy the fun, so Mr. Brennen dealt himself enough for emergencies and placed the balance in the safe of the hotel.

Before Mr. Brennen got well started separating himself from the green goods he had on his person, things got mighty interesting around Democratic headquarters. Col. Bryan and Mr. Hill had locked horns, and there was a battle that looked good to an Irishman. He couldn't think of anything but the fight, and he always kept prepared to dodge bricks, if the affair developed as it seemed likely it would. Meanwhile his money was simply rotting in his pockets; he just couldn't find time to spend it. Then, after the committees got things fixed up to suit everybody and nobody, came scenes on the floor of the convention that proved that there is a fight or two left in the old Democratic party yet, despite its recent evidence of senile decay. You couldn't tell where a telegram was coming from next, and you just had to keep your eyes on the proceedings or not get the worth of the price of admission.

After the climax was reached on that memorable Sunday morning, Mr. Brennen made a grab for his grip and a quick run for the train. Mr. O'Toole went to the station to see that he got safely away for Pittsburgh. And it was not until he reached the station and had only about 10 minutes to wait that Mr. Brennen discovered that he had left his big money with the hotel clerk. He had plenty for present needs, so he simply called up the hotel on the 'phone. The telephone girl answered.
"Tell Clerk O'Brien that I will give Mr. O'Toole an order for the money that is coming to me from his safe," he told her.
"All right," she replied, after he repeated the name of O'Toole and Brennen several times so she could make no mistake. At least he thought everything was all fixed when he bade Mr. O'Toole good-by and settled down in the train for a nap that he hoped would reach to Pittsburgh and make up for all the sleep he didn't get in St. Louis.

For a couple of days Mr. O'Toole spent most of his time at the big fair—some of it on the Pike. Then his appetite for the gorgeous scenes became sated and he longed for a look at little old Pittsburgh. After packing his grip and preparing to go to the station, he remembered about Mr. Brennen's money. So he went to the clerk and presented his order. The clerk looked it up and discovered a memorandum from the telephone girl, saying it was to be paid to "Mr. Gugenheimer, when he presents an order."
"It's a long jump from Gugenheimer to O'Toole," said Clerk O'Brien. "Looks like Brennen would have to make another trip to St. Louis to get his coin."
"Certainly some mistake," said Mr. O'Toole.
The telephone operator was called into consultation, but she insisted that the name on the memorandum was correct. She couldn't be mistaken. Still there was Mr. Brennen's order and the signature was the same as the one on the hotel register. The time for the train to leave for Pittsburgh was rapidly approaching, but Mr. O'Toole stood by his guns like a confidence man with a gold brick for sale and a granger on the string.
"I'll not go back to Pittsburgh without Billy Brennen's money in my jeans," was the ultimatum he delivered.
Then Clerk O'Brien capitulated.
"We're not going to allow a Gugenheimer to stand between a Brennen, an O'Toole and an O'Brien," he said. "Here's your money. I don't believe Brennen would trust that much money with a Dutchman anyhow."

Carl Schurz for Parker.

Mr. Schurz announces for Judge Parker. He has been with the Republicans this time eight years, the longest engagement he has ever played with any party. A change was to be expected, but the grounds given are not likely to impress the country. Mr. Schurz, who is an anti-imperialist and a civil service reformer, has hopes of those policies in the hands of the men who surround and are supporting Judge Parker. He probably remembers that Judge Gray, who also is supporting Judge Parker, helped to write the Paris peace treaty, and he must know how devoted both David B. Hill and Mr. Gorman are to civil service reform. With Gov. Boutwell appealing to Tammany to help save the country from his old associates, and Mr. Schurz building hopes of a civil service millennium upon some of the most conspicuous spoilsmen of the day, we get a fair line on these parlous and wonderful times.—Washington Star.

A Kansas Paper Has Its Say.

Here is a curious little editorial from the Arcadia Times: "The Times will not discuss politics in this campaign. It will say a few words now and then hold its peace. We left the Republican party in 1896 and supported William J. Bryan. For eight years we have followed his leadership. We are with him today, and expect to be with him four years hence. The St. Louis platform is not altogether satisfactory, and the ticket is worse. We think that Parker and Roosevelt are both owned, soul, body and breeches, by the money power. On the other issues we are for Parker, and shall vote for him. Roosevelt will be elected. It will take six figures to write his majority in Kansas. This is our individual opinion, and this is the first, last and only mention of the matter in these columns. The Times is distinctly a local newspaper."

In Old Kentucky.

Look at Missouri. As in Kentucky, chin-whiskered patriotism of the self-exploiting, self-profiting kind, struck in deep. It was going to eat up the corporations, bloody raw. It was for the p-e-o-p-l-e, and ag'in' the plutocrats. All the time, it was in a darkroom selling itself to whoever would buy it, a blatant, vulgar, detestable fakir, playing and preying upon the popular credulity. Lo, a young man—not a magnetic, soul-scraping young man of the regulation, bayseed brand, but a well-educated, courageous, upright young man—given a small, local place, does his duty fearlessly, and what do we see? The walls of corruption fall before him. Under his leadership Missouri comes to the front, whilst under the leadership as we have had latterly, Kentucky passes to the rear.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Death Roll

John Hutchison.

John Hutchison, for 25 years a leading citizen of New Bethlehem, Pa., died at his home at that place on Monday last, after an illness of six months. Mr. Hutchison was the son of the late Thomas Hutchison of Brockwayville, Pa., and was born 58 years ago in the county of Donegal, Ireland. His parents emigrated to America when he was but 5 years old. Deceased was for many years the leading organ and piano dealer in that section and was well known and respected by all who knew him. He was the father of nine children, all of whom survive. They are all single except one daughter, Mrs. M. E. Blake of New Bethlehem. He is survived by his widow. Of his father's family, two brothers and four sisters survive, viz., Thomas of Brockwayville, Joseph of Pittsburgh, Mrs. M. B. Moorhead, Mrs. James Cooper, Mrs. S. Fye of Brockwayville, and Mrs. Thomas Piper of Eleanora. The funeral services will be conducted at his late home tomorrow morning.

William Greer Guiler.

William Greer Guiler, a well-known corporation attorney, died yesterday at his home, No. 5515 Hays street, after a three weeks' illness of typhoid fever. Mr. Guiler was 57 years old. He was born in Fayette county and was educated in Uniontown and Pittsburgh. In 1870 he was admitted to the Allegheny county bar and practiced in Pittsburgh until 1882, when he returned to Uniontown. In 1895 he came back to Pittsburgh with his family. Mr. Guiler's practice was exclusively civil. He was engaged largely in corporation and real estate cases and was known all over the country as counsel for coal and coke companies. He was married twice, first to Miss Laura Lenhart and then to Miss Emma Brady Newton, who survives him. He also leaves four children, Carrie, Margaret, Mary and Leonard K., a member of the Allegheny county bar. Mr. Guiler will be buried from St. Peter's Episcopal church, Uniontown, at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Mrs. George Crocker.

Mrs. George Crocker of New York and San Francisco, died at the summer home of the family at Newport, R. I., yesterday after a prolonged illness. The funeral will be held today. Mrs. Crocker before her marriage, 12 years ago to George Crocker, a New York banker, was Mrs. Emma Rutherford of San Francisco. Because of ill health she sailed last February for France, where an operation was performed. About a month ago her condition became serious. She reached New York from Europe last Tuesday and went to her summer home Friday. At the bedside when Mrs. Crocker died were her husband and three children, Miss Alice Rutherford, Mrs. Phillip Kearney and Alexander H. Rutherford.

Mrs. Emily C. Burchinal.

Mrs. Emily C. Burchinal, aged 67, widow of Luther W. Burchinal, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Vallant, No. 5406 Black street, East End. She is survived by her daughter and four sons, Charles H. of Toledo, O.; Edward F. of Sheraden; Herbert C. of this city, and Walter S. Burchinal of the National Bank of Western Pennsylvania in this city. Funeral services will be held at her daughter's home at 3 p. m. today. The remains will be taken to Smithfield, Pa., for interment there tomorrow.

Henry P. Dressing.

Henry P. Dressing, aged 50, an employe of the Crescent steel works for 36 years, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 176 Home street, Lawrenceville. He held the position of boss roller for the last 10 years at the works. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Noon Dressing. Funeral services will be held at his late home at 2 p. m. Friday and interment will be made in Allegheny cemetery.

Obituary Notes.

Frank E. Oyster, formerly a prominent business man of East Liverpool, O., died yesterday at Colorado Springs. He went west for his health a year ago.
Word has been received in Washington, Pa., of the death of Joseph Taylor at the Erie Soldiers' home. He was born in Forward township, Allegheny county, 72 years ago. He enlisted in company F, One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry as a private in 1862, and served until July 15, 1865.
Walter S. Hulse, yardmaster of the Bessemer railroad at Butler, Pa., died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles C. Thayer, at New Castle, Pa., yesterday from typhoid fever. During the typhoid fever epidemic at Butler last year he worked tirelessly for the sufferers and his constitution was so enfeebled that he himself fell a victim to the same disease. He was 37 years old and leaves his widow and one daughter.

DEFENDANTS DENY J. H. JAHN'S STORY

Witnesses Tell of Schopfer's Previous Attempts to Kill Himself.

DEFENSE INSISTS UPON SUICIDE

When court adjourned last evening Miss Schopfer and her sister, Aurora Cupps, had finished their testimony in their own behalf in the case charging them with the murder of Charles T. Schopfer, husband of one and brother-in-law of the other. On both direct and cross-examination they told their story of the death of Schopfer and their connection with J. Henry Jahn, the star witness, in a clear and simple manner, denying every portion of Jahn and his wife's testimony, which implicated them in any manner with Schopfer's death, and giving details of Schopfer's attempts to kill himself on other occasions, which was later corroborated by George Laugher, who testified that he had to knock a knife out of Schopfer's hands with a broom before he could quiet him and stop a threatened suicide. Aurora Cupps denied making a confession to Jahn, as she said she had nothing to confess. She expressed surprise when she acknowledged her signature to a paper produced by Jahn, and which purported to be an agreement between her sister and herself for a consideration of $1,000 and a pony and cart.

This paper was produced by Jahn. It contained the signatures of Aurora Cupps and Mrs. Schopfer, and while both seemed to think the signatures were theirs, they denied signing any paper containing such an agreement. Aurora Cupps on another occasion asked in an innocent manner "What dirty work?" when Mr. Robb tried to have her acknowledge she had talked about dirty work in Jahn's office.

Defense to Be Suicide.

After the commonwealth had rested, Attorney C. A. O'Brien opened for the defense by stating to the jury that they proposed to show to their satisfaction that Schopfer had not only come to his death by his own hands and had often threatened suicide, but that both women were on the best of terms with him. Mr. O'Brien said that the defense would show that these women had been merely dupes of J. Henry Jahn; that Aurora Cupps had never made a confession to him and that as the defense regarded the outcome of the case rested almost entirely on Jahn's testimony, they would show he was utterly unworthy of belief.

During the progress of the trial, and especially on cross-examination, Judge Frazer was compelled to take the commonwealth to task for persisting in going into the equity case brought by Mrs. Schopfer against J. Henry Jahn to recover her property, and which she won, the court deciding that he had no right to her property and compelled him reconvey it to her.

Both women stood the ordeal well, although Mrs. Schopfer looked exhausted after she had given her final testimony last night. Neither appear to have any fear of the outcome, Mrs. Schopfer especially using much sarcasm in her answers on cross-examination and appearing to feel considerable chagrin and disgust over the whole affair.

The cross-examination of Jahn was resumed when court convened yesterday morning. He said in answer to one question that he was not allowed to tell a complete story before the coroner, but was expected to only tell enough to hold the women for court. He was placed on redirect examination after the defense was through with him and asked again about points previously testified to. The reason he gave for taking so much interest in the matter was for his conscience sake and a sense of duty.

Jahn Corroborated by His Wife.

Mrs. Mary A. Jahn, wife of the previous witness, corroborated Jahn's story of the confession, saying she overheard Miss Cupps telling the story to her husband at the Schopfer home. She also corroborated the story about Mrs. Schopfer smoking cigarettes while Schopfer lay dead in the house, and added to it that George Laugher had his arm around Mrs. Schopfer's waist at the time. On cross-examination she admitted that she met her husband after court adjourned yesterday and with Linnie Wolford walked down the street with him. She had gone confidently to the position she took when she heard Miss Cupps make her confession. She maintained all the points in her evidence and denied having rehearsed her story with her husband.

Linnie Wolford, Jahn's stenographer, who had been a defendant with him in the Schopfer equity case, followed. She testified to testifying at the trial to Jahn in the latter's office in September. Miss Cupps said she had done her sister's dirty work and her sister had not paid her. She implored Jahn not to tell on her. She had heard Mrs. Schopfer say she would "get Charley to make a will, as she didn't know when he might shuffle off."

Justice J. Riffle testified to Mrs. Schopfer showing him a revolver. She said her husband had one also.

Mary Moser, aged 14, said she worked at the house. Her room was upstairs, but the night Schopfer was shot she was sleeping on the parlor floor because Mrs. Schopfer told her to sleep there. Mrs. Schopfer awakened her at 7 o'clock. She didn't hear "Charley was shot." This was in the kitchen and Miss Cupps, who was there, did not say anything. Earlier in the evening Mrs. Schopfer had given her some beer and she also had some champagne. The witness said Miss Cupps, dressed as a man, and Schopfer had gone to a saloon. At the house she saw Mrs. Schopfer put whisky in Schopfer's beer. He threw it out, but she put it in another glass and this time he drank it. She and Miss Cupps took Schopfer to bed and then Mrs. Schopfer told her to sleep in the parlor.

The defense, under cross-examination, tried to show that Miss Moser went to Jahn's house frequently, but it was objected to. Miss Moser said Miss Cupps dressed as a man for fun. She took the trousers off before going to the saloon. The washstand in Schopfer's room, she said, had been placed against the door several days before.

Met Jahn Many Times.

On redirect-examination the girl said Mrs. Schopfer told her if she said Mrs. Schopfer had drank beer, she would be sent to jail. Then she told her not to tell about putting whisky in the beer. In answer to Mr. Haymaker she said she had not talked to Jahn during the noon recess. She had been at his house a number of times. Monday Jahn had given her 5 cents and her brother 10 cents.

C. M. Fisher, clerk at the Allegheny General hospital, testified that Miss Cupps gave birth to a child there in June, 1903.

F. C. Clark told about the sale of the pony and buggy to Jahn for Mrs. Schopfer, but took a note for it with Jahn's indorsement. His bank advised him the note was no good, he said, and he took his pony and buggy back. They had previously belonged to Schopfer, but he had not purchased them from him.

Register George H. Stengel testified as to the wills of W. A. Schopfer and Charles T. Schopfer and some of the minor accounts connected with the estate, all of which the defense agreed to have submitted.

Attorney O'Brien, in opening for the defense, said the prosecution had failed in establishing a case, but raised a doubt as to how Schopfer came to his death. He said the defense expected to go beyond what the commonwealth had developed and prove beyond a doubt that Schopfer died by his own hand. He would prove that he had frequently threatened to take his life and had on one occasion attempted to kill himself with a knife. He said they would show that Drs. Heitz and Speer made an examination of the window and ground beneath, to prove no person left the room that way. He said that the Z. M. G. Gross would testify to a dying statement, but an objection was raised to this point and it was cut out. He declared that George Laugher would be called to deny the allegations made as to his relations with Mrs. Schopfer and that the statements made by Jahn, the principal actor in the case, were false and actuated by selfish motives, because he failed in his demands to obtain money. He said the whole case rested on the veracity of Jahn and they would show him to be absolutely unworthy of belief. He denounced the whole affair as a plot devised by Jahn.

Mrs. Schopfer Tells Her Story.

Mrs. Schopfer was then called to the stand. In answers to questions put by Attorney Haymaker she said she was 25 years old and told of her married life. Her husband, she said, was nine years her senior and they were married five and one-half years. She told of her husband's conduct and habits, saying she was always a hard drinker. She told of their life in the hotel at Undercliff and of their going to Virginia to live after leaving Undercliff.

Mrs. Schopfer said John Burkett, who had been the bartender at the hotel, went to Clifton Springs, Va., with her husband and herself, where they lived on a farm. Her husband drank hard down there and finally left home, saying he was going to make a man of himself. He came to Allegheny and she and Burkett followed a few months later, going to her mother's home and later back to Undercliff to live with her husband.

Mrs. Schopfer told of the adoption of two children, one a short time before her husband's death. She denied that the last child belonged to her sister or that she and her husband quarreled over the advent of the child in the house, saying he wanted a baby two months after they were married. She was asked regarding the room in which her husband was shot and said that the lock on the door leading to the hall had been broken ever since they lived there; that the door was not used and the dresser testified to as being found against the door had been in that position ever since they had lived in the house. The entrance to the room was through the front chamber.

The witness then declared there was nothing unusual about the time her husband went to bed on the night of the shooting or the condition he was in. He drank every night and on the night in question he had walked up stairs to his room and locked the door as usual. Her husband drank a great deal on the night of the shooting, but that he never got so he could not walk.

Mrs. Schopfer was asked to detail the circumstances of the purchase of the revolver, and said it was at her husband's request to Jahn that he take her to the pawnshops to buy them. She said she sat in the buggy, but that when Jahn brought the revolver out she told him she did not want to see them as she knew nothing about revolvers, and would leave that to his judgment. She said Jahn went home with her and the revolver was taken from the buggy seat by her husband in Jahn's presence. She was then asked to tell of the night of the shooting from 7 o'clock on.

Story of Schopfer's Death.

The witness said at about 7 o'clock she and her sister, Miss Cupps, were cleaning up about the yard. Her husband called to her and asked her to clean in his room. It was so unusual a request that she asked the reason. He told her, she said, "Why, you could not tell what might happen between that time and Sunday morning."

Schopfer, she said, helped them move the furniture about the room while they were cleaning. He drank beer, wine and whisky during the evening. She denied they had put whisky in his beer.

Mrs. Schopfer said he went to bed about 12 o'clock, her sister and little Mary Moser going up to light the gas in the room. Both came down right away and the child would not go to bed, but instead crawled under the sofa in the parlor, saying she was afraid of Mr. Schopfer. When asked why the child was afraid, she said the girl would steal and lie, and was afraid Schopfer would whip her because he had been drinking.

Her sister, the defendant said, went up to bed and she laid on the floor downstairs. She explained that since the new baby had been in the house she had slept on a couch downstairs, as the child's crying annoyed her husband. On the night in question the older child was asleep on the couch and her husband told her to leave him there and to sleep on the floor herself, if there was no other place.

Mrs. Schopfer heard the noise of the shot, not knowing what it was. She went to the stairway and heard the second shot. Her sister, she said, was undressed but not in bed when she ran upstairs. She then told of sending for assistance, as had already been shown.

When she talked with her husband after the doctors arrived, he said he wished he had been killed at once and that she had been well provided for.

Asked if her husband's relations with her sister Aurora had been friendly, she replied they had, and that Jahn asked for the next day and Miss Cupps had gone to his bedside and held his hand. She said she and her husband were on friendly terms and that she always helped him to dress, washing his face and combing his hair. She told of Jahn's arrival with his wife at the house the day after the shooting.

Asked About Money.

Jahn, she said, followed her to her husband's room, and as she left she heard her husband say, "Mr. Jahn, how about that money?" to which Jahn made reply that it would be all right. She went back later and saw her husband signing what she thought was a will, as she didn't know what he might shuffle off." But found out later it was a deed and a note for $7,000.

Mrs. Schopfer declared that Jahn followed her to the kitchen and got her to sign a receipt for her horse and buggy, telling her that it would look bad if her husband died and she drove so valuable an animal. He was to keep the horse for her as his own and get a cheaper one, which was the pony referred to Monday.

The witness denied that Jahn made any insinuations as to the killing by either her or her sister.

Mrs. Schopfer then told of Jahn's visit to the house a few days later and asking if she had found the will. She said she had not looked for it and gave him the keys to a book case where papers were kept. She testified to Jahn's finding the will he had drawn and putting it under the carpet for safe keeping in the presence of her sister and George Laugher. She said Laugher came to her a couple of days later and advised her to take care of it, saying he did not like the way Jahn acted. Jahn had taken care of all her business after her husband's death, taking her to the bank he had only placed $400 there, keeping $800. She asked him about it, she testified, and he said it was because she was so careless with money that he had placed it in his own name, had for her to check against it, and he would stand good. The checks, she said, came back to her without being honored.

Said Jahn Threatened Her.

Mrs. Schopfer told of the effort made to get her money and that Jahn was sent down to Virginia where she was living, by her attorneys, but that he only gave her $100, and $16 for rental of a house. She told of his threat to her that she had killed her husband in O'Brien & Ashley's office, and of Mr. O'Brien telling him he could not make any threats there.

The woman was asked about Jahn's testimony regarding the difference in his testimony of Monday and Tuesday before the jury and before the coroner. She said that he testified that her sister came in at the back door. She stated that her husband earlier in the night locked that door, putting the key in his pocket, where it was found by Dr. Speer on the next day. She denied the burning of any clothing or any talk of poison to him.

On cross-examination by Attorney Robb her testimony was substantially the same as asked about her relations with John Burkett, the bartender, and denied they were intimate. She said that he looked after the bar and house, while she and her husband were in Europe. She denied that they quarreled over Burkett, and that he went to Virginia to work for them on the farm. She was questioned closely as to the time Burkett lived in her mother's house after they came back to Undercliff, and said she rented him a room when she conducted a rooming house. She was closely questioned as to the adoption of the children, and said she did not know of the birth of her sister's child till long afterwards.

Attorney Robb tried to show by Mrs. Schopfer that she had retained counsel long before she was charged with murder, but the court would not allow that testimony to be given. She also shown notes and checks in Jahn's possession amounting to about $2,000 and identified her signature to many papers, but claimed that she had not known what she was signing. She said Jahn would bring papers for her to sign, telling her they were for one thing, and she found out later they were for something different.

Getting Into Equity Suits.

The questioning on the papers brought up the horse deal again and involved so much that the court finally told Attorney Robb that he was getting into equity cases which had been tried, and cautioned him to keep to the case on trial.

Mrs. Schopfer denied that Jahn talked to her sister in the kitchen as he testified, and said the doors of the parlor were closed all that evening.

Attorney Robb then got back at the business dealing again and produced other papers and notes. Some, Mrs. Schopfer said, she had seen, but one, an itemized account with her receipt attached, she said she had never seen till produced in court.

Aurora Cupps was then called to the stand. She said she was nearly 16 years old and had lived with her mother except at short times when at her sister's home. She acknowledged giving birth to a male child on June 4 at the Allegheny General hospital, but refused to say where it was now she said she did not know; it was turned over to a woman from Philadelphia about two weeks later at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lettie Arunson, in Darragh street, Allegheny.

Miss Cupps said she had been confined in jail for four months after the coroner's inquest. She corroborated her sister's testimony as to the shooting of Schopfer. She denied having any conversation with Jahn or his wife and said she had made no confession, either at home or at Jahn's house, as she had nothing to confess.

Miss Cupps testified to going to Jahn's office in November to get a check for $13 50 for her mother's rent. She said her sister told her to do so, as Jahn had $800 belonging to her. Jahn told her that her sister had drawn all the money. She denied that the pony was purchased for her and said she had never driven it and did not know how to drive. She told of Schopfer telling her on the night of the shooting that there would be peace on the door soon, and asking her if she would have lots of music. She said Monday to him: "Yes, Charlie, I'll get all the tin cans in town."

The witness told of an attempt or threat Schopfer made to kill himself a few days before, when he had a knife. She also told of his trying to shoot himself while in Virginia.

She Denied Shooting Him.

On cross-examination she was questioned closely about the child and its disposition but kept to her first story. She was also asked about the adoption of the child by her sister. She said that her sister, Mrs. Schopfer knew nothing of her child till long afterward, and that many of her relatives knew nothing regarding it till it was testified to in court, Monday.

Repudiated the Signature.

The witness was shown a paper alleged to be an agreement drawn in Jahn's office in which Mrs. Schopfer agreed to give her a pony, diamonds and $1,000 from the estate. It was signed by herself and Mrs. Schopfer and witnessed by Jahn and Miss Wolford. She said it was her signature, but she had no knowledge of ever signing such a paper.

The young woman was shown a lease by which her mother was to rent a house for $10 a month from Mrs. Schopfer, and said that had been agreed too, but she knew nothing of any other paper.

Mrs. Schopfer was recalled and identified her signature to the agreement with the sister, but denied ever making such an agreement. She declared she signed many papers which Jahn brought her, some of which he said he would fill out and complete at his office.

Miss Cupps said that on one occasion she signed a paper and then Jahn told her it was the wrong one and presented another in blank, which he was to fill out the next day.

George Laugher of Undercliff said he had known Schopfer for several years and they were good friends. He recalled the two together at Lutz's brewery and went home together at night and would often stop at Schopfer's. He denied being intimate with Mrs. Schopfer or that she and he sat smoking cigarettes and drinking gin in the house. He testified to knocking a knife from Schopfer's hand with a broom when he threatened to kill himself, and to taking a revolver away from him on another occasion. He declared that when he saw Schopfer the morning after the shooting Schopfer told him he shot himself while drinking, and was sorry. He testified to Schopfer asking him the afternoon of the shooting to be a pallbearer at his funeral.

On cross-examination Attorney Robb tried to bring out the fact that Laugher was discharged from the Lutz brewery on account of his relations with Mrs. Schopfer. He denied that he was discharged, but when Attorney Robb asked him if it was not through his brother-in-law, Squire Riffle, that he regained his position, and if his relatives did not make a great fuss on account of Mrs. Schopfer, he admitted that he left the brewery, but denied his wife had ever left him or that she had quarreled with him about Mrs. Schopfer.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE CONVENTION CALLED

National Meeting Will Convene at Indianapolis Next October.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 26.—J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, president of the National Republican league, has issued the following call to all Republican state and territorial leagues, delegates and alternates and members of Republican clubs throughout the United States:

In pursuance of the constitution requiring 60 days' notice, and in compliance with the action of the executive committee, the regular biennial convention of the National Republican league is hereby called to take place in the city of Indianapolis, Ind., Wednesday and Thursday, October 5 and 6, 1904, commencing at 10 o'clock promptly on the morning of the first day.

The Indiana league is making extensive arrangements for the reception and entertainment of visiting delegations. As to this and the detailed program of the National Republican league, additional circulars will be issued. Gov. Durbin of Indiana will deliver the address of welcome, and Senator Fairbanks, Republican nominee for vice president; the Hon. Lesie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury; Senator Beveridge and other distinguished Republicans will deliver addresses.

The following extracts from the constitution of the National Republican league pertain to to representation and qualification:

"Section VI.—The national convention shall be composed of six delegates-at-large from each state organization in the league and four delegates from each congressional district in which there shall be one or more Republican league clubs, together with the president and secretary of each state league, and all officers of the national organization, who shall be ex-officio delegates.

"Section VIII.—It shall be the duty of the officers of each state, territorial league and the American College league, to call a convention of all clubs once in two years for the purpose of electing officers and delegates to the next National league convention."

DAVIS IS A MEAN MAN.

Colored Woman Says Husband Sold Restaurant While She Was Sick.

If her story be true, Mrs. Emma Davis, colored, is married to a man who is perhaps meaner than anyone who has been locked in Central station for a long time.

The woman and her husband were arrested yesterday afternoon at Eleventh street and Liberty avenue for causing a disturbance. At the station the wife said that she was taking her husband to task for what he had done to her. Until five weeks ago she said she had kept a restaurant at 1818 Penn avenue and supported herself because her husband Edward refused to work. She was stricken with typhoid fever, and while she was in the hospital the husband sold out the restaurant.

Now she says she is left without means of supporting herself and her husband is still inclined to be lazy. She put up a forfeit for a hearing this morning.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS ACT.

Boys Who Entered Allegheny Seventh Ward School to Get a Hearing Friday.

The Seventh ward Allegheny school board met last night to determine what course of action to pursue in dealing with the ten small boys who entered the school building last Saturday. The desks in several rooms were rifled, and it is said a valuable collection of mineral and botanical specimens was entirely destroyed.

It was decided that the members of the board attend the hearing before Magistrate Abernathy on Friday morning. None of the lads have been arrested yet.

BRITISH PRESS ANGRY OVER RUSSIA'S ACTS

Report Is Current That Japanese Warships Have Entered the Red Sea.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 27.—The Gazette, on March 4, published a statement communicated to the British by the Russian government setting forth regulations on the subject of captured vessels, and indicating various exceptional cases under which a commander of a Russian cruiser would be entitled to burn or sink a captured vessel after taking off the crew, passengers and papers. These regulations had been in existence since 1895, and it is believed that Lord Lansdowne did not protest against them on this occasion. The newspapers this morning, therefore, consider the publication of the Russian government, in view of the news from the seat of war, must have much to try its temper at the present moment.

A majority of the morning papers, however, print editorials in an angry strain on the further reported seizure of vessels by the Russians, and the delay in the release of the Malacca.

The Standard says: "We do not wish to embarrass the government in the delicate negotiations, but the ministers realize that the temper of the nation is being. Where is the Mediterannean fleet and the China squadron? What is the use of keeping a navy if we are to be subjected to such indignities?"

The Morning Post declares that "Peace is not always preserved by being afraid of war, which is the plain English of being afraid of complications."

According to the Daily Telegraph the delay in reaching a satisfactory settlement with Russia is due to the tragic event of the sinking of the Knight Commander, which it has reason to believe was caused by a torpedo and which, the paper says, has raised a set of questions altogether different from those regarding the status of the volunteer fleet.

It is announced from Malta that the British cruiser Astraea sighted the Malacca Monday evening off Cape Bon, Tunis.

The Daily Mail's Suez correspondent asserts that the steamer Formosa will be released this morning. She was seized, he adds, on Sunday, 430 miles south of Suez.

The same correspondent says it is rumored that Japanese warships have arrived in the Red sea, but that he is unable to confirm it.

Beat Wife With a Chair.

Valentine Boceralot of 29 Magnolia street, Allegheny, was locked up last night and will get a hearing this morning on a charge of aggravated assault and battery. The man was arrested last night after he had beaten his wife, Barbara, with a kitchen chair. The woman's wrist was sprained, her head cut and three ribs broken. Boceralot had been drinking heavily and the assault followed a quarrel with his wife.

Boy's Industrial Home Inspected.

The board of managers of the Boys' Industrial home at Oakdale met at the home yesterday afternoon and made a thorough inspection of the institution. They also drove out to the new farm lately acquired near Oakdale where they found the boys engaged in the hay, wheat and corn fields.

PITTSBURG BUSINESS GRATIFYING TO RAMSEY

Wabash President Is Pleased With Passenger Traffic on New Line.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—Joseph Ramsey, Jr., president of the Wabash railroad, arrived in town this morning. Mr. Ramsey says the passenger traffic to the world's fair continues very satisfactory. The strike of the butchers in Chicago is adversely affecting the freight business of all companies entering that city, as practically no live stock is coming into Chicago from the west and no dressed meat is moving east from that center.

Mr. Ramsey says, also, that the passenger business on the new line to Pittsburgh is gratifying, but that it will be a little time before the freight business on that line is affected materially in the earnings of the Wabash system.

Mr. Ramsey does not anticipate that the consolidation of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Pere Marquette railroads will take traffic from the Wabash. The latter company, with several of the Vanderbilt lines, have given a large amount of business to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, and it is not believed that those companies will be antagonized by the latter by attempting to divert business from those roads to the Pere Marquette exclusively. Mr. Ramsey says general conditions in the west and southwest are favorable.

MONUMENT FOR A MARINE.

Government Raises Shaft Over Grave of McKeesporter Killed at Pekin.

The heroism of Franklin J. Phillips of McKeesport, who was killed during the Boxer uprising in China, received governmental recognition yesterday when a simple monument was placed over his grave in the Versailles cemetery. Phillips, who was 28 years old and unmarried, was a stepson of Constable William C. Means of McKeesport. He entered the United States army at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war and served first in Cuba, participating in the battle of San Juan.

At the expiration of his enlistment he re-enlisted in the army of the Philippines. Shortly after his arrival in the Philippines the boxer uprising occurred and he was among those ordered to China as a United States marine. In the fight before Peking he was shot and killed while serving as color bearer for his company.

The body was brought to McKeesport and buried with honors. The shaft raised yesterday bears the simple inscription: "F. J. Phillips, United States Marine."

FARMER LOST HIS PRISONER.

Sympathetic Carnegie People Thwarted a Greentree Man's Judicial Plans.

After Philip Reise, a farmer of Greentree borough had gone to the trouble of catching a youth in his pear orchard, bound his hands with a piece of rope and marched him four miles to Carnegie for a hearing before Justice McMillan, his prisoner vanished.

When Carnegie people saw the boy with his hands tied being taken to the justice's office, many followed and the youthful culprit excited sympathy. At the justice's office Reise was explaining the boy's offense. "Where is the boy?" inquired the justice. "Here," returned the farmer, turning to where the prisoner had been standing. But nothing but a piece of rope was there. One of the spectators had slyly cut the bit of clothesline and in a twinkle the prisoner had slipped out the back door.

ORIENTAL RUG SACRIFICE

We have exactly 36 hand tufted India Carpets, all good room sizes—that we want sold and want it done quick.

They range in price from $135.00 to $360.00 and in size from 9 by 12 to 12 by 15 feet.

Today we will give a rebate of $25.00 on each and every India Rug at the prices.

25 out of the 36 Rugs are under $200.00 now.

That gift, allowance, or whatever you choose to call it, of Twenty-Five Dollars will make any $135.00 India Rug cost $110.00—$165.00 ones, $140.00 — $200.00 ones, $175.00, and so on.

The same plain figure prices remain on the Rugs that were put on when the Rugs came in, and any that have been reduced remain at the reduced prices and the further concession of $25.00 will be made as stated.

This is a straight business proposition to move a lot of carpet size India Rugs quick, and we expect it to be done.

SISTER LUCILLA MOTHER SUPERIOR AT VILLA MARIE

Chosen by Members of Order at Election at New Bedford, Pa.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 26.—Sister Lucilla was elected mother superior of the Villa Marie convent at New Bedford, this county, at the triennial election of officers of that institution last night. Eighty-five ballots were taken and the Rt. Rev. Frederick I. Horstmann, bishop of the Cleveland diocese, presided at the election. He was assisted by other dignitaries including Monseignor Boff of Cleveland, and the Rev. J. B. Farrell, D. D. of the Cleveland cathedral, the Rev. N. Drohan of Hubbard, O., and others. The election of officers resulted as follows: Mother superior, Sister Lucilla; first assistant, Sister Patrick; second assistant, Sister Clare; first consultor, Sister Conception; second consultor, Sister Genevieve; third consultor, Sister Dolorosa; fourth consultor, Sister Justin. The members of the Sisterhood go into retreat at their triennial elections and cast their ballots precisely after the manner of the holy college of cardinals when electing a pope.

Sister Lucilla, who was elected mother superior, has been a member of the sisterhood of the Humility of Mary for more than 20 years, all of which time she has spent at Villa Marie. She is a native of Hubbard, O. Sister Patrick who retires from the mother superiorship to become the first assistant, held the higher office for 12 years, which is all that one person can serve as mother superior. Following the election the sisters held an informal reception in honor of the new mother superior and this was followed by a banquet in honor of Bishop Horstmann and the visiting clergymen.

PROHIBITIONISTS NAME A. A. STEVENS FOR JUDGE

Dr. Swallow Opens Cold Water Campaign at State Capital.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., July 26.—A. A. Stevens of Tyrone, was nominated for state supreme court judge by the state Prohibition executive committee at a meeting here today to outline a plan of campaign in Pennsylvania this year. Mr. Stevens takes the place of Lee M. Grumbine, of Lebanon, who was nominated by the recent state convention and declined for personal reasons.

Dr. Silas C. Swallow of this city, the Prohibition candidate for president, opened his campaign in the court house this evening at the largest Prohibitionist gathering ever held in Harrisburg. Swallow made a speech along the lines of his address at Indianapolis formally accepting the nemination. Speeches were also made by J. C. Rummel, burgess of Shippensburg, and Mr. Grumbine.

Miners Will Make Complaint.

SCRANTON, PA., July 26.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Company announced today that it would pay its contract miners the increase awarded by the strike commission on the basis of the net instead of gross earnings. The miners will present a grievance to the conciliation board, complaining that the increase should be based on the gross earnings. The conciliation board has not yet definitely passed upon this question.

Do, Re, Mi, fa, Sol to Be Taught in Beaver Falls Public Schools

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 26.—Prof. William H. Young, musical instructor of the New Castle public schools, has presented his resignation to accept a similar position in the public schools of Beaver Falls. The latter position came entirely unsolicited. The Beaver Falls school board asked him to meet with them, which he did several days ago. They discussed the situation, and last night Secretary Moore of the Beaver Falls board of control notified Prof. Young of his unanimous election upon the first ballot.

Prof. Young has been in charge of the musical instruction in the public schools of this city for the past 10 years. Previously he held the same position in the public schools of Sharon. He is widely known among educators throughout this part of the state. The introduction of music as a special branch is to be made this fall at Beaver Falls for the first time.

LINK IN LINE FROM CLEVELAND TO PITTSBURGH

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—It developed here last night in a fight for a franchise admitting the New Castle & Youngstown Interurban line into this city that the connecting link desired with the New Castle Traction Company's line is to be a part of a through trolley service between Pittsburgh and Cleveland, soon to be established. This was divulged by Attorney C. H. Akens, counsel for the traction interests, in his argument in behalf of a perpetual franchise. Select council has limited the grant to 25 years and common council voted to give it in perpetuity. A joint conference committee will decide upon the terms to be offered.

Officers of Steel Company Chosen.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 26.—(Special.)—The annual meeting of the Youngstown Iron Sheet & Tube Company was held today, and for the first time in two years the company has a president, James A. Campbell, vice president and general manager, being selected to succeed George D. Wick. H. G. Dalton of Cleveland is vice president, Richard Garlick, treasurer, and George E. Day is secretary. The amount of the sales of the company for the past year was more than $5,100,000 and the payroll was more than $1,100,000.

Difficult to Retain Teachers.

BUTLER, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—The Butler school board is puzzling over the problem of getting its school teachers to stick. In June the board elected 16 teachers, granting increase in salary of $2 to $15 a month to the teachers who already held positions and raising the average of the salaries paid to about $50 a month. Since then the board has been called upon to consider the resignations of 10 teachers, some caused by securing other positions and some by decisions to marry.

Bishop Whitehead Lays Corner Stone.

GREENSBURG, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, assisted by Archdeacon Flint, the Rev. W. E. Allen, the Rev. Charles M. Braddon, the Rev. T. J. Danner, the Rev. J. P. Garrett and the Rev. H. Hart Barber laid the corner stone of the church of the Advent at Jeannette this afternoon. The rector is the Rev. Mr. Barber, who has charge of the Greensburg parish. A $10,000 church will be built.

Flints Re-Elect Officers.

MARIETTA, O., July 26.—After being in session since July 11, the twenty-seventh national convention of the American Flint Glass Workers' union adjourned sine die today. Martins Ferry was selected as the place for the twenty-eighth convention. The old officers were reelected as follows: President, Thomas Rowe; vice president, William Croke; secretary, John Bobbins, and assistant secretary, William Clark, all of Toledo.

DEMOCRATS MAY NAME BROWN FOR CONTROLLER

Westmoreland Leaders Said to Intend to Nominate a Fusion Ticket.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 26.—It is stated that ex-Senator John H. Brown of Grapeville, will be nominated by the Democrats for controller. Brown was defeated at the Republican primaries by John D. Hatchman of Mt. Pleasant, by more than 5,000 majority. With the announcement of the date for the county convention by County Chairman John Latta the old differences between the Doty and Keenan factions, it was stated, have been forgotten and the Greensburg leaders found that the ex-controller was the strongest candidate they could propose for controller. Two candidates are being put forward for sheriff, David Shupe, of Southwest Greensburg, and John Sondles of Greensburg. Shupe was a candidate three years ago against John H. Fescher, the present sheriff. Thus far no candidates for places on the legislative ticket have been seriously considered. Men from the country districts have started their candidacies, but they have not been taken up by the leaders and it is believed a fusion ticket will be named. Republican County Chairman James H. Gallagher tonight said that he had heard of the plan to place Brown on the Democratic ticket but said that it as yet lacked confirmation. He expects a Republican majority of at least 5,000 despite all fusion plans.

BUTLER, PA., July 26.—Democrats have organized for campaign purposes under the name of the "Butler County Democracy" with A. C. Troutman as chairman and Theodore C. H. Keck as secretary and the following ward committees: First ward, Joseph Schmitzer, Victor Bayonett, Philip Crouse, D. Harper Sutton; Second ward, Isaac G. Smith, Theodore Pape, Lysle Irvine, Mathias Kihn; Third ward, Adam Schmuck, Mayor William Kennedy, Hugh McNamee, George C. Bleil, Miles Shakeley, Joseph Dollar; Fourth ward, Henry F. Kaufman, George A. Evans; Fifth ward, John H. Reiter, Edward McShane, Daniel A. Staer and Frank J. Dillon.

A. M. E. Zion Conference Meets.

SALEM, O., July 26.—(Special.)—The thirteenth annual meeting of the Ohio district conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church, including Pittsburgh and Allegheny, convened here today for a two days' session. The Rev. G. W. Lewis of Pittsburgh presiding. The Sunday school conference will be held Thursday and the Christian Endeavor convention Friday. Dr. Lewis, presiding elder, delivered the annual address in the afternoon and the Rev. George Anderson of Allegheny preached the opening sermon in the evening. A petition for a change in pastorate from the trustees of Carnegie church, in charge of the Rev. H. S. Hick, was ruled out of order.

A Strike Is Expected.

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 26.—The decision of the Coxe Bros. & Company mine workers to go on strike unless the conciliation board today adjusted their grievances, resulted today in Supt. Kudlick being present at the meeting. He took up the entire morning session of the board in stating the company's side of the controversy, claiming that the men were discharged because they violated a rule of the company. No decision was reached, and it is believed there will be a strike.

Tin Plants Are Resuming.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—The Shenango tin mill of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company resumed operations today after a shutdown for repairs, affecting over 3,000 men. The Gregg Tin Mill at New Castle, the Falcon plant at Niles and the South Sharon plants will start within a few days, affording employment to over 2,500 men. The settlement of the scale brought about the resumption.

Former Pennsylvanian Named.

BUTLER, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—Attorney William H. Martin, son of former County Treasurer John T. Martin of Sarversville, has been nominated by the Republicans of the Fourteenth judicial district of Missouri as their candidate for judge. Mr. Martin has been practicing in Jefferson City and Osceola, Mo., since 1888.

VAN TINE WINS HIS BIG SUIT

New York Judge Orders Chicago Broker to Make Accounting.

THE CASE AFFECTS $460,000

W. H. Van Tine of this city yesterday received a telegram from his attorney in New York informing him that the court had decided in his favor in his celebrated suit against W. J. Hilands, a Chicago broker, to compel an accounting. The case was tried in the United States circuit court in New York.

Mr. Van Tine is much elated over the outcome of the litigation, which has been in progress about two years and concerns a deal of several millions dollars magnitude. The decision of the court, given yesterday, will enable Mr. Vantine to share, he claims, in profits of about $460,000.

The case goes back to the time of the formation of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Van Tine acted as broker for the sale of three blocks of Carnegie company stock to the Morgan syndicate, which was promoting the Steel Corporation and needed the Carnegie company stock. Hilands acted as broker for the other end of the plan and the agreement, Mr. Van Tine says, was for an equal division of the profits. The stock which was transferred in the deal consisted of 2,892 shares belonging to the Henry M. Curry estate, 609 shares for John Walker and 589 shares of Andrew M. Moreland.

When the deal was completed Mr. Van Tine says he received but a paltry sum in comparison with what he believes he is entitled to obtain. His demands were refused and the suit for an accounting was entered. It has been fought bitterly on both sides. In all nearly 200 depositions have been taken and the decision has been awaited with more than usual interest.

Some exceedingly prominent people in Pittsburgh and in New York have become interested in the contest, and it was frequently told Mr. Van Tine that he could have no hope of winning out against the opposition which was arrayed on the other side.

TOKYO, July 26.—The military attaches assigned to the Third Japanese army left here today for the field. They will board a transport at Moji on Friday. The British attaches are Col. Apsley-Smith, Major Crawford and Captains Yates and Bannerman. The American attache is First Lieut. Granville R. Fortescue.

Kennedy Pleaded Not Guilty.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 26.—(Special.)—James W. Kennedy, who last night shot and killed his wife, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of murder. He pleaded not guilty and was bound over to common pleas court without bail.

JAPANESE TURN THE RUSSIAN FLANKS

tion preceding the retreat, but the war office things the losses were several hundred, which would indicate pretty severe fighting.

Gen. Kuropatkin does not mention the number of troops engaged, but the presence of Gens. Zaroubaieff and Stakelberg, both corps commanders, shows that the total must have been large, though certainly far inferior to the combined forces of Gens. Oku and Nodzu.

The preceding determined attack on Tan Tchi, 10 miles southeast of Ta-Tche-Kiao, probably rendered the evacuation of the latter place imperative, although the war office has predicted all along that no determined resistance would be made at Ta-Tche-Kiao. In anticipation of a retirement from Ta-The-Kiao orders were sent, July 25, to the Russian garrison at Yinkow, to withdraw.

Fears for Kuropatkin.

Although military men do not seem to be alarmed—the withdrawal of the southern army from Ta-Tche-Kiao tending to concentrate Kuropatkin's forces, thus giving him a smaller front to defend—considerable nervousness is manifested here by those not in the secrets of the Russian commander-in-chief, especially as Gen. Kuropatkin himself points out the danger threatening his line of communications to the north, owing to the development of the Japanese advance from Saimatsze toward Mukden. If this column be pushed home, and the Japanese cordon should at the same time be tightened from the south and east, Gen. Kuropatkin's danger would be easily conceivable. Consequently there is already talk of his preparing to meet this danger by withdrawing to Mukden, and there awaiting further reinforcements. In this connection the report from Vladivostok tonight that Viceroy Alexieff is going there, is peculiarly interesting.

The statement that the Vladivostok squadron is now eastward of the island of Formosa is somewhat astonishing. This report comes from a Russian correspondent who is peculiarly well situated to have definite information regarding the doings of the squadron, but it will be remembered that just prior to the last sortie of the Russian cruisers from Vladivostok this correspondent wired the statement that they would be detained for a long time for repairs, which was palpably a blind to cover the real movements of the cruisers.

Want America's Good Will.

The city is pleased with the cheering news of the activity of the Vladivostok squadron in capturing a Korean mail boat with a valuable cargo, and also in sinking the Knight Commander, although the joy over the latter event was much marred by a strongly worded dispatch from Washington to the effect that her cargo was not contraband. There is an intense desire here to avoid further international complications, especially with America.

For the land operations St. Petersburg today depended on dispatches from Tokyo, in which Gen. Kuroki told that the Japanese were taking Siskeyan, explaining what was reported as severe fighting during the last few days, and which meant, according to this report, that the Japanese lost 570 killed and wounded, and the Russians about 1,800.

BERLIN, July 26.—A correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, who was an eyewitness of the fighting near Ta-Tche-Kiao, telegraphs from Liao-Yang under today's date, that the Japanese unexpectedly opened a cannonade in the evening of July 23, continued Sunday and lasted 14 hours. The Russian batteries, continues the correspondent, were served better than those of the Japanese.

The Russians made a fierce bayonet attack and retained their positions at nightfall, but were unexpectedly ordered to retire during the night. On the morning of July 25 they evacuated the railroad station at Ta-Tche-Kiao, carrying off the movables and burning the bulk of their supplies. When the correspondent left Ta-Tche-Kiao on the last train, at 10 in the morning, the Russian rear guard was still holding Ta-Tche-Kiao.

Battle at Sikseyan.

LIAO-YANG, Monday, July 25.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—The following additional details have been obtained from an eye-witness of the fight at Sikseyan, where the Japanese northern (Saimatsza) column, consisting of a whole division, was engaged against a few battalions of Gen. Herschelmann's newly arrived European troops.

The Japanese began the attack on Sikseyan during the afternoon of July 17, with a bombardment lasting till nightfall. The Russian garrison, composed of six and one-half battalions, of which two battalions were held in reserve, then moved out on the Japanese flank with field artillery and a mountain battery.

The attack was resumed at 4:30 in the morning with an artillery duel which lasted four hours, during which the Russian batteries discharged 20 tons of projectiles. A frontal attack developed at 9 in the morning.

In the meantime a Japanese battalion tried to ford the river and turn the Russian right. The reserves were hurried up, and arrested this attempt. The Japanese then sent another column which charged resolutely in the direction of the Russian trenches, but the Japanese were unable to approach nearer than 600 paces. The main frontal advance of the Japanese was arrested at 1,200 paces.

The Japanese flanking column reappeared at this juncture over the hills on the Russians' right, and small flanking detachments were discovered on the Russian left. The Russian commander thereupon realized that the Japanese were too strong. They were seen to have more than a division, 24 guns and two mounted batteries. Consequently, Gen. Herschelmann ordered a retreat. The guns had scarcely been removed from the heights when the Japanese infantry climbed up and poured a hot fire on the retreating Russians.

JAPANESE TRANSPORTS AT MOUTH OF LIAO

MUKDEN, July 26.—Twenty troop-laden transports, escorted by a Japanese squadron, are cruising off the entrance of the Liao river. The empresses' hospital train passed through Mukden today, bearing 354 men who were wounded in yesterday's fight at Ta-Tche-Kiao.

Gen. Samsonoff Wounded?

ST. PETERSBURG, July 26.—A rumor is current here that Gen. Samsonoff was severely wounded during the fighting at Ta Tche Kiao.

RUSSIANS' WORK CAUSES ALARM

Chance That Car Wheels and Other Pittsburgh Products Were Sunk.

LOOKING INTO THE MATTER.

The seizure and sinking of the British vessel Knight Commander off the coast of Japan by a Russian man-of-war started the Central Car Wheel Company of Pittsburgh to using the Telegraph and the mails yesterday. Some time ago the car wheel company shipped 800 car wheels on the vessel that has been sunk.

Of course, the interest of the Central Car Wheel Company ceased in the car wheels as soon as they were shipped from Pittsburgh to the consignee, the American Trading Company, Yokohama, Japan, but if the wheels were on board the Knight Commander they are lost and an order for another supply may be received.

"The order for the car wheels was a rush order," said David O. Holbrook, vice president of the Central Car Wheel Company, which has its works in McKees Rocks, "and we do not know whether or not the consignment went on board the Knight Commander, although we think it probably did, because the shipment of the order times somewhat with the date of the sailing of the vessel. The wheels may have been aboard another vessel, however."

The American Trading Company is the agent at Yokahoma for the Knight Commander. The dispatches yesterday quoted the trading company as saying there was no contraband of war on the vessel. Interpretations vary, however, as to what contraband is. The United States has always held that food does not constitute contraband of war, yet was satisfied with the indemnity and apology proffered by the government of Great Britain for the seizure of a cargo of flour consigned to Lorenzo Marques during the Boer war.

In addition to the chance of the car wheels being on board the Knight Commander, there is a strong probability that the bridge steel, plates and rails which were reported as part of the cargo from Pittsburgh. It was stated yesterday by an official of the Carnegie Steel Company that the export business of the United States Steel Corporation is managed exclusively by one company, the United States Steel Products Export Company. To this company would be sold all export steel the Carnegie company would have, and the routes of shipping, etc., would be determined by the export company. Hence, it could not be said here whether the steel which was sunk with the Knight Commander was a Pittsburgh product, but it was admitted that there is a strong likelihood of such being the case.

Cincinnati at Chicago.

Sam Leever, after a ten days' lay-off, started in to pitch for the Pirates in the opening game of the series with the St. Louis team, and in one inning placed such a heavy handicap against his team that a victory was out of the question. In that one inning, the first, the visitors pounded the curves served them by Samuel for four hits, two of which were two-baggers, and these with errors by Ritchey and Wagner gave them a start of four runs which was more than enough to win the game, the final score of which was 6 to 1 in the Cardinal's favor.

It is doubtful, however, had Leever been at his best if the home team would have won, for the reason that the players seemed beaten before the start of the game. This may sound a bit singular, but it is true nevertheless, and the 2,670 spectators who watched the game will bear out the assertion. When the very moment it was announced that Jack Taylor was to pitch for the visitors the Pirates seemed to throw up their hands and call it all off. Taylor has always been a "Jonah" for the home team and it seems that the players have come to fear him that extent that they appear to give up all hope even before the game starts. That this is true was shown by the actions of certain players yesterday who went at their work as though they had a hard day's labor before them, and did not put any heart in what they started or how well they got along. This poor work come pretty close to a "run in" between Wagner and Sebring in the first inning. A single had been sent to right while Sebring fielded and returned the ball to Wagner. The ball was so slowly handled as to allow a base runner to advance a base, and this fact caused a warm exchange of words, both on the field and when they reached the bench, but it did not go further than as much as the players cooled down in a short time.

Leever's showing in the opening inning was a miserable exhibition, and when he started out to the rubber in the second Tommy Leach chased him to the bench and Bill Clancy came Miller to the rescue. Miller started out well, but in the third inning the Cardinals touched his delivery up a little lively and scored two runs. Tommy Leach thought he saw a chance to give Stankard a try out and put that player in his place in the fourth inning. The new man had so little to do that it was impossible to get a line on his work. He only had two batters to face, both he accepted in good style, and at bat he was like the majority of the Pirates, helpless before the pitching of Taylor.

Barrett opened the first inning for the Cardinals with a fine drive to left for two bases and Shannon sacrificed him to third, from which point he scored on Beckley's one base hit to right. A long fielding chance which he accepted in good style, and at bat he was like the majority of the Pirates, helpless before the pitching of Taylor.

Waynesburg Beat the Eagles.

WAYNESBURG, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—A warm game was played today between the Waynesburg team and the Waynesburg Eagles nine. Sellers, the Waynesburg right fielder, was in the box for Koebert's champions, while Tustin, our fast Waynesburg pitcher, assisted the force for the Eagles. The game resulted 7 to 3 in favor of the regulars. Waynesburg has games here with Morgantown Wednesday and Thursday and on Friday and Saturday plays at Johnstown. Score:

CHICAGO WON GAME.

Umpire Moran's Rulings Almost Caused a Riot on the Field.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Today's game was a pitcher's battle, which the locals won in the fifth inning on two singles, Seymour's errors and a long fly. Captain Kelley scored Cincinnati's run on his double to left field and Corcoran's duplicate for two bases to deep right. Captain Chance was put out of the game in the second inning for protesting a decision by Umpire Moran, calling Tinker out at first base. The decision provoked a wild demonstration on the part of the spectators, and after the game Moran was escorted from the grounds by police. Attendance, 2,000.

Some Old-Fashioned Slugging.

BOSTON, July 26.—A small crowd saw an old-fashioned free-hitting game today. Philadelphia winning, 8 to 7. Duggleby was retired in the fourth inning. PLUNGER RYAN ARRESTED AT BRIGHTON BEACH TRACK

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 25.—John J. Ryan, owner of race horses, saw two of his blooded runners speed to victory at Brighton Beach today, and in the flush of victory was arrested on a warrant issued in St. Louis charging him with the larceny of $800,000 by means of a get-rich-quick betting scheme in the recent investigation of which several postal officials at Washington were concerned.

Ryan's Reliable, at 16 to 5, won the first race, and in the third, Monster, which recently netted him $30,000, won easily at 9 to 10. Both horses were heavily backed and Ryan was in a jubilant mood. At that very instant Detectives Valley and Collins of the central office and Assistant District Attorney Fickerson and Detective Killilan of St. Louis were making their way toward him. Five minutes later he was under arrest.

Ryan's arrest at the track created a stir. After his arrest he and his captors went to his home at Twenty-second avenue and Eighty-sixth street, Bensonhurst. After arranging some matters there the party entered Ryan's big touring car and the journey was begun to this city. He was taken to police headquarters by the detectives, arriving early in the evening.

Ryan is one of the most successful turfmen who ever came to New York. He has been known on the western turf for 15 years, and his ups and downs have been many. After the collapse of the John J. Ryan Investment Company, a tipster bureau, which he ran in St. Louis, he came here with practically a shoestring of a stake and his plunges at Saratoga and on the tracks about this city have been spectacular in the extreme.

Last August at Saratoga he paid his debts one day in the ring from a market basket full of greenbacks. About the same time he took a flyer in cotton, pulling up $260,000 in cash. Some days at Saratoga he lost as high as $40,000, but he declared at the end of the meeting that he was ahead.

A fair illustration of the man's character and nerve was shown in this city about a year ago, when, while standing idly at a bar in Broadway, he flipped a coin with a comparative stranger for $3,000 and won. When the stranger refused to pay, Ryan backed himself against the coin, and in few words, explained that he did not flip coins for fun and that the money would be paid before either he or the loser left the room. The money was paid.

When Ryan was arrested his pockets were full of money that he had won on his horse today. "This is the unlucky end of a lucky day," he said to the detective.

PRODUCTION OF PIG IRON IN AMERICA

Statistics Compiled by Bulletin of American Iron and Steel Association.

COMPARED WITH 1903 FIGURES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—The bulletin of the American Iron and Steel association in its current issue, says:

"The American Iron and Steel association has received from the manufacturers practically complete statistics of the production of all kinds of pig iron in the United States in the first half of 1904; also practically complete statistics of the stocks of pig iron, which were on hand and for sale on June 30, 1904.

"The production of pig iron in the first half of 1904 was 8,173,438 gross tons against 8,801,893 tons in the last half of 1903 and 9,707,367 tons in the first half of 1903. The production of Bessemer pig iron in the first half of 1904 was 4,530,946 gross tons against 4,509,289 tons in the last half of 1903 and 5,489,619 tons in the first half of 1903. The figures for the first half of 1904 include 3,562 tons of low phosphorus pig iron, against 119,698 tons in the last half of 1903 and 89,723 tons in the first half of that year.

"The production of basic pig iron in the first half of 1904 was 1,061,901 gross tons against 836,923 tons in the last half of 1903 and 1,203,867 tons in the first half of 1903. Spiegeleisen pig iron made with charcoal is not included. The production of charcoal pig iron in the first half of 1904 was 213,356 gross tons against 272,040 tons in the last half of 1903 and 252,717 tons in the first half of 1903.

"The production of spiegeleisen and ferromanganese in the first half of 1904 was 114,208 gross tons against 81,986 tons in the last half of 1903 and 119,675 tons in the first half of 1903. The production of ferromanganese alone in the first half of 1904 amounted to 26,541 tons against 14,118 tons in the last half of 1903 and 21,845 tons in the first half of that year.

"The production of bituminous coal and coke pig iron in the first six months of 1904 amounted to 7,837,279 gross tons, of anthracite and coke mixed to 607,624 tons of anthracite alone to 15,179 tons and of charcoal to 213,356 tons. Included in the bituminous figures is a small quantity of ferro-silicon made with electricity.

"The stocks which were unsold in the hands of manufacturers or their agents or were under their control in warrant yards or elsewhere on June 30, 1904, amounted to 823,254 tons, against 591,438 tons on December 31, 1903, 126,301 tons on June 30, 1903, and 49,951 tons on December 31, 1902.

"The whole number of furnaces in blast on June 30, 1904, was 216, against 182 on December 31, 1903, 320 on June 30, 1903, 307 on December 31, 1902, and 286 on June 30, 1902. The number of furnaces idle on June 30, 1904, was 209.

PITTSBURGH LIMITED JUMPS THE TRACKS

Baltimore & Ohio Express Strikes Broken Rail and Several Persons Are Hurt.

The Pittsburgh Limited, the fast westbound New York-Pittsburgh express on the Baltimore & Ohio, was wrecked by a broken rail near Banning station, yesterday morning about 7:50 o'clock. The injured were:

W. H. HOPEWELL, cook in dining car, badly scaled; taken to Connellsville.

E. L. WINCHALL, Clarksburg; bruised about limbs and body.

MRS. E. L. WINCHALL, Clarksburg; bruised and suffering from shock.

F. A. CATEN, Edgewood, face cut by glass.

GLORGE JACKSON, waiter, cut by flying glass.

Other passengers were more or less shaken up, but none was hurt dangerously. The cook is expected to recover.

The train was making schedule speed of about 40 miles an hour just east of Banning station when the big Atlantic type engine struck the broken rail. It jumped from the track and plowed through the ballast between the ties for 100 yards, finally stopping, buried to the top of its six-foot drivers in stone and dirt. All of the cars except the diner remained right side up. The dining car, which was attached at the rear, turned over on its side and all of those hurt were in that car.

Engineer Edward Shupe and Fireman M. J. Allen stayed with the engine until it stopped. Both tracks were blocked for a time. Superintendent R. W. Duer of the Pittsburgh division went to the wreck and took personal charge of the clearing of the tracks. Traffic was resumed in the afternoon.

LEGISLATURE OF WEST VIRGINIA IN SESSION

Lawmakers Convene to Consider Tax Measures, Agreed Upon by Republicans.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., July 26.—The West Virginia legislature convened in extra session today at noon to consider the tax measures, as agreed upon by the committee appointed at the Washington conference of Republican leaders several months ago. After the reading of the governor's message, the tax bills were presented to the two houses, when adjournment was taken until tomorrow. A caucus of the Republican majority is being held tonight.

The main feature of the bills is the abolition of the state direct tax of 35 cents. To make up for this loss of revenue, special taxes are proposed to be laid on express, telegraph, railroad and pipe line companies and other corporations, and also on collateral inheritance.

Friend of Willis Cox Heard From.

James Barger, Jersey City, telegraphed to the coroner last evening to hold the body of Willis Cox until he could arrive here today. Cox is the colored man who was suffocated in a boiler at the Nixon theater last Thursday.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

C. H. & D. DEAL WILL BE FOUGHT

Preferred Stockholders Will Go Into Court to Prepent Merger.

PERE MARQUETTE INVOLVED

CINCINNATI, O., July 26.—The preferred stockholders of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad Company have decided to take legal measures to set aside the deal whereby a syndicate have secured control of the property, and through the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton acquired control of the Pere Marquette.

An injunction suit will be filed in the local courts by the preferred stockholders, asking that the present deal be enjoined and that the property remain as it was heretofore.

A number of large stockholders stated today that among other things they will ask the court to prevent the issuance of the $25,000,000 mortgage bonds against the property. They will state to the court that there is no legal right for the issuance of this bonded indebtedness without the consent of the preferred stockholders.

One of the sensational charges that they will make in the allegations to the court is that this pool, composed of men from this city, New York, Boston and St. Louis, have used the credit of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton to carry on their deal at the expense of the preferred stockholders. They will also claim that the syndicate has no right to use the bonds which they propose to issue in acquiring the common stock of the Pere Marquette stock and will also have the bonds against the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

The holders of the preferred stock will also ask the court to set aside the election of the new set of officers and reinstate the old ones. They say they will carry the case to the highest courts in the land.

REAR ADMIRAL TAYLOR DIES OF PERITONITIS

Had Gone to Canada to Visit His Son and Was Ill But a Short Time.

SUDBURY, ONT., July 26.—Rear Admiral H. Clay Taylor of the United States navy, who commanded the Indiana at the battle of Santiago, died at Copper Cliff general hospital at 8:15 tonight of peritonitis.

Admiral Taylor arrived at Sudbury on July 16 on a visit to his son, Roger Taylor, superintendent of Smelters at the Canadian Copper Company's works at Copperclift. The admiral, who took suddenly ill at the Balmoral hotel, was removed to Copper Cliff by special train last Wednesday and a specialist called from Montreal. The admiral's condition improved somewhat up to last night, when the case presented a more serious aspect.

At the admiral's deathbed were his wife, daughter, Mrs. W. R. Gherardi, wife of Lieutenant W. R. Gherardi, U. S. N., and his two sons, Roger and Tresley. The body will be taken to Washington.

WINDOW GLASS ADVANCED.

Western Jobbers' Association Will Add 10 Per Cent to the Price.

CHICAGO, July 26.—(Special.)—Window glass has been added to the list of commodities which are rising in price. An advance of between 5 and 7 per cent in the cost to the trade was decided upon at a meeting held at the Auditorium Annex today by the Western Window Glass Jobbers' association, while it was decided to make a further advance of 10 per cent within 30 days.

Forty of the leading firms in the territory from Pittsburgh to the Missouri river were represented, while J. P. Johnston of Hartford, Conn., one of the three manufacturers who control the glass supply of the country, was also in consultation.

"The advance is simply the result of conditions of supply and demand," explained Chairman W. S. Kenny. "Glass production has been curtailed and now there is a shortage."

TWO MISSING HUSBANDS.

Wilkinsburg Police Appealed to by Wives Left Destitute and Alone.

Two missing husbands were reported to the Wilkinsburg police yesterday. William R. Farrar, aged 35 years, of Kelly street, has been missing since Wednesday last. He was a draughtsman for the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company and was married 17 years ago. He left telling his wife he was going to draw his salary and leave her, as he was tired of her.

The other man is Albert R. Flicker, aged 25 years, of Hart street, Wilkinsburg, who disappeared yesterday morning. He picked up his hat and walked out, leaving his wife and baby and has not been heard of since.

HARD KNOCKS ON HEAD.

Louis Stumpt Intends to Whip Last Man Who Hit Him.

Louis Stumpt had a fight with a fellow Pole yesterday and went to Dr. D. H. Clark to have a lacerated wound of the scalp, inflicted with a piece of slag, patched up. The physician found a hole in Stumpt's skull as big as a dollar, but Stumpt said it was an orifice remaining from a year-old fracture of the skull.

Stumpt was advised to have his assailant arrested, but he said he intended to "lick" the man today.

JAMES B. HOWARD CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The record in the case of James B. Howard against the commonwealth of Kentucky was filed in the United States supreme court today. Howard was convicted of complicity in the murder of William Goebel and was sentenced to imprisonment for life. The case comes to the supreme court of the United States on a writ of error issued by the chief justice of the court of appeals of Kentucky.

Bluffed Things With Blank Cartridges.

Accused by his wife of trying to shoot her, Antony Butkofski was arrested last night and confined in No. 3 police station. His revolver was found to contain blank cartridges. The Butkofskis live at 3019 Preble avenue.

PARKER'S WORDS COME BACK HOME

WRITES HIM LETTER OF IRONY

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 26.—The prevailing opinion in the action brought by Abigail Roberson of Rochester to restrain a manufacturing concern from the unauthorized use of her picture was adverse to the young woman and was written by Judge Parker. The young woman has written an open letter to the judge in which she says she had read that Mrs. Parker has been compelled by the ubiquitous photograph to leave home and that the judge is quoted as saying:

"I reserve the right to put my hands in my pockets and assume comfortable attitudes without being everlastingly afraid that I shall be snapped by some fellow with a camera."

"I take this opportunity to remind you that you have no such right as that which you assert," says Miss Roberson.

"I have very high authority for my statement, being nothing less than a decision of the court of appeals of this state wherein you wrote the prevailing opinion. The action was one in which I was the plaintiff.

"You may recollect that the facts in that case were admitted that the defendants, without my knowledge or consent and knowing that they had no right or authority so to do, had secured my photograph, and, having caused it to be enlarged and lithographed to life size, and circulated copies thereof as an advertisement, that such use of me likeness caused my illness and that I desired an injunction against the defendants restraining the further use thereof.

"The special term held I was entitled to relief. The appelate division of the Fourth department unanimously affirmed that decision and upon the appeal to the court of appeals this latter court was divided, three of the judges deciding with you that the facts admitted furnished no ground for relief, and three dissenting. You referred to my cause of action as a so-called right of privacy and admitted that such publicity, which some find agreeable, is to plaintiff very distasteful and that I suffered mental distress, when others would have appreciated the compliment to their beauty, and in an opinion 16 pages long you arrived at the conclusion that I had no rights that could be protected by your tribunal.

"To be perfectly fair to you, I ought to say you expressly excepted from the effect of your decision any publication under similar circumstances which was in its nature libelous. It necessarily follows, therefore when you now say that you reserve the 'right' not to be photographed with your hands in your pockets or in other comfortable attitudes, either that you are asserting a right for yourself and your family which you are unwilling to accord litigants before your court, or else that there is something in the attitude suggested of such a nature that a reproduction of it which photographic exactness would be necessarily libelous. It is not apparent how your likeness in the attitude suggested could be libelous at least, not as long as you kept your hands in your own pockets."

Miss Roberson points out that in her case she never courted publicity and was a person in whom the people could have no interest while the judge on the contrary is a public character.

NEW HAMPSHIRE WILL ENTERTAIN CLEVELAND

State Will Tender a Reception to the Former President and Family.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SANDWICH, N. H., July 26.—Arrangements are being perfected for a public reception to be tendered former President Cleveland to mark the coming of the Cleveland family into the state as summer residents. Gov. Bachelder and his staff and many other prominent persons from all over the state will attend Col. G. D. Hoyt of Gov. Bachelder's staff has just returned from a visit to Mr. Cleveland's summer home, the old Silas Frye farm at North Sandwich. He went to arrange for the reception and secured the assent of the former president. The date will probably be fixed for some day within two weeks. Invitations will be issued to residents of the state generally.

Mr. Cleveland, since joining his family at North Sandwich recently from Buzzards Bay, has been resting very quietly at the remodelled old farmhouse, as he is not yet in robust health. Although he brought his tackle with him the fishing in this region is not altogether to his liking. The favorite plan of the trout fisherman to follow down a mountain stream for several miles, does not appeal to him.

He has made the acquaintance of some neighbors in the vicinity of the Stevenson farm and it is said, enjoys a game at cribbage with one of the men there. He seldom shows himself on the road far from home, but Mrs. Cleveland drives a great deal in company with her friends, the Finleys, who occupy a farm nearby.

POSTAL CLERKS MEET.

Fred S. Dietz of Harrisburg, Pa., Is Elected Division President.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Officers were elected and delegates to the national convention to be held in Boston next September were chosen today at the tenth annual convention of the second division National association of Railway Postal Clerks, which was held in this city. The division includes the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, and Porto Rico, all of which were represented by delegates. The officers elected were: President, Fred S. Dietz, Harrisburg, Pa.; vice president, A. C. Day, Binghamton, N. Y.; secretary-treasurer, C. C. Reiff, Philadelphia. The delegates to the national convention chosen were D. W. Gore, Buffalo; J. A. Davidson, Pittsburgh; E. B. Ashe, Erie, Pa., and F. G. Dorsey, Washington, D. C.

Among the more prominent measures discussed in the interests of the railway mail service and its employes was an increase in grade and pay of clerks on department car lines, and a retirement bill for the injured and disabled employes of the service, recently introduced in congress by Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, which was unanimously indorsed by the convention.

To Improve McClure Avenue.

A special meeting of Allegheny select council may be called for Friday night by Mayor Wyman that the ordinance changing the grade of McClure avenue may be passed finally. President Torrance said yesterday that as councils had adjourned until September 15, he had no authority to issue a call for a special meeting. The condition of McClure avenue in the vicinity of the Ft. Wayne railway tracks is such that the residents are complaining and urging the immediate completion of the work.

Thief Smashed Cash Register.

The Allegheny police are looking for a negro who entered the office of the Patterson Coal Company, on the flat under the Sixth street bridge, yesterday afternoon and stole $29. One of the company's employes, who was working a pump at the lower end of the float, heard a crash, and while hurrying to the office, saw the negro running out across the Pittsburgh & Western tracks toward the ball park. The cash register had been smashed and the contents taken.

Action on Ordinance Deferred.

Labor leaders met yesterday to draw up an ordinance to be presented to the councils for the betterment of the workmen engaged by the city. Last week Thomas Blackburn sent for copies of ordinances passed by other cities bearing on the question, but has not received any replies. The meeting was adjourned for that reason until next Tuesday.

SOCIETY

MISS MARY SIEBENECK will leave tomorrow for Coburg, Canada, where she will be married on Monday, August 1, to Thorsten E. Billquist, a young Pittsburgh architect. The wedding will be conducted at the summer home of Miss Siebeneck's aunt, Mrs. King, the wife of Dr. Cyrus B. King of Allegheny, and the guests will include only the immediate relatives and family friends, scarcely a score in number. The marriage will be solemnized at noon by Canon Stragg of Coburg. It will be a very quiet and simple wedding ceremony and there will be no attendants. Mr. Billquist and his bride will spend their honeymoon abroad, in England and in Sweden, and in the fall will return to Pittsburgh where they will make their home.

The engagement was announced several months ago. Miss Siebeneck is the younger daughter of Joseph G. Siebeneck of Beech avenue, Allegheny, and a niece of Mrs. Cyrus B. King and of Henry C. King of Pittsburgh and Port Hope, Canada; of Wilson King of Birmingham, England, and of Lady Colin Scott-Montcrief of England. Mr. Billquist is a graduate of the University of Stockholm. While abroad Mr. and Mrs. Billquist will visit relatives in England and Sweden.

Marriage Ceremony Interpreted.

An interesting wedding took place yesterday afternoon in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, the bride being Miss Lulu Hoetler of Castle Shannon and the bridegroom, George Churchfield of Wilmerding. The marriage ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. J. V. Stratton, the acting pastor. The bride is a deaf mute and the ceremony was interpreted by Prof. A. U. Downing of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb in Edgewood. There were no attendants, but a little company of friends of the bride and bridegroom witnessed the marriage. They will live in Mt. Washington. The bride is a member of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church. Mr. Churchfield was in the Philippines until last April, a soldier in the Twenty-eighth regiment, infantry.

Merrell-Probst.

GREENSBURG, PA., July 26.—(Special.)—Miss Ruth Merrell, daughter of Oscar Merrell, president of the First National bank of Jeannette, and George M. Probst of Greensburg were married this morning by the Rev. H. Hobart Barber, in Christ church. The bride was given away by her brother, Roland Merrell. R. M. Baughman of Jeannette was the best man. The ushers were Mac Shearer and Charles L. Probst, both of Greensburg. Mr. and Mrs. Probst left for a wedding trip to Conneaut Lake, Philipsburg and Clearfield. The ceremony was witnessed by 150 guests from Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Braddock, Philipsburg, Clearfield, Jeannette and Greensburg.

Will Announce Her Sister's Engagement.

Miss Gladden of McDonald, Pa., will entertain this afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Iva C. Gladden, whose engagement to Samuel Holland Ridall of Pittsburgh, she will announce. The wedding will take place in the late autumn. There will be three other guests of honor at the tea this afternoon, Mrs. William S. Shaner, Miss Mabel E. La Robb of Allentown and Mrs. Talbot B. Moorhead of Whittier, Cal. The hours will be from 2 o'clock until 5.

Greatly Reduced the Mortgage.

Pleasing news at the meeting of the managers of the Boys' Industrial Home in Oakdale yesterday afternoon was the information that the mortgage of $7,500 on the farm purchased a few months ago had been reduced to $450. The managers have decided to enlarge the greenhouse, doubling its capacity. The greenhouse has become a very profitable source of income. In September a superintendent will be placed in charge of the manual training department and the boys will be required to give a couple of hours each day to the learning of some branch of that course, which, it is expected, will be so conducted that it will initiate the boys to some trade.

Garden Party at Brighton Club.

The second of a series of monthly garden parties at the Brighton Country club was held last evening and the grounds about the club house, the piazzas and the club house itself, were crowded with members of the club and their friends. The wide piazzas and the lawns were gaily decorated with rows of fantastic Japanese lanterns, but within the club house the decorations were very simple. Dancing was conducted in the two long rooms on the first floor, the platform which formerly stood beside the club house and which was used for dancing having been removed. Refreshments were served informally.

Farewell to Lieut. Drury.

Miss Margaret M. Timms of Home street, gave a farewell reception last evening in honor of Lieut. Ralph W. Drury, who has been stationed at the Allegheny arsenal for the past two years. Lieut. Drury has been assigned to the quartermaster's department at Jeffersonville, Ind., and will assume his new duties there August 1. The dining room was elaborately decorated for the occasion, the color effect being pink and white. Covers were laid for 20.

Cooper-Denholm.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Matthew S. Denholm, 462 Frankstown avenue last evening at 8 o'clock, when Mr. Denholm's daughter, Miss Hilda Denholm, was married to Robert Cooper, a well-known young business man of the East End. The Rev. W. E. McCulloch, pastor of the Hamilton Avenue United Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

Will Wed Sharon (Pa.) Man.

WARREN, O., July 26.—(Special.)—Miss Jean Russell, a prominent young society woman, gave a tea this afternoon and announced her engagement to Joseph Roberts of Sharon, Pa. Miss Russell is the youngest daughter of the Hon. J. W. Russell, who formerly lived in Mercer county, Pa., and served in the Pennsylvania legislature. Mr. Roberts is a prominent young business man of Sharon.

Pittsburghers at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 26.—(Special.)—Among today's arrivals at the New Cliffs hotel were Ph. Hamburger and daughter, Miss Hattie Hamburger, of Pittsburgh.

Notes of Society.

The last outing of the season of Pittsburgh commandery, No. 1, Knights Templar, will be held this evening in Southern park from 5 until 11:30 o'clock.

St. Brigid's Usher club is completing arrangements for the third annual lawn fete of the club at Kenwood lawn, Thursday evening, August 4.

PERSONALS

"I have lived in the Hawaiian Islands several years, and am sincere in believing it the garden spot of creation," said M. E. Grossman, a physician of Honolulu, when seen at the Union station last night on his way to St. Louis. "Our people are not chronic grumblers, and if there is any medicine to imbibe they take it like men. Hence we do not come whining and crying to Uncle Sam but the truth is that in some way Hawaii has had a very rough, not to say unjust, deal ever since it became a part of the United States territory. We have caught it where the ax met the chicken pretty much ever since annexation. Our recorder have been transferred to Washington and only a beggarly pittance given us back. However, if the next congress will take up our case and give us just a modicum of considerate treatment all will be forgotten and forgiven. We are at heart proud of being Americans, and the flag is as sacred to us in far-off Honolulu as to the denizens of Washington.

Col. J. F. Supple of Baltimore, member of the Fourth Maryland National guards, passed through the city last night on his way to St. Louis. "Our city, like many others, is just recovering from a depression," said he. "The steel industry affects Baltimore as much as any other city in the union. The fish shippers are expecting a rushing business next season, and if the meat strike lasts much longer the season will open earlier than usual."

E. B. Pryor, assistant to President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash railroad, arrived in the city yesterday on business pertaining to the company. He is at the Lincoln.

Two special cars, filled with the agents of the Equitable Life Assurance society's Pittsburgh office, and their friends, left the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie station last evening on the Boston Special bound for a two weeks' pleasure trip. This is the sixth annual midsummer outing tendered by Manager Edward A. Woods of the agency to the agents who produced a certain amount of business. The principal stop of the party will be for one week at Bluff Point on Lake Champlain. The party will then go to New York, where they will be entertained by Mr. Woods at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and at the Lawyers club by the officers of the society.

Joseph Leiter is at the Hotel Schenley. Mr. Leiter is well known as the young man who engineered the corner in wheat some years ago and whose miners at Leiter, Ill., are now on strike. It is understood he is here on business connected with his mining interests.

Walter Q. Worthington, lieutenant commander of the United States navy, is at the Hotel Schenley.

The Rev. John L. Yoount of Greensburg will be installed as pastor of the First Lutheran church of Homestead on Sunday, August 7.

Attorney George W. Hazen and Mrs. Hazen of Portland, Ore., are the guests of Attorney and Mrs. R. B. Petty of this city. Mr. Hazen was formerly a Pittsburger, but for nearly 16 years he has lived in Portland. He is an enthusiastic boomer of that city, and incidentally of the Lewis and Clark centennial exposition to be held there next year, but at the same time he is well pleased to be able to be in Pittsburgh once more and renew old acquaintances. Judge Frazer described Mr. Hazen well when the latter called on him at the court house yesterday, as he said: "George, you have every appearance of being a very happy man." Mr. and Mrs. Hazen and Mr. and Mrs. Petty met at the world's fair in St. Louis by appointment and after doing that show the westerners came on to Pittsburgh to visit the Pettys.

The fifth of a total of 27 German touring parties arrived in Pittsburgh last evening. There were 35 in the party registering at the Monongahela house. Today will be spent in sightseeing in Pittsburgh and tonight they will leave for St. Louis.

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

Residents of nearby towns at the local hotels last night were:

Holtz-Lallance.

WHEELING, W. VA., July 26.—(Special.)—At the residence of the Rev. Dr. Earl Douglass Holtz, pastor of the Thompson Methodist Episcopal church, his daughter, Miss Eleanor, was united in marriage tonight to Leroy Armstrong Lallance, a prominent wheeling pharmacist. The officiating clergyman was the bride's uncle, the Rev. F. D. Holtz of Windham, O., and the attendants were members of her family and classmates at the Ohio Wesleyan university. The maid of honor was Miss Alma S. Holtz and the groom's best man Dr. Wilbur M. Holtz of Pittsburgh. The maids were Miss Grace Dye of Toronto, O.; Miss Mabel Wilson of London, O.; Miss Edith St. John of Bowling Green, O.; Miss Bess Hull of Findlay, O., and Miss Laura Holtz, sister of the bride. The ushers were Frank Kincheloe and Frank Brown. Miss Fern Fogle of Alliance, O., played the wedding marches. Mrs. J. M. Holtz of Pittsburgh was one of the guests. After the ceremony a reception was held, after which Mr. and Mrs. Lallance departed for the east.

Carnival of Avalon Firemen Opened.

The Avalon volunteer fire department opened its carnival last night. A parade with Burgess William as chief marshal passed through Avalon and Bellevue, countermarching to the carnival grounds in California avenue. Three thousand people attended last night and all attractions did a rushing business. Tonight the firemen will entertain 60 children from the I. O. O. F. home in Ben Avon.

Dead Carrier Pigeon Found.

A brown carrier pigeon last night fell dead in the yard of ex-Senator Arthur Kennedy at Park and Sturgeon streets, Allegheny. Around the leg was a tin tag on which was stamped "L4, 1901."

THULLEN MAKES TWO RESCUES

Pittsburgher Saves Exhausted Daughter and Baltimore Bather from Drowning.

ATLANTIC CITY IS CROWDED

Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 26.

J. C. Thullen of Pittsburgh, who is spending the summer at the Champion apartments, made two rescues in the vicinity of the steel pier today. He had just succeeded in getting his exhausted daughter ashore when William J. Kline of Baltimore was seized with cramps and called loudly for help. Mr. Thullen rushed to his assistance before the arrival of the life guards, and had him ashore before he was helped in any way by them.

Today has been another record breaker in point of crowds, and the resort has presented a mid-August appearance. Trains have been run in sections throughout the day from New York and Philadelphia, and a large excursion from Pittsburgh arrived this evening.

The thirty-third annual meeting of the American Fisheries society convened at Young's hotel today at noon. Nearly every state in the union is represented. A visit will be made to Young's pier tomorrow morning by the delegates, to witness the net haul and look over the species of fish caught.

Miss Celia Zinsmeister, Miss Bertha Zinsmeister and Mrs. J. Zinsmeister were noticed on the boardwalk today.

Mr. C. Hugh is at one of the large beach front hotels.

Miss F. F. Trimble, Miss Ella Grove, Miss Emma Grove, Miss Margaret Russell, Miss Mary Russell, Miss Isabelle Russell and Mrs. Russell are spending the week at the Hotel Haimes.

Miss May Wagner is visiting Atlantic City friends.

P. G. Baumann, Philipina Baumann and Edward E. Baumann were strollers on the boardwalk today.

Pittsburghers noticed on the beach today were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. C. Rambo, Charles Rambo and Miss Eleanor Hoffer.

O. R. Roschin is spending a few days at Coulter Hall.

A. A. Peters is a late arrival at the Carlsbad, where he will spend the summer.

Pittsburghers at the Hotel Dennis include C. R. Miller, E. M. Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Maselli, Miss Maselli.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kulmes and J. Kulmes are at the Craddock.

At the Belmont hotel are Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Russell, Robert Hillman, Miss Russell, Mrs. A. B. Hahn and G. P. Raymond.

The Rev. Mr. Enright and the Rev. P. Carrigan are spending a few days at the Chelwoode.

DARDAIA BROKE DOWN.

Pleaded to the Sheriff for Mercy—Another Death Sentence Is Postponed.

Reno Dardaia, who is to be hanged on August 25 for the murder of Thomas Sinkler on December 16 last, broke down yesterday when Sheriff Dickson read the death warrant to him. The condemned man fell on his knees and taking the sheriff's hand, kissed it and begged for mercy. Dardaia denied he had killed Sinkler and asked the sheriff to forget any other transgressions he was guilty of. After some effort Warden Lewis and the jail officers lifted Dardaia to his feet and took him back to his cell.

Sheriff Dickson was prepared to inform Dardaia of his fate last week, but the Italian denied he was Reno Dardaia, and gave his name as Reno Andracci. The reading of the warrant was withheld until an investigation was made. The sheriff went into court where the man pleaded guilty to murder, and the record showed that Dardaia was convicted under that name.

Dusan Melic, who was to be hanged Thursday for the murder of Policeman Andrew J. Kelly, in October last, will not be executed that day. Gov. Pennypacker has granted him a respite until October 4, to allow his attorney, J. M. Friedman, to take the case before the pardon board and ask for a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. The respite was granted by the governor on the plea that Melic did not know Kelly was an officer, but thought he was about to be attacked, and lived in defense of himself and his sweetheart. Melic and the girl were walking in the Beechwood boulevard, when they quarreled. The girl screamed and Kelly, who was in citizen's clothes, ran to her assistance.

MIRACULOUS CURES ASCRIBED

The feast of St. Anne, the mother of the Virgin Mary, is being celebrated in the Syrian Roman Catholic church at Fifth and Gilmore streets. Every morning at 7:30 o'clock and every evening at the same hour the pastor of the parish, the Rev. N. Kilfartawy, will pronounce the benediction.

On the same occasions a portion of a bone of St. Anne, said to be an undoubted relic of the saint, will be exposed to the congregation. Miraculous cures are ascribed to the relic.

Homestead After Pure Water.

The Homestead council yesterday received bids for the pure water system to be established by drilling down to the gravel bed 20 feet below the bed of the Monongahela river. One well has been sunk and thoroughly tested. The water is found to be pure and of excellent volume. It is estimated that 12 wells will supply the town. The bids for drilling these ranged from $6,000 to $8,000. In about three months it is expected that the work will be done with muddy Monongahela river water.

EVERY AMERICAN GOOD MARKSMAN

PRAISES OUR STATE MILITIA

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMP COL. M. S. QUAY, GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 26.—The martial spirit has captured the whole country, and in the next session of congress a bill will be introduced which will give citizens and soldiers alike an opportunity to prepare for the exigencies of war by qualifying as marksmen. A plan is on foot to establish free rifle ranges throughout the country, where ammunition will be supplied in order that no person shall be lacking in the opportunity to become a skillful marksman.

Col. Edward J. Dimmick, representative of the national guard organizations of the various states in Washington, who inspected the troops in Camp Quay today, is here in the interest of this martial movement and has interested all the officers of the division, making them willing lobbyists at Washington when the matter comes up at the next congress.

"The value of the soldier depends upon his worth as a marksman," said Col. Dimmick today in Gen. Miller's headquarters. "It was the riflemen in the continentals that won the decisive campaigns of Saratoga and Yorktown and gave America its independence. It was the riflemen on Cemetery Ridge who hurled back Pickett's valiant men and saved the union. It was the skill of the Americans in handling their rifles that made the Spanish-American war so short and decisive. Unfortunately, the weapon which won glory for the American arms in the revolution and in the civil war is falling into disuse among the great majority of the people. There are fewer farmer boys shooting squirrels than in the days of our grandfathers. If war should break out, and we must always be ready for emergencies, too much time is lost in training rookies in the use of the rifle.

"The bill which will be introduced into congress will provide for everything which will be necessary to the free education of marksmen. The idea is to give a button to all who qualify to a certain degree of excellence, and in case of war and volunteers are asked for, the skilled marksman will get a position of rank above that of the ordinary recruit. I have visited all the militia organizations of the various states, and am surprised at the progress which has been made. The Pennsylvania guard is, without doubt, the best in the country, both as regards its equipment and the personnel of the men."

DEWEY HAD A RELAPSE.

Ice Cream, Bologna Sausage and Peaches Greatly Increased His Fever.

Ice cream, bologna sausage and peaches nearly caused the death of Dewey, the Allegheny newsboys' pet dog, yesterday. Dewey is suffering with a broken leg, the result of a contention with a street car conductor last Saturday, but the misguided young friend fed the animal on delicacies not usually included in the menu of a sick room, and Dewey's fever began to increase at an alarming rate. His tongue hung out and he refused water.

The boys became afraid that Dewey was going mad, and dropping their papers, sent out a hurry-up call for veterinarians. A number responded promptly, and after an animated consultation a mixture that looked like tar and smelled like garlic was given the patient. In a little while Dewey's fever subsided, he drank a quantity of water and the rabies scare was over. Then the readers of evening papers were accommodated.

The boys, fearing that the Pittsburgh Railways Company, in order to end the trouble caused by Dewey, may put an end to him, have removed the dog to a place of concealment, where he is carefully nursed by his young friends.

Joseph Kealy, the conductor who broke Dewey's leg, had a hearing last night before Alderman Abernathy and was fined $10 and costs. The witnesses were half a score of newsies and Humane Agent James Rea, who made the information.

GETTING THE EXPO. READY.

Workmen Busy Arranging for Opening of Pittsburgh's Big Point Show.

Every day now adds to the number of workmen engaged in preparing the Exposition buildings at the Point for the coming season. The splendid theatorium is among the first of the many structures to be taken in hand. It is to be completely renewed, beautified in novel ways and will again be the home of the vitagraph and illustrated songs. The high-class vaudeville act for the opening 10 days is to be given by James Richmond Glenroy, better known as "The Man With the Green Gloves."

The plan of opening the Exposition during the week preceding Labor day was so successful last year that the plan is to be repeated. The doors, therefore, will be thrown open on the evening of Wednesday, August 31, with Creatore and his band holding forth in Big Music Hall. The Monday following, September 5, is Labor day, and with the general suspension of work, the Exposition management feels that its spacious buildings, together with their many attractions, musical and otherwise, are sure to be a welcome gathering place for the thousands taking active part in the contemplated parade, as well as those witnessing it.

Fractured His Skull a Second Time.

Michael Rinko of Third avenue, Homestead, several months ago fell and fractured his skull at the Homestead steel works. He recovered, and yesterday did the same thing, this time getting a compound fracture, which will likely prove fatal. He was taken to the Mercy hospital.

New Postmistress at Mays Park.

Rose Rampert of Whittaker, near Homestead, was yesterday named as postmistress of the borough of Mays Park postoffice, in place of D. R. Crawford, resigned. She was named on the recommendation of Congressman Brown.

STEEL PREFERRED DECLINED ON UNFOUNDED RUMORS

Directors Declared the Regular Dividend and Earnings Were Up to Expectations—Market Closed Lower All Around.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The first real reaction in the New York stock market for several weeks occurred yesterday. It extended throughout the entire list and nearly everything closed lower, the largest declines being in those stocks which have led the upward movement. The reaction was overdue and natural. There was therefore little grounds for the starting of rumors early in the day casting doubt upon the action of the United States Steel directors. This action was not announced until after the close of the market. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock and issued the quarterly statement of earnings. The latter met expectations, amounting to $19,490,725. The detailed report of earnings also justified trade reports as to the condition of business during the quarter. At the time the April dividend was declared trade prospects were bright, and the earnings for that month were the largest for any month of the quarter. The earnings for May fell about $400,000 below those for April, and those for June were a little more than $100,000 larger than for May. These figures verify the trade reports of the dullness and reaction which overtook the trade almost at the beginning of the second quarter. The profits for the past quarter not only wiped out the deficit for the first quarter, but left a surplus of about $229,000 for the half year. The unfilled orders on hand, however, decreased 944,684 tons, as compared with three months ago. There has been a very marked improvement in sentiment during July, beginning the third quarter, and a fair improvement in actual business, and the action of the directors yesterday will stimulate further improvement.

At the opening of the stock market the tone was depressed by the weakness prevailing on foreign exchanges, and also by the strength of sterling exchange. In London English consols were ¼ per cent lower, while American securities were at about the New York parity. Foreigners were moderate buyers at the opening, but they later turned sellers, because foreign sentiment is seriously affected by the situation in the far east. Before the end of the first hour there was a general slight decline in the New York market. The real weakness, however, did not appear until afternoon, when United States Steel preferred suddenly broke to 60¾ after the opening 119¾. There was a rapid recovery of the preferred to 61⅝, a decline to 60¾, another moderate recovery and a final close at 61 bid. It was at this time persistent rumors were afloat purporting to give the views of various interests in the Steel board in favor of a reduction of the dividend. At about the same time there was a sharp recovery in wheat, which had some effect upon sentiment. The minor iron and steel issues declined more than the leader, but they also recovered before the close.

Pennsylvania was sympathetically affected by the decline in the industrials and sold off to 119¾. Erie first preferred was weak on the rumors in connection with its forthcoming dividend and declined to 39¾. Reading was affected by reports of poor coal trade and declined from 53 to 51⅞. Ontario & Western was the one conspicuously strong stock throughout the day and closed at a net gain of 1 per cent.

The Harriman group of stocks was again heavy and the evident support of Southern Pacific failed to have a stimulating effect, and finally that stock broke from 52¾ to 50⅝. Union Pacific sold off from 97 to 95¾. Both closed only small fractions above the lowest. St. Paul declined 1 per cent to 146¾, while Atchison declined 1¼ per cent to 77. These stocks were no doubt affected by the weekly crop bulletin issued by the weather bureau, which reported slightly unfavorable conditions for spring and winter wheat during the past week. The final rally in the market was rather feeble, traders being disposed to await the Steel Corporation's figures and the action of the foreign markets today. Little or no attention was paid to the spread of labor troubles.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday nearly half the total business was in the steel stocks. Neither United States Steel common nor preferred touched the low prices scored in New York, but the common closed ⅝ and the preferred 1⅜ per cent lower for the day. Crucible Steel common was unchanged at 5½, while the preferred declined to 36¼ and was offered at that price at the close. Harbison-Walker Refractories declined to 4¼, and the preferred to 46. River Coal common sold unchanged at 8 and Pittsburgh Coal declined to 5¾, closing at that price bid. On sales of only 70 shares Westinghouse Air Brake declined 1¼ points to 78½, and was offered at that price at the close. Manufacturers Light and Heat was firmer, advancing to 32¼ and closing unchanged at 32¼. National Fire Proofing preferred closed lower at 28. There was no trading in bonds.

FEATURES OF THE DAY.

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges were $7,486,509, a decrease of $1,231,000.

Steel stocks the only active feature in the local market.

Crucible common held steady at 5½, but the other issues sold off.

Light and Heat rallied to 32½, reacted to 32¼ and closed at 32 bid.

Westinghouse Electric declined to 78½ on sales of less than 100 shares.

IN WALL STREET.

Rumors that the rate would be reduced depressed the stock to 60¾.

Pennsylvania sold below 120 and closed at 119⅞ bid.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The action of the United States Steel directors yesterday in declaring the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock was exactly what Pittsburgh expected. Not much stock was taken in the report that the declaration of the regular rate in April was the result of an agreement to reduce the rate at this time. It would have been a difficult matter for a board of directors to explain why a dividend at the full rate now, when earnings were $6,200,000 larger than three months ago, should not be paid. Even if the earnings had been barely sufficient to meet dividend requirements there might have been some justification in declaring the regular rate for the "moral" effect it would have on trade. Last October, when the dividend on the common stock was cut in two, despite earnings in excess of the total for the quarter when the initial dividend was declared, the immediate effect was to cause buyers of iron and steel products to hold back their orders. The very plain argument was that the dividend had been cut because the corporation looked forward to small profits, and consumers felt warranted in deferring orders. The same thing would have happened now if the dividend had been reduced. As it is, the earnings for the quarter ended with June 30 were not only sufficient for the regular rate, but made good the deficit for the first quarter and left a surplus for the half year of more than $900,000. Of course that is a slim margin, when compared with a net surplus for the corresponding half year of 1903 of $5,500,000 after paying more than $10,000,000 in dividends on the common stock, but it is much better than the prospects in May foreshadowed.

An interesting feature of the Steel Corporation's earnings is that they show the iron market to have been upon a very even keel during the second quarter of the year. The fluctuations in each month's earnings was smaller than ever before in the history of the company. The difference between the April and May earnings were about $500,000, while in the corresponding months last year the difference was nearly $2,000,000. The earnings for June were slightly larger than for May, but smaller than for April. Last December and January marked the deepest depths of the depression. During 1902 and 1903 the largest earnings of the corporation occurred in the second quarter. This year iron men believe that the last quarter will be the best, and if the third quarter reaches $18,000,000 they will feel satisfied.

Traders look for a smart rally in Steel preferred today, but if it reaches the high price of last week, 63¾, there will be considerable short selling, because the professional traders are inclined to be bearish. It is believed that there is a large and stubborn short interest in the stock, which has been a sustaining influence in the market during the past two weeks. There is much uncertainty as to the investment regarding the outlook for the iron trade, and it was reported yesterday that Bessemer pig iron had advanced 25 cents a ton this week. The price of spot stuff at exchange standard Bessemer was quoted at $12 75 bid, $12 85 asked.

Arthur Davis has transferred his seat in the Pittsburgh stock exchange contingent upon the election of George W. Henderson to membership.

The relatively high price of wheat is stimulating the marketing of the grain. Primary receipts yesterday were 929,000 bushels, against 784,000 bushels for the corresponding day last year.

The Steel Corporation reports unfilled orders on hand July 1 of 3,192,277 tons, as compared with 4,136,961 tons on April 1 and 3,215,123 tons on January 1.

The heaviness of National Fire Proofing preferred, which declined to 28, was in the face of reports of steadily increasing business.

At the close of the local market a broker offered to either buy or sell 100 shares of United States Steel common at 12.

The sale of Harbison-Walker preferred at 46 represented a decline of 4 per cent from the last previous sale, and was the lowest price ever quoted. The common declined to 4½, which is within ½ per cent of the low point touched last year.

Pittsburgh Coal common was offered at 14, but there were no sales all day. Only 90 shares of the preferred changed hands at 55¾ to 56¼, and the stock closed at 55¾ bid. River Coal preferred closed at 19 bid.

Crucible Steel common held steady at 5½, but the preferred was heavy, declining to and closing at 36¼. A New York dispatch said: "The Crucible Steel Company is expected to make $1,000,000 in the fiscal year ending August 31, and inquiry connected with the company are beginning to discuss the chances of resumption of dividends on the preferred stock this fall. The dividend is cumulative, so that at the next meeting of the company it will owe $1,750,000 back dividends which must be paid before a new one can be declared. Advocates of resumption of dividends declare that the company has thus far in the fiscal year made, through operations and its sale of the Clairton plant to the United States Steel Corporation, enough money to pay 7 per cent on the preferred, 2 per cent on the common and leav a margin for other expenditures."

The gross earnings of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for the third week in July increased $2,300.

The operations of the leading street railway companies of New England have been a great disappointment so far this year. Last summer was one of the most profitable on record, and sessions in New England on record and on top of this came the especially severe and hard operating winter. The street railway people had every reason to anticipate this summer an increase of from 4 to 6 per cent in earnings, but these anticipations are not being realized. A cold summer and unsatisfactory manufacturing conditions in New England are responsible for the poor showing of the electric roads. A strike of the 30,000 New England mill operatives will not help the situation. All the mill town lines are showing a falling off in earnings.

A new cotton picker company, with a capital of $15,000,000, has been organized under the laws of Maine to exploit the Lowry invention.

It is stated officially that there is every probability of the Pensylvania Steel Company continuing its present dividend (3½ per cent semi-annual) next October, notwithstanding the flat times for months past in the iron and steel trade. The six months period which the directors will consider when they meet to declare a dividend next October is that which ended June 30 last. The aggregate output in the two plants of the Pennsylvania Steel Company at Sparrows Point and Steelton for the six months ended June 30 has been not much in excess of 50 per cent of the product for the corresponding months of 1903. The prices also have been lower. Labor and fuel although raw material has cost the company substantially less this year than it did last, the gain in this respect will by no means counterbalance the loss resulting from reduced product and prices.

Gross earnings of Canadian Pacific for the third week in July increased $105,000.

Pressed Steel Car: P. R. S. directors expect to meet this afternoon to act on quarterly dividends. A director was asked whether the usual dividend of 1 per cent would be declared on the common stock. He replied: "I do not know anything to the contrary, but nobody can tell until action is taken by the board."

Some announcement in connection with the proposed merger of the National Lead Company and the United Lead Company is expected to be given out this week. If present plans are carried out a statement will be issued today. A director says: "We have made an offer to the National Lead Company and the outcome rests upon its decision. It is entirely probable that the merger will be carried out. Hitches in all consolidation movements cannot be prevented, but in this case it will be an easy matter to adjust existing differences.

Gross earnings of Southern Railway for the third week in July increased $20,000.

The undertone of the New York market yesterday was weak. Thus the greater activity throughout the day was during the period of declines. On the occasional rallies there was a quick lapse into dullness. That is to say, buyers were steadfast in refraining from accepting offers except at material concessions and sellers seemed to be pressed to make these concessions in order to realize on their holdings. This served to upset the existing faith in the ability or determination to hold stocks of the party of wealthy operators who are assumed to be credited with having been the principal accumulators of stocks on the recent rise. The lightening of loads yesterday had the effect of arousing a suspicion that the accumulators were finding difficulty in distributing their holdings to advantage. There was disappointment also at the small demand for stocks met at the declines. Speculative opinion has been very confident that a large demand awaited a slight reaction in the market which had become susceptible of the long untortured advance and only awaited evidence of effective realizing to come into the market again.

A widespread influence was exerted in both the wheat and stock markets by an alleged estimate by J. J. Hill of only 500,000,000 bushels for that total wheat crop. A sudden break in Northern Securities on the curb preceded the weakest period on the stock exchange.

Notwithstanding the continued great ease of money an effect was produced by the suggested contingency of an unfavorable outgo of gold, a withdrawal of government deposits from banks and an early development of the interior demand for currency to move the crops.

The directors of The Pittsburgh Drygoods Company have declared a dividend out of the earnings of the last six months of 3½ per cent on the preferred stock, and 5 per cent on the common stock, payable August 1.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

A. Austin, who has been developing the Strawberry claim in Skelly gulch, near the Bald Butte mine, has struck at a depth of 20 feet, a lead of free gold ore which averages $25 a ton. The lead is five feet wide.

M. R. Miller has encountered a vein which runs $400 a ton in silver in his Ophir gulch claim, near Helena.

The Red Bird Mining Company, operating copper properties near Montana, has paid its eighteenth monthly dividend of one cent a share, making the total dividends to date $60,000. In the Reliance mine of this company, a five-foot vein of copper, gold and silver, averaging $100 a ton, has been found.

Free gold ore running as high as $40 a ton has been found in the Rose Gold properties in Golconda gulch. Similar ore has also been struck in the Buckeye claim, owned by the same company, which has New Yorkers as its principal stockholders.

Control of the Wood Placer Mining Company, operating near Hamilton, has been sold to Butte investors for $125,000.

A vein of good copper ore has been discovered near the head of Rock creek in Park county, Mont.

Important discoveries of gold ore have been made in the claims of the Home Mining Company, near the head of Pilgrim creek, Cascade county, Mont.

There are rumors of important changes about Tintic district. For some reason the property of the Bullion-Beck is being examined by Hon. C. E. Allen and Superintendent Brown of the Centennial Eureka company with Mr. P. T. Farquhar, manager of the Mammoth, in the lead.

The record of June shows that the Copper Belt railroad hauled to the transfer station at Bingham and to the bins of the Utah and Ohio Copper Company, 97,861,020 pounds of copper ore. The month of July will show a big increase in the output.

The Utah Copper Company has secured an abundance of water to concentrate fully 5,000 tons of ore per day. The Boston Consolidated has secured ample supply for shipping 2,000 tons daily.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Tin was weak again today, closing at £121 15s for both spot and futures in the London market and at $26.78@26.90 for spot in New York. Copper advanced slightly in London, closing at £57 3s 9d for futures. Locally prices are unchanged. Lake is quoted at 12 62½@12 75, electrolytic at 12 62½@12 75 and casting at $12.37½@12.50. Lead was a little lower in London, closing at £11 13s 9d, but remained quiet here at yesterday's decline, or $4 20@4 25 for spot. Spelter was unchanged in both markets. London quotes spot at £22 7s 6d and the New York price is $4 85@4 95. Iron closed at 51s 9d in Glasgow and at 42s 10½d in Middlesboro. Locally iron was unchanged; No. 1 foundry northern is quoted at $14 00@14 50, No. 2 foundry northern at $13 75@14 00, No. 1 foundry southern and No. 1 foundry southern soft at $15 50@13 75.

Visible Supply of Grain.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Special cable and telegraphic communications received by Bradstreets show the following changes in available supplies as compared with last report: Wheat, United States and Canada, east Rockies, decreased 878,000 bushels. Afloat for and in Europe, decreased 1,500,000 bushels. Total supply decreased 2,375,000 bushels. Corn, United States and Canada, east Rockies, decreased 472,000 bushels; oats, United States and Canada, east Rockies, decreased 910,000 bushels. The leading decreases reported this week include 482,000 bushels in Manitoba and 77,000 bushels at the Chicago private elevators. Stocks, at depot harbor increased 140,000 bushels.

Treasury and the Banks.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Special.)—In redemption of checks drawn by depositors of gold at the San Francisco and Seattle assay offices, today's official records show that the subtreasury paid out yesterday $162,176. Of this amount $100,000 had been deposited at San Francisco and $61,276 at Seattle. Total thus paid since Friday, 306,022, against $401,289 for the same period a week ago. Total payment by government to New York banks for the day, $4,069,000. Payment by banks to government, $5,792,000. Balance on both day's transactions, $877,000 paid by government to banks. Total net payment by government to banks since Friday, $1,854,000, against $2,320,000 similarly paid for the corresponding period a week ago and $730,000 paid by government to banks a year ago.

MANY HOUSES ON NEW ALLOTMENTS

SCHWITTER FARM FOR $75,000

The effect of the new tunnel line which is rapidly nearing completion in the West Liberty district is shown in the large number of new building projects authorized. On Monday the Anderson Building Company received the contract from Frank Maseli for 10 houses in Seventh avenue in plan No. 5, of the Beechwood Improvement Company. Last The houses will be reception hall brick dwellings, of eight rooms each, and will stand on lots 20x100 feet. Martsolf Brothers have recently started the following to cost $4,000 each in plans No. 3 and 5. Charles & Emerick also have under way five brick veneered houses in Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues in plan No. 3, which will cost $4,000 each. Just 60 houses are now under way on West Liberty properties, and from six to a dozen new dwellings are announced every week to be built in Northfield in the next few days.

The work on the street car line would soon be finished if it were not for the Mt. Washington tunnel. Three gangs of men are working day and night on this project. Over 4,000,000 brick will be used in the construction of the tunnel, about one-half of which are now laid. The work of laying the track beyond the tunnel is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that the farthest cars will be in operation. It is said that the Pittsburgh Railways Company will soon start work on a large power house near the western terminus of the line. That the new line will revolutionize the West Liberty district in two years is not doubted by any one, and the numerous resales of lots at good advances which are being made now attest the faith of investors in the future of the district.

Bought Beautiful Farm.

Ex-Congressman William H. Andrews has purchased the beautiful Schwitter homestead of 24 acres near West View for a price approximating $75,000. The deal is credited to the Freehold Real Estate Company and has been pending for several weeks. The farm is well known, being only a short distance from the old "Five-Mile" house on the Perrysville plank road and adjoining the property of Senator Vlet's allotment on the east. It was reserved by Mr. Schwitter when he with other farmers sold their properties to the Allegheny-Bellevue Land Company, nearly two years ago. The old Schwitter residence, a 10-room frame house, stands on the farm and the land is well adapted for the erection of more beautiful view and its springs and abundant shade make it an ideal spot for a country home, which purpose it is said to have been bought. The property includes a high hill overlooking the lake and park which the land company is installing in the horseshoe bend of the Perrysville road, and commands a fine view of Bellevue and the Ohio river valley.

The Christian apartments in the south side of Kelly street, near Brushton avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, have been bought for $4,200. The last owner was George G. Wilbic and the purchaser is a local investor. The building is a three-story brick on 40x186 feet, and was built by W. R. Christian less than three years ago.

Lowest Bid Not Always Accepted.

Recently there has been considerable complaint among local contractors about the manner of awarding contracts and opening bids. It is claimed by them that bids are asked promiscuously, without intending to accept the lowest estimate, and that the bids are often used as a weapon to force other contractors who are welcome bidders to lower their original figures. Most architects in Pittsburgh make it a custom to award contracts to bidders whom they know are responsible to complete for first-class jobs. It is supposed when such contractors are invited that their bids if found reasonable and acceptable will be they will get the contract. The fact that the lowest bid is not always favored has been made the basis of the complaint from the contractors who are bidding on the Carnegie and some more equitable way of declining contracts. Some of the contractors declare that the bids should be opened in the presence of all bidders in order that there may be no scandal or suspicion.

Another case where a building permit was refused and is likely to cause considerable trouble has just come to light. Thomas A. Colwell has begun proceedings in mandamus against the borough of Wilkinsburg and the borough clerk, Walter Eider, to test the legality of an ordinance which provides that the extreme height of a brick veneered wall in the borough shall be 25 feet. Mr. Coleman recently had plans prepared for a three-story brick veneered apartment house with walls 28 feet high, in accordance with the Pittsburgh building regulations. It is said, but he was refused a permit in Wilkinsburg.

Downtown Pittsburgh at present offers a sight to strangers that is not conducive to the good business reputation of the city abroad. Debris, dirt, stone, lumber, tar kettles and upturned sidewalks are to be seen on nearly every block. Smithfield and Diamond streets are almost impassable at the busy hours of the day, and at the rate the improvements are progressing are likely to be for some time. This congestion interferes greatly with business, and every merchant along these, as well as other downtown thoroughfares which are torn up more or less will be glad to see the clouds of dirt subside.

It develops that A. D. Wilson of Allegheny was the broker in the sale to John H. O'Donnell of the properties at 1211-1215 Sheffield street, Allegheny, which was announced in The Gazette Sunday. The three houses, standing on 74x124 feet, will be remodeled for flats and four more small dwellings built on the rear of the lot.

The Liberty Real Estate Company made a notable success of its sale of lots in the Thirty-seventh ward sale daily and daily sales above the figure expected. The district is building up rapidly and home sites there are increasing steadily in value.

On August 1 Controller City Controller John B. Larkin will offer for sale at public auction the following properties at the city hall: A large lot at Bryant and Euclid streets, two lots in Sampsani's plan in Moelan street, Fourteenth ward; a lot on Negley avenue, Eighteenth ward; half a lot in Sylvan avenue, Twenty-third ward; one lot in Butler street, Twenty-first ward; one lot in Wesper alley, Twenty-fourth ward, and one lot in Cathedral street, Fourteenth ward.

Brownsville avenue: J. J. Boylan sold to Mary B. McDonough an improved lot 20x94 feet in Brownsville avenue, Thirtieth ward, for $2,075.

Allen avenue: W. F. Kenny sold to Joseph N. Patton an improved lot 25x117 feet in Allen avenue, near Freeland street, Thirty-first ward, for $1,800.

North street: James A. Griffith sold to Margaret O. Tragresser an improved lot 24x150 feet in North street, Thirty-first ward, for $1,700.

Wadsworth avenue: George Taylor sold to the Douglass Land and Investment Company an improved lot 20x98 feet in Wadsworth avenue, Fifteenth ward, for $1,000.

Building permits were issued yesterday to Mrs. Rebecca M. Langdon for a four-story brick veneer dwelling on Grandview avenue, Thirty-second ward, to cost $5,500; F. P. Cunningham, two-story brick veneer dwelling in Gertrude street, Twenty-third ward, to cost $3,800, and Alfred Tomkins, two-story brick dwelling in Bailey avenue, Thirty-second ward, to cost $2,350.

NO CHANGES MADE ON FLOUR OR SUGAR HERE

Although flour is ruling very firm, and not withstanding advances by millers this week, jobbers here have not raised prices, principally because of local competition. Sugar is still firm but the advance made by refineries has not yet been reckoned in Pittsburgh. There is considerable demand for new mackerel and lake herring. General trade in this line continues good. Eggs are still booming and the supply is far from ample. Prices are high but buyers are not afraid. Both cheese and butter are steady. Provisions are in good request and increases in quotations since the western strike started have resulted in no curtailment of local demand so far.

Late Valencia and St. Michael oranges are selling freely. There was a decline in bananas and an advance in pineapples yesterday the latter being very scarce. California peaches are quoted lower. California cherries are out of the market for this season; so are apricots. Quotations are advanced on potatoes, owing to local scarcity at present, arrivals having been but one car yesterday, and there being but a total of 41 cars on hand in the grounds. Onions are away up again because of the limited supply. Cucumbers are plentiful and are quoted lower by all jobbers. Peas are higher and there is a downward tendency in tomatoes. Huckleberries are up again. California canteloupes are getting cheaper every day. Pears are lower; apples are moving more freely and are wholesaling at 90 cents and $1 00 a bushel. Good New Hampshire hay, graded No. 2, is offering as low as $12 with few takers. Very little of the new is graded better than No. 2 at present. Corn is still very firm, shelled offering at 58c and 59c, and ear at 60c and 61c. There was no feature in the horse market yesterday, selling being very limited. Driving stock was about the only kind offered and what foreign buyers were very scarce. Sales amounted to less than 200 head and prices ranged from $50 to $200.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined: Pennsylvania, 20 cars hay, 10 cars oats, 3 cars corn; Baltimore & Ohio, 3 cars hay, 2 cars straw; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 4 cars oats.

Dealers charge an advance of $1 00 a ton on hay and millfeed, and 5 cents per bushel on grain from warehouses in less than carload lots.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 26.—A reaction in the volume of business in the wool market is noted this week, following the almost abnormal activity of the preceding fortnight. Prices, however, remain as firm as ever. The larger mills have apparently stopped buying, the small ones making up the market. The upward tendency in the market is still felt. Territory wools continue relatively active, with some larger lots placed. Pulled wools are firm and the choice fine grades, though the market is quiet. Leading quotations are: Ohio and Pennsylvania—XX and above, 34@34½c; X, 30@31c; No. 1, 33@34c; No. 2, 33@34c; fine unwashed, 23@24c; ¼, ⅜ and ½ blood unwashed, 32@33c; fine washed fleece, 37½@39c. WHEAT STRENGTHENS ON PARIS CABLES

Other Cereals and Provisions Respond to Markets' Bullish Sentiment.

CHICAGO, July 26.—A big advance at Paris had a stimulating effect on wheat prices here today. At the close September wheat was up ⅞@¾c. Corn was up ⅛@¼c. Oats showed a ¼c@⅜c and provisions were 2½ to 12½c higher.

Wheat—Heavy receipts and an easier tone at Liverpool notwithstanding the sharp advance here greatly excited the bears and a slump on the wheat market here at the opening. A number of local longs were free sellers, and under the liberal offerings, initial quotations showed considerable losses. September being off ¾ to ⅞c at 87¾@87½c. After the first burst of selling enthusiasm had passed, the market remained quiet, with prices hovering around the opening figures. Toward the middle of the session trading again became active, and a strong undertone developed. Scalpers were caught short of wheat when a Paris cable showing an advance of 1½c came in and in an effort to cover, prices were forced rapidly upward. The bullish sentiment was further intensified by a report credited to James J. Hill, to the effect that the total wheat crop of the country would be 100,000,000 bushels less than last year, leaving in the world's visible supply of nearly two million and a half bushels was an additional bull factor. Seemingly little attention was paid to a number of bear influences, the most important of which was heavy primary receipts. The market continued strong the remainder of the session, September advancing to 88¾c. The close was at 88½@88⅝c.

Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 168,800 bushels. Primary receipts were 359,000 bushels, compared with 784,400 bushels a year ago. The world's available stocks, according to Bradstreet's, decreased 2,400,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 400 cars against 278 cars last week, and 372 cars a year ago.

Corn—Influenced by favorable weather and fairly large receipts, some weakness was manifested early in the day. When wheat prices started upward, a fair demand for corn developed, resulting in a firmer feeling. Favorable crop reports and a good cash trade also had material advance in prices. The market closed near the high point. September opened ⅛ to ⅛@¼c lower, at 45¼ to 49¼@49⅜c, sold up to 49⅝c, and closed at 49⅝c. Local receipts were 83 cars, with 46 of contract grade.

Oats—Considering the small amount of trading, the oats market had a firm tone. The improvement in prices was mainly on account of the strength of wheat, but returns from threshers in this state, showing a poor yield, had some effect. September opened ⅛ to ¼@⅛c lower, at 33 to 33@33⅛c, ranged between 32¾@33 and 33⅜@33½c, and closed at 33¼@33⅜c. Local receipts were 169 cars.

Provisions—Profit-taking were in on light offerings. The strength of wheat influenced some buying by pit traders, and in order to secure the goods required, prices were forced up all around. At the close September pork was up 12½c, at $12 82½. Lard was up 2½c at $8 90. Ribs made a gain of 5@7½c, closing at $7 47½@7 50. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 98 cars; corn, 150 cars, oats, 64 cars; hogs, 30,000 head.

Financial and Trade Notes.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—National bank notes received today for redemption, $1,080,944. Government receipts from internal revenue, $803,268; customs, $831,821; miscellaneous, $78,553; expenditures, $1,760,000.

NEW YORK, July 26.—It is understood that the bondholders protective committees of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company has practically solved the difficult problem of putting into effect its financial re-organization plan without securing the assent of all the holders of debenture bonds. As the committees proposes to work it out, the dissenting debenture holders may keep their bonds intact, under the provisions of the original agreement, with all the rights, including that of redemption.

BESSEMER & LAKE ERIE WILL BREAK THIS MONTH ALL ORE TRAFFIC RECORDS

When the full reports for July are made up at the end of this week it will be shown that the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad has broken all records in the volume of its ore tonnage from Conneaut Harbor to Pittsburgh. The great Carnegie port has never been so busy for this month and the figures that are being piled up show the result.

In July to date the Bessemer has taken from Conneaut Harbor 515,133 tons. This is an average of 25,756 tons a day, counting out the Sundays and the Fourth of July. Adding to this the four remaining work days of the month, it will be seen that about 625,000 tons will have been brought down in July.

The record for July of last year, the biggest month in 1903, was 502,000 tons. The largest movement of ore on the Bessemer in any single month was in August, 1902, when 576,000 tons were moved. The increase of volume of the July traffic, 625,000 tons, will be seen therefore, to be far in excess of any previous monthly record.

The indications are that the big ore movement will continue through August, September and October, and possibly November. The strike of the masters and pilots on the lakes this past spring resulted in a very late start of the ore-moving season and only now are the transportation companies beginning to catch up with the demands of the furnaces.

A new record for unloading was made on Monday at Conneaut with the steamer Wolvin. Its cargo of 9,945 gross tons of ore was unloaded in four hours and a half. Eight of the unloading machines were at work at once on the vessel, which is the largest on the great lakes. On that day the Bessemer loaded 785 cars of ore.

"Jackmen" Are Still at Work.

Just who is starting the reports of serious and wide disaffection among the trainmen of the Pennsylvania railroad is not known. The men themselves seem to be as ignorant of the trouble as the officials. Reports that the "jackmen" of the middle division, whose duties are those of operating the brakes and assisting the firemen, have been laid off are wholly incorrect. Although Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 400 cars against 278 cars last week, and 372 cars a year ago.

THOBURN GIVES FIRST LECTURE

He Delivers Address on India Specially Prepared for Chautauqua.

TO TOUR OF THE ASSEMBLIES

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 26.—Dr. J. M. Thoburn of Allegheny, in speaking to The Gazette representative of the illustrated lecture on "The Diocese of St. Thomas, or India on the Field of Christian History," said: "This lecture was prepared especially for Chautauqua assemblies, and after giving it here I shall deliver it in a number of other assemblies, as I shall make a tour of them this summer. The lecture is not descriptive of the pictures thrown upon the screen, but the slides are used to make impressions of the descriptions."

Dr. Thoburn lectured this evening. He spoke as follows:

Many and mighty pens have told the story of India since the Greek Megasthenes first began to narrate its life and history. The poet and the philosopher, the novelist and the traveler has each drawn his picture and made his contribution to the world's conception of that wonderland of the orient. No other country has ever furnished the facts and fancies for so much that is strange and charming. It has always been a land of desire and regrets. Its romantic history seems to blend with the dim shadows of the fabulous on the indistinct horizon of an unrecorded past.

There is an apocryphal story that an Indian king once sent a messenger to Christ, asking for a skillful architect to build him a palace. The account relates that Jesus gave Thomas to the king as an expert in architecture and that the apostle succeeded in converting his royal master to the Christian faith. Closely associated with this is the old tradition that when the disciples divided the world among themselves for the purpose of evangelization it fell to the lot of the "doubter" to go to India. Thomas stands, therefore, in the temple of rumor, as the apostle of Hindu land. It is one of those theories which has always kept such close company with history that it is difficult to deny it a place among well authenticated facts.

Early Christians in India.

As early as the year 190 word was received at Alexandria of a community of Christians in Southern India. And one of the bishops present in the Nicean council in 325 was also from the land of the Vedas. In 1290 Marco Polo, the great traveler, published an account of his celebrated overland journey from Italy to China. In that he speaks of the Christians he found in India, and the reverence they paid to Thomas, their first bishop. Three hundred years later the Portuguese settled at Goa, and, according to the legendary story of Thomas, they sent an expedition to search the Coromandel shores on the opposite side of India to confirm the report. When they returned they brought two mummies, of which one was declared to be the body of Thomas. They also found, not far from Madras, a place called "St. Thomas' mount," where it was current, believed Thomas had labored as a missionary and died a martyr at the hands of the Brahmin priests. In the cathedral at Goa may be seen the reputed body of Thomas. As a religious relic it naturally receives an adoration which is practically idolatrous. It is said Bishop Heber, the second bishop of Calcutta, who first called India the diocese of St. Thomas.

In 1580 St. Francis Xavier, the chief of the Jesuit order, arrived in India. He was a papist whose errors and faults found their fullest action in the terrible inquisition, which he caused to be introduced from Europe. He was "the worst and the best of his clan." The church of Mylapore is associated with Thomas, and in the same cathedral where the supposed bones of the latter lie there is a magnificent tomb containing the body of Francis Xavier, the ascetic Jesuit and saint.

Very far removed from this fanatic and priest in method and spirit and creed was Schwartz, the hero of the Danish Lutheran mission. He spent 48 beautiful years in Southern India. "Father of the land of the palm"—so loved and trusted was this pious heathen who refused his message that on one occasion a Mohammedan king declined to receive a letter through the regular ambassador, exclaiming, "Send me the Christian; he will not deceive me."

And then, there was Henry Martyn, the consecrated chaplain of the Church of England, who "lived as Xavier lived, and died like him upon the burning sands—untended." His was a surpassing religious genius, and although he was still wanting the years of Christ when he was called home, he left a name that shines with that peculiar luster.

A Thomas Who Didn't Doubt.

The tradition which gave India to Thomas may be impeached, but no one can gainsay the historical fact which associates India with another man of the same name who was never known to doubt. I refer to Thomas Coke, the first bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, who in 1814, at the age of 70, set his face toward India. He had crossed the Atlantic 18 times, and he longed to carry the Gospel to Hindustan. Churchmen and statesmen opposed his going, but he replied: "India I believe is my heart. It is of little consequence whether I take my flight to glory from the land of our nativity, from the trackless ocean or from the shores of Ceylon." He died at sea and was buried in the coral beds of the Indian ocean. The Wesleyan missionary sailing charts have this grave marked on them where this tireless apostle fell at his post. Truly, India was the "diocese of St. Thomas," if not the first, then the second.

Thomas Coke was preceded by William Carey, the devoted Baptist shoe cobbler, who dared to dream of giving the Bible to India's vast population in their own languages. It was a thought as audacious as the Gospel itself. His brethren scorned his plan and called him a miserable enthusiast. One of them told how when God was ready to convert the heathen he could do it without the aid of a shoemaker. "What, sir," said another to him, "can you preach in Arabic, in Persian, in Hindustani and in Bengali, and think it your duty to take the Gospel to the heathen?" Little did that man imagine he was talking to one who would in a few years fill the chair of oriental languages in Calcutta and become one of the first and finest linguists in the world. No one can ever tell the story of his wonderful life. It is doubtful if it has ever been paralleled. There is Carey and all around him are the mission houses and institutions of which he was the inspiration. The first native church in North India and the first Christian college in the orient. Before he went to his grave he had the satisfaction of knowing that he had translated the Bible into languages spoken by 200,000,000 of people. No wonder they called him "the Wycliffe of the east." His motto, "Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God," explains his life.

Not long after him appeared Judson. He went to India under the American board of foreign missions. On the way out he changed his views on baptism, and was immersed soon after his arrival by Carey, an event which marvelously stirred the Baptists in this country and led to the organization of their missionary society. The East India Trading Company would not allow Judson to remain in India, and so he went to Burmah. After 16 years of the hardest kind of work, suffering persecutions and privations indescribable, he mastered the difficult Burmese tongue and had translated the Bible into it, laid the foundation for that Pentecostal work among the Karens, which resulted in a nation being born in a day. Like Coke, Judson died on shipboard and was buried beneath the waves of the sea.

An Educator in India.

Alexander Duff belonged to that same period. He was a Scotchman, sometimes called Peter the Hermit of the nineteenth century. He did more for the cause of popular education than anyone else who ever went to India.

All these men and many more worthy of special mention belong to an illustrious company of great missionaries. They were the forerunners of the world's greatest century and contributed more to its progress and civilizations than soldiers or merchantmen. Their names should be written with the immortal who are catalogued in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

The romance of India's Christianization grows very largely out of the peculiar type of the people, their customs and their country. Geography has a great deal to do with the civilization and religion of the nations. India is largely what she is, because she is where she is. It is a huge triangle about 1,900 miles to a side, washed by two seas and drained by some of the most wonderful rivers of earth. It is a land of mighty cities and trackless forests, of fertile fields and sterile deserts, of ancient civilizations and hoary-headed barbarians. The home of many races and tongues and faiths; a land of caste and idolatry; of beauty and misery. Little wonder that the proud Alexander went when he failed to add the whole of it to his conquests, or that the Briton regards it as the "Koh-i-noor" of his crown jewels." There is nothing on earth comparable to India's mountains. She is more secure under their shadows than China is behind her great wall. If there is mystification in nature it is amid such cathedral aisles of ice and snow and sunshine. The valleys are as deep as the summits are lofty. The Alps might easily be cast into some of them without producing any results discernible a dozen miles away.

Here and there by the roadside Buddhist priests with praying machines are to be seen. The prayers are on a cylinder within the curious little device which the priest carries in his hands. He will time the apparatus amid the tinkling of bells for a consideration, to the right hand for blessing and to the left for cursing. In addition to this formality the natives in the mountains make extensive use of prayer flags, which are fastened to trees and bamboo poles and the gables of their houses. As they flutter in the breezes it is literally praying without ceasing. Many of these prayers are blown away and travelers help themselves to them also, for curios. But the missing ones are always considered answered.

Surroundings Were Majestic.

One would naturally expect to find a pure faith in people who live in such majestic surroundings. Other men have reached, through nature up to nature's God. Why have not the Hindus? As we look over the millions of India it would seem that they had demonstrated that nature conceals as well as manifests God. As of old, Aryans worshiped the elemental gods—the sun, the wind, the rain, and from that they became Pantheists, worshiping everything. It makes all the difference in the world whether man uses nature as an aid to worship or makes it worship. Only the spirit within man can distinguish between the flaming presence of God and the common thorn bush of the mountain.

One of the most fatal mistakes ever made by the city of Calcutta is Lalhouse square. It is like an oasis in the very heart of the metropolis. The postoffice occupies one entire side of the square, a monument of beauty in itself, but in addition to that is the spot where the "Black Hole of Calcutta" was located—that wretched underground dungeon, 18 feet square, in which 123 Englishmen were suffocated one night in June, 1756.

Calcutta takes its name from the goddess "Kali," one of the elect deities of Hindudom, whose temple stands at the lower end of the city. There the blood of her sacrifices is flowing constantly and rites of worship are performed too revolting to describe. No sin is ever rebuked at that loathesome shrine. It is religion divorced from all virtue. Kali is the patron goddess of the thugs and thieves—a most repulsive deity, and yet she is also the "new woman" of Hindudom. Little children are taught to lisp their first prayers to this horrid creature. Just outside Kali's temple is one of the saints of Hindudom, lying upon a bed of iron spikes, hoping to achieve merit by such tortuous slumber. Not far from him may be seen still another incarnation of sinful pagan nature—a half-crowned vermin-infected devotee sitting in the sun in perpetual silence. India is burdened with hundreds of thousands of such men. Nearly always they are the rankest impostors, a blessing to no one, but a curse to many.

Funeral customs in India vary widely from those with which we are familiar. A funeral procession either to the burning ghat or to the burying ground is a never-to-be-forgotten sight—if not sound.

Weddings, of course, are always bright and cheerful, but we are all familiar with the descriptions of them in India, but it is possible that you do not realize that there are 27,000,000 widows in India, 14,000 of them being under 4 years of age.

Houses Are Primitive.

The country people of India live in little thatched houses in the most primitive fashion. Missionaries are constantly going among these people with the Gospel message. The whole village turns out to see and hear the missionary. After nightfall he uses a stereopticon, throwing Bible pictures and Gospel hymns on the screen. Very often as the result of such an itinerary a whole village will decide to abandon their idols and ask for Christian baptism. To the typical people fell the amount of good accomplished by these wayside talks of the missionary.

The front door of India is Bombay. Nowhere in the east can there be found such a great mingling of races, fads and faiths. The city is half oriental and half occidental. It has the rush of Chicago, the fashion of Paris and the cosmopolitanism of London.

To the devout Hindu, no place in India is so full of interest as Benares—the Jerusalem of the Brahmin. It is a sacred city by a sacred river. From days without date it has been the fountain-head of Hindu worship and learning. Sacred cows roam where they will through Benares. The Vedas speak of the sanctity of the cow and the depravity of woman. The great political and religious problem of India is the "cow question." The Hindu widows in particular are shown far less respect and consideration than is freely given to cows.

At Muttra, near Agra, the great Hindu temple is located. No Christian is allowed to enter it. The "brides of Kushna," who throng its courts, are the saddest women in the world. The priests who officiate at the altars are the patrons of sin. A more virtueless shrine could not be imagined.

Climbing one of the minarets the best view of Delhi may be had. In every direction are memorials of the mutiny, although it is nearly half a century past. At the Cashmere gate the English decided the destiny of India, and the crescent went down before the cross.

Regularity in Prayer.

Mohammedans never allow any engagement to interfere with their stated hours of prayer. If they cannot go to their accustomed places they will drop on their knees wherever the muezzin's cry reaches them and repeat the required formulas. Their worship is real, although knowledge, devotion without love and faith without purity.

There is a saying that "the dead in India are richer than the living," so costly are some of their tombs, and we can well believe it, upon seeing the wonderful sepulcher, the Taj Mahal. No one can tell its original cost, but it is supposed to have taken 20,000 workmen 22 years to complete it. It was built by Shah Jehan in memory of his best-loved wife.

The India of the Suttee and the death-sweeping car of Juggernaut is no more. The shadows of superstition have begun to lift from the Ganges valley. The regenerating hand of God has touched the heart-sore people, and their health is coming again. Europe was not more rapidly evangelized than India is being conquered by Christianity. All over the empire are mission stations, where devoted men and women are seen laboring, doctoring and Christianizing and civilizing the suffering, sinning multitudes of that benighted land. There are nearly 2,000 missionaries of the Protestant churches at work in India and there are about 3,000,000 native Christians.

India will yet emerge from the darkness and doubt of the weary centuries in the conscious blessedness of those who, having not seen, yet have believed, and cry out with Thomas, "My Lord, and my God!"

"The light of all lands and the splendor of each sea" will crown the light of Asia and the land of the palm become at last "Immanuel's land."

Rumbling Freight Was Cause of Child's Death

Catherine, the 9-months-old child of Richard Minchla of 1017 Washington avenue, Braddock, died yesterday from burns received at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Valentine Hipp. The child had been left there while the mother went shopping. A wash boiler full of water was steaming on a summer stove, supported by four upright braces. A freight train rumbled by at the rear of the house and the jar caused one of the supports to slip. The boiler full of water upset on the floor and the child was fatally scalded.

WOMAN ARRESTED REAL ESTATE MAN WHO TICKLED HER UNDER THE CHIN

NEW YORK, July 26.—Charged with having tickled Mrs. Nora O'Brien, janitress of the house at 78 North Henry street, under the chin, Joseph Goldberg, a real estate dealer, was arraigned before Magistrate O'Reilly this afternoon and held in $1,000 bail for hearing on Monday.

According to Mrs. O'Brien, Goldberg has been trying to sell the house in which she lives, and two weeks ago came to her and tickled her under the chin. She slapped his face, she told the magistrate, and he fled. Today he returned with a prospective customer, and while the man was upstairs looking over the house, Goldberg renewed his familiarities. Mrs. O'Brien had just been beating some carpets and was armed with a carpet beater when Goldberg tickled her chin again.

She immediately set upon Goldberg with this and after beating him chased him out into the street, where she seized him by the collar and marched him to the Greenpoint police station and charged him with assault. She was followed to the station by 200 women and children, who cheered her as she led her prisoner in. In court she told the magistrate that she had not told her husband of Goldberg's alleged first assault, as she feared that he would do him bodily injury, but when he tickled her under the chin again today she took matters into her own hands.

MEAT MEN DO BATTLE OVER PRICE QUESTION

There is a big difference of opinion among local meat men as to whether the wholesale price of fresh meat is higher here than before the western strike. The retailers claim packers have put up prices about 25 per cent, and packers, including William V. Callery, president of the Pittsburgh Provision Company, say prices to the butcher have not been changed. Some butchers deny that they have raised the price of meat, while others say frankly that they have been compelled to put up prices to meet the increase on carcass meat.

Thus the matter of meat prices has taken on a puzzling complexion and the consumer can do little more than guess as to real conditions. Evidently the general public has become convinced that they have had to pay higher prices lately. This conclusion is reached by the way they have abandoned fresh meat in diet. The trade of Pittsburgh butchers is getting smaller every day. The consumer is blaming the butcher, the butcher the wholesaler, the wholesaler the western situation, and so on around the circle.

The strike in the west is apparently benefiting local packers and independent butchers. They have taken advantage of the situation as stated some time ago, to increase their trade in Pittsburgh and to fortify themselves more than ever against the western people.

Pittsburgh people are buying vegetables heavily. Potatoes are in excellent demand. The local potato market has sprung a surprise in the form of a firm market, with an advance in wholesale quotations. For the first time in weeks there is a small supply of potatoes in the local produce yards. The stock on hand yesterday was less than 40 cars. Onions are also booming as a result of the strike. Prices advanced on barrel in June, 1756.

Callatia takes its name from the goddess "Kali," one of the elect deities of Hindudom, whose temple stands at the lower end of the city. There the blood of her sacrifices is flowing constantly and rites of worship are performed too revolting to describe. No sin is ever rebuked at that loatheome shrine. It is religion divorced from all virtue. Kali is the patron goddess of the thugs and thieves—a most repulsive deity, and yet she is also the "new woman" of Hindudom. Little children are taught to lisp their first prayers to this horrid creature. Just outside Kali's temple is one of the saints of Hindudom, lying upon a bed of iron spikes, hoping to achieve merit by such tortuous slumber. Not far from him may be seen still another incarnation of sinful pagan nature—a half-crowned vermin-infected devotee sitting in the sun in perpetual silence. India is burdened with hundreds of thousands of such men. Nearly always they are the rankest impostors, a blessing to no one, but a curse to many.

ROUTE FOR LABOR DAY PARADE WAS SELECTED

Finance Committee Assured of Money to Pay for Elaborate Exercises.

The general executive committee of the Labor day celebration met last evening in the headquarters of the Union Workingmen's association, 216 Fourth avenue, and agreed upon a route for the parade. This will be submitted to Director Harry Moore. If it meets with his approval, the committee will ask for a permit to hold the parade.

The finance committee feels confident there will be sufficient money to carry the celebration through without curtailing the exercises. Two years ago over $1,000 was left in the treasury after all bills were paid. Last year the committee had 18 cents surplus.

T. H. DOLAN,
Chairman Finance Committee.

Two years ago the Labor day committee donated to the anthracite miners $1,000, and the labor leaders are much perturbed over the local miners refusing to turn out next Labor day, when such a donation was made to their brothers in the labor movement.

The local miners claim they are antagonistic to Labor day celebrations or carnivals. In spite of this fact, the miners will celebrate Labor day by a parade in McKeesport and the miners in Monongahela City will hold a carnival.

PICNICKERS CHARGED WITH SELLING BEER ON SUNDAY

County Detective Robinson made informations before Alderman Toole yesterday against six Croatians alleged to be officers of the Croatian society which held a picnic Sunday at a grove back of Millvale, charging them with selling liquor on Sunday and without a license. The defendants are P. Pavlinac, a saloonkeeper at 905 East Ohio street, Allegheny; Joseph Bugovicki, Pike street; ——— Lusko, Thirty-eighth street; ——— Krouic, Thirty-seventh street; ——— Gyuricic, Pike street, and ——— Homburger, Thirty-seventh street.

SOCIETY ELECTS PITTSBURGH WOMEN TO OFFICE

ST. PAUL, MINN., July 26.—Three more supreme justices were elected by the triennial convention of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association today. They are: Mrs. Marie Quinn of Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Anna J. Brady and Miss Bertha McIntyre of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Margaret Kelly of Cleveland and Mrs. Mary Murphy of Buffalo were elected auditors. The convention adjourned this evening with the installation of officers.

FELL SIX STORIES DODGING POLICE

WAS A DARING ROOF JUMPER

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 26.

"Red" Mullen "got his" at last. This was the principal topic today among the police and certain classes of young men on the upper East Side today. The police discussed it with relief; the others with mingled pride and grief, for Mullen was the hero of the district, the leader of the toughest gang in the city, a man who feared no policeman that walked. But last night he overreached himself. He was caught, in the parlance of his gang, "with the goods," and, in trying to make a desperate leap across an airshaft, fell six stories to his death.

And thus ended the career of Patrick J. Cash, alias "Red Cash," alias "Red Mullen," who in the last four years of his life had made a record that classed him as one of the most desperate crooks with whom the police had had to deal. He was only 22 years old, and his criminal career began when he was 18. Before that time he was just an ordinary, well behaved boy of whom his father, Peter Cash, a hard-working mason, had fond hopes.

It was when he had left school that his downfall began. He took to hanging around One Hundred and Fourth street and Second avenue with older young men. Some had been in prison, most in the Elmira reformatory. They told great tales of their adventures and young Mullen's ambition became fired for an opportunity to show his mettle. The chance came, and since then he has been a terror to Harlem and a menace to the police.

Last night there was a fire at Second avenue and One Hundred and Fourth street. Among the sightseers was Mullen. Policeman Pierce saw him skulking away toward One Hundred and Fourth street and called to Policeman Zorn. They followed, but had lost the man when suddenly a woman on the third floor of a nearby house leaned out of a window.

"Burglars! Murder! Thieves!" she yelled. Pierce, Zorn and Policeman Wood ran into the house. At the third floor they were met by Mrs. Daniel Venture, who said that she had found two men robbing her rooms. As she talked the policemen heard the sounds of footsteps on the stairs above.

Then suddenly the footsteps ceased as the two men dashed up a little stairway to the roof from the fifth floor. As the policemen gained the roof they could see the burglars making for the roof of No. 2035 Second avenue. Between this house and the roof over which the men were fleeing was an open space five feet wide. Mullen cleared it. Pierce hit his companion with his night stick and the man, who proved to be John Higgins, 23 years old, of 200 East Ninety-eighth street, was captured. On the roof Mullen had gained was a light shaft seven feet wide. Straight for it he dashed.

"You'd better not try it," shouted the pursuing policeman.

But with an oath Mullen ran to the edge and hurled himself into the air. He fell just short and, his hands gripping the coping, he swung with his legs down the light shaft. Looking across at the policeman, he said: "You'll never get me."

Then he tried to draw himself up, but his fingers slipped. Suddenly, as he gave a fierce look at Pierce, his hands lost their hold and he crashed down the six stories to the court below.

So ended the career of "Red" Mullen.

Nordica's Divorce Is Final.

NEW YORK, July 26.—More than three months having elapsed since Mme. Nordica obtained an interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from her husband, Herr Zoltan Doehme, and that judgment having been sustained by the appellate division of the supreme court, despite the protest of Herr Doehme, Justice Scott today made Mme Nordica's decree final. Teron Davis, counsel for Herr Doehme, announced that he would take an appeal from Justice Scott's decision.

Old Indian Guide Dead.

SAULT STE. MARIE, MICH., July 26.—Antonio Payquette, an Ojibway Indian guide and mail carrier, who carried the mail to the Slate river, Manitowa river and over the snow with dog sleds years before the railroads, is dead, aged 85. With the late Indian guide, John Boucher, he brought the news of Lincoln's assassination to the upper peninsula.

THREE RULERS MAY MEET IN BOHEMIA

Austrian Emperor and Kaiser, and Probably British King, Will See Maneuvers.

By MALCOLM CLARKE.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

BERLIN, July 26.—News comes from Vienna that Emperor William, as the guest of Emperor Joseph, will be present at the Austrian military maneuvers, which are to take place in the beginning of September in the southern part of Bohemia. On the first of September the two monarhs will meet at Steckna and will make their headquarters at the magnificent palace owned by Prince Windisch Graetz, near that city.

It is also stated that on his way to Steckna, Emperor William will make a short stop at Marienbad, where King Edward at that time will be taking the cure, and that the kaiser will endeavor to bring about a meeting of King Edward with Emperor Francis Joseph, so that it is not unlikely that the king will accompany his nephew and witness a part of the military maneuvers.

SHIP HELPLESS BECAUSE CAPTAIN HAD GONE BLIND

NEW YORK, July 26.—The steamship Indravelli arrived here today from China and Philippine ports carrying as passengers Capt. Fritz and his 17-year-old daughter of the Nova Scotia ship Troop, which the Indravelli came upon off Horsburg light, helpless, because her commander had gone blind.

Horsburg light is off Singapore, and when the Indravelli overhauled the Troop the ship was flying signals of distress. The steamer towed the ship to Singapore and then resumed her voyage to New York with Capt. Fritz and his daughter as passengers en route to their home in Nova Scotia. Capt. Fritz became blind because of the excessive glare of the sun upon the tropical sea and also because of his inordinate consumption of tobacco. He would frequently smoke as many as 18 cigars a day.

Capt. Fritz's sight improved a little on the trip from Singapore, and he can see somewhat dimly. The Troop was given over to the command of Capt. Wynans.

When a woman gives up it is because she has gone to the utmost limit of strength and endurance. It is a marvel how women will stagger on under the daily household burdens when the whole body is racked with pain.

For the nervous, run-down condition which so many women experience, as a result of overstrain in household cares, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the weak stomach by curing diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood of poisons which cause rheumatism and other painful diseases. It nourishes the nerves, and builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for weakness, nervousness and debility.

"I want the whole world to know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Helen Hardgrove, of Bangs, Knox Co., O. "I had many of the ills of woman's life. My lungs and throat troubled me besides, and I had rheumatism. About a year ago I had to give up work. I was so bad I had heard so much about your medicine I thought I would try it. I took four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and by the time I had taken half of the first bottle I began to gain, and kept on getting better. And now I have no more of my old ailments and am entirely cured of rheumatism. I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
